2,000 Flee Homes as Mississippi Levee Breaks

SECTION DESERTED AS FLOOD WATERS RAVAGE ARKANSAS

United States District Engineer Is Informed of Break in Levee at Laconia Circle.

RED CROSS UNITS RUSH WITH AID

Railroad Connections Are Said to Be in Imminent Peril. Wide Section of Country Under Water.

Memphis, Tenn., March 29.—(P)—The levee at Laconia Circle, Ark., broke at 5:30 p. m. today, according to a telephone communication reaching the office of the United States district engineer here late tonight.

About 2,000 persons, 200 of whom are white, were driven from their homes by the flood waters, which poured into the thousands of acres of alluvial farm lands.

The levee reported carried away at 8 o'clock was later denied by United States government officials who heard that the levee had only been partially broken.

Major D. H. Connolly, in charge of the first and second levee districts, received a telephone communication at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon from Snow Lake, the only town in the flooded basin, that the levee had not broken, but that the report was circulated when government boats sounded warning whistles that the break appeared imminent.

It was not until 11:45 o'clock tonight that Gilliam Rolfe, in charge of riverment work, was able to reach a telephone and advise Major Connolly that the remaining portion of the levee had tumbled into the river.

RED CROSS UNITS READY TO START

Washington, March 29.—(United News.)—Additional Red Cross relief units will be ordered immediately to the flood districts at Knoxville, Ark., and the vicinity where breaks in the Mississippi river levee have been reported, Douglas Griesemer, director of public information announced tonight.

"The Red Cross anticipates breaking of the levee at points along the southern Mississippi river," Griesemer said, "and although relief units are in the vicinity, additional aid will be ordered to proceed to the newly inundated districts at once."

He said that army officials throughout the flood areas are cooperating with the Red Cross in relief work, and that an effort will be made to have tents and food sent to Knoxville without delay.

TRAINMAN BRINGS NEWS OF PERIL

Helena, Ark., March 29.—(P)—Trainmaster N. R. Nash reported here late today that while the levee on the

Bond Commission Is Pushing Plans For Use of Funds

Report Tuesday Shows Much Preliminary Work Completed, and Economies Effected.

LENGTHY REPORT IS MADE TO MAYOR

Plans Made for Rapid and Economical Completion of $8,000,000 Improvements Authorized.

Preliminary work in anticipation of the expenditure of the $8,000,000 bond issue money, expected soon to be available, has already resulted in the saving of large sums through elimination of unnecessary expenses, and economies made possible by careful consideration of the projects to be constructed, it is pointed out in a report of the bond commission, submitted Tuesday to Mayor I. N. Ragsdale.

The report, which was submitted to the mayor by Frank Neely, chairman of the commission, also shows that every preliminary step possible is being prosecuted with vigor and, when the money is finally made available, actual work on the various projects will be ready to start without further delay and be rushed to completion as rapidly and as economically as possible.

Although the bonds were not offered for public sale, the Atlanta bond sinking fund commission, cooperating with the bond commission and other departments of the city government, have purchased a total of $198,000 worth of the paper in order to expedite mapping of plans and prosecuting, just as far as possible, the program. This will facilitate rapid and economic administration of the money just as soon as it becomes available and will permit the different projects contained in the issue from overlapping or being hastily thrown together when the funds are finally released, it is pointed out.

Marked progress on preliminary plans of every one of the five projects is recorded in the report. School architects are now preparing drawings designed to standardize schools for which a fund of $3,500,000 is contained in the issue; drawings which contemplate the lowering of railway tracks which would pass beneath the proposed Pryor street and Central avenue viaducts, carrying an allocation of $1,000,000, are in progress; topographic, triangulation, property line and underground surveys in preparation for reconstruction of Atlanta's sewerage system are in progress; bond allocation of $1,000,000 is made for this purpose; waterworks improvements also are being planned under the supervision of the contract committee headed by J. M. McCullough, and although actual work on plans for the new city hall are so dependent and interlocked with the viaducts as to make definite drawings impossible prior to settlement of the viaduct elevations, work of obtaining options on property which the city must acquire in order to construct the new building has practically been completed.

Every preliminary step possible is

DRY BODY CHARGED WITH SUBSIDIZING HOUSE COMMITTEE

Wheeler Said To Be Paying Expenses of Congress Body To Issue Prohi Propaganda.

Washington, March 29.—(P)—A charge that Wayne B. Wheeler has been paying the expenses of a house committee to enable it to issue propaganda for the benefit of the Anti-Saloon league was made tonight by G. C. Hinckley, national secretary of the Association against the Prohibition amendment.

The charge was made in a formal statement, prompted by the announcement yesterday by Representative Hudson, republican, Michigan, that he favored a congressional investigation of the association and its financials. Hudson is chairman of the alcoholic liquor traffic committee.

Says Wheeler Pays Expenses. "It has just been disclosed," said Mr. Hinckley, "that Wayne B. Wheeler, general counsel of the Anti-Saloon league, has been paying the expenses of the committee on alcoholic liquor traffic, of which Mr. Hudson is the chief factotum, to enable it to issue propaganda for the benefit of the league. This is probably the first time in history of the government that any private organization was able to own a committee of congress for propaganda purposes."

Asserting that "all the money collected by the league has been used for the single purpose of controlling politics, either directly or indirectly," Mr. Hinckley continued.

"In addition to the money collected it has used the government as its propaganda agent to get its partisan literature into the hands of the people, and it has even bulldozed congress into voting large appropriations for sending its representatives to Europe on propaganda junkets and then had the reports of its meetings printed and distributed at the expense of the government."

Slush Fund Charged. The Anti-Saloon league, Mr. Hinckley said, "never has accounted to the public or its contributors for more than a mere fraction of the great slush fund it has used." On the other hand, he added, the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment has welcomed congressional investigation and has made public the names of its larger contributors.

Hinckley's statement said that Mr. Hudson formerly was superintendent of the Michigan Anti-Saloon league, and in congress, it added, he is "still true to his old master."

"Uncle Alec" Mourns Alone— OLD MAN ASKS "SOMEONE" TO JUST "TURN BOB LOOSE"

"Bob," His Dog, Is Missing

BY HERB McCUSKER.

If you don't care for dogs, it scarcely will be worth your while reading further of this yarn.

For the only provocation whatsoever for its creation is embraced in the fact that a dog happened to love an 80-year-old man, and because that 80-year-old man reciprocated that love a thousandfold.

Otherwise, this is merely another one of those "sob stories."

The man is "Uncle Alec," Mable, who, it may truthfully be said, is loved by everyone in the neighborhood of Mableton, Ga., in Cobb county, where the veteran resides and where his sire before him lived. The dog is "Bob," a five-year-old bird dog, and reputed by many Atlanta sportsmen as being one of the best dogs that ever retrieved game.

If you were to visit "Uncle Alec" today, you would find a dejected, white-haired farmer whose declining years seem to be shadowed by a gloom and sorrow. If you had known him before, you would at once note the absence of his customary geniality—and the absence, at his side, of "Bob," his constant companion.

Five years ago, "Uncle Alec" received a tiny, squirming little pup. The little fellow named Bob, and he was a Carolina dog, but he appeared to realize that such trials and tribulations are part of a "dog's life." So he didn't howl or fret, but instantly made up to his new master—the gentle, smiling, white-haired old man who fondled him to his breast and fetched milk and morsels to fill that void that had been created during the long journey in the baggage car.

Uncle Alec named his little orphan "Bob." Being a huskyman of distinction, Uncle Alec trained Bob in all the art of his breed. So capable did the growing dog become that Atlanta mimics began to seek his services, with the result that he was in

IS MAN WANTED, SAYS R. B. LOVETT, FREED ON BOND

Requisition Hearing for Man Indicted in Donaldson Murder Set for Thursday.

Ralph B. Lovett, wanted in Atlanta as an alleged accessory in the murder of Bert Donaldson, and now at liberty under a $10,000 bond in Lake Village, Ark., admitted Tuesday that he was the Lovett sought by Atlanta officials, according to news dispatches from the Arkansas town.

Extradition hearing, on requisition papers sent by Governor Clifford Walker, will probably be held at 10:30 o'clock Thursday morning. It was stated, W. A. (Dolph) Riley, special investigator for Solicitor General John A. Boykin, arrived in Little Rock Tuesday night, and after authorities there had studied the papers in the case, it was stated that there was little likelihood of the requisition being denied. This opinion, it was stated, was based upon past precedents set by the administration in Arkansas.

Boykin Amazed. Expressing utter amazement at the release Tuesday of Lovett in $10,000 bail following hearing on writ of habeas corpus filed by attorneys for the prisoner, Solicitor General Boykin declared that requisition papers had been secured as early as possible in the hope that an official of the state could reach Arkansas state before the suspect's release could be effected.

The solicitor said that he was astonished that a suspect to such a brutal murder would be allowed any bail.

The writ of habeas corpus was granted by Chancellor E. G. Hammock, of Dermott, and relatives of the suspect furnished the necessary $10,000 bond for his appearance before Governor Marlin.

Implicated in Plot. Lovett, with seven other men, was implicated in the plot to snuff out the life of Donaldson, noted bunco sleuth of the solicitor's staff, who was shot to death on July 20 by an assassin who was ambushed in a clothes closet in one of Atlanta's most fashionable hotels. His alleged part in the slaying was outlined in a confession, made by Charles H. Fitchett, who is being held incommunicado.

Marines Pass Through City China Bound

Two Special Trains Stop Here Today En Route To Quell Disorders.

Washington, March 29.—(P)—A revised schedule for the movement of the S. P. to Los Angeles and the A. T. & P. to San Diego. The second train will go over the same route as far as Los Angeles and will change there to the S. P. to San Diego.

One of the two nine special trains will leave for the west today. They will start from Quantico, Va., at 2 P. m. The first will follow the R. F. & P. to Richmond, the Southern railway to New Orleans, the G. C. L. to Houston and the Santa Fe to San Diego. The second train from Quantico to follow the same route and run as he second section of the first train. Two other trains will leave Quantico tomorrow, the first by the Richmond, Fredericksburg and Potomac line to Richmond, the Seaboard Air Line to Atlanta, the A. & W. P. to Montgomery, the L. & N. to New Orleans, the T. & P. to El Paso, the S. P. to Los Angeles and the A. T. & P. to San Diego.

The entire furnishings for this house will be supplied from the stocks of J. M. High company's houses furnishing departments. They have been selected and will be installed and arranged under supervision of this firm's interior decorating department.

TIME OF ARRIVAL NOT KNOWN HERE.

The two special marine trains will pass through the city en route to California but officials of the local offices had not learned late Tuesday just what time the trains would arrive and depart from this city.

The first train will have approximately 12 cars and will carry troops and equipment. The second special will consist of 14 cars and will also carry troops and equipment.

Neither of the trains are expected to stop over in Atlanta more than a few minutes, just long enough to change train crews and switch from the Seaboard to the Atlanta and West Point tracks, it was stated.

Junior League Edition Largest Week-Day Issue

You have in your hands the Junior League's special edition of The Atlanta Constitution, a publication which the organization of prominent young society women of this city has sponsored in order that it may raise funds with which to carry on the works of charity it has conducted for a number of years past.

This splendid edition—for which advertisements were sold and news "copy" assembled by the Junior League—consists of 92 pages and is the biggest week-day publication the south has ever known. Its worth and credit are readily discernible.

But below the surface of the mammoth newspaper lies a story of real, earnest, consistent labor of love for the poor and the unfortunate that could justly stand as an example to all. The young women of the Junior League have made it the overwhelming success it is on their own energy, resource and progressiveness. Its effect will be felt among the classes which the Junior League "mothers" long after it has gone into newspaper history as one of the most outstanding accomplishments of the publisher's craft Georgia has ever known.

Advertisers who have cooperated with the league in making the special issue a success have every reason to be gratified at the part they have played in the work. Not only have they received dollar value for their expenditures, but they have the satisfaction of knowing that a part of their money will go toward the improving of civic conditions which affect them and all others in the community.

To the Junior League, to the advertisers and to the public which will receive this product of the intelligence of Atlanta's finest young womanhood, The Constitution extends its heartiest felicitations.

It feels that it has aided in a work that is worthy in every way.

RADIO MEN HEAR SIMPLE REMEDY

Shift Frequency of All Broadcasting Stations Five Kilocycles, Advice of Chicago Supervisor.

BY ALFRED P. RECK.

Washington, March 29.—(United News.)—A simple suggestion—so simple that it seems absurd, was offered the federal radio commission as a solution for broadcasting interference.

"Shift the frequencies of all broadcasting stations five kilocycles and you will eliminate interference," E. A. Beane, department of commerce supervisor of radio for the Chicago district, declared during the first day of public hearings.

How this will remove the bugaboo of radio listeners is a mystery to the uninitiated, but theoretically and mathematically it works out, engineers agreed.

J. H. Dellenger, of the bureau of standards, backed Beane in his suggestion, and told the commission experiments conducted by the bureau and the navy department proved to be true.

All On Even Numbers.

At the present time all kilocycle frequencies of broadcasting stations are on even numbers and at intervals of 10. Beane's suggestion would continue the same interval but shift the frequency to an odd number. For example, a station broadcasting at 290 would be shifted to 295 or 293. You can't figure it out for yourself. Six topics have been set by the commission for discussion in an effort to solve many of the problems connected with radio.

REED AND SAPIRO WAGE WORD DUEL

Animosity of Two Men Plain; Organizer Testifies Articles in Ford's Paper Cut Income.

BY ALFRED P. RECK.

Detroit, March 29.—(United News.) A spirited battle of wits between Aaron Sapiro, Jewish attorney, and Senator James A. Reed, defender of Henry Ford, enlivened Tuesday afternoon's session of Sapiro's million-dollar libel suit against the billionaire automobile manufacturer.

Every time Reed drew a question in his slow Missouri draw, the dapper little plaintiff would ruffle up like a game cock and by the time the senator had completed his query Sapiro would be shooting back his reply, brisk and incisive.

The animosity that these two opposite types bore each other became evident as the trial which is to decide whether Ford libeled Sapiro in his Dearborn Independent, continued.

Even before taking the witness for cross-examination, Reed had succeeded in breaking in on the testimony long enough to demand that Sapiro submit his income derived from the cooperative marketing enterprises through which Ford claims he molested the American farmer of millions of dollars.

The attorney who started life as a San Francisco newsboy testified that at the peak of his activity in 1920 his fees as counsel for the cooperatives amounted to $61,531.31. His total profits between the years of 1916 and 1926 amounted to $398,822.80.

Until Senator Reed aroused him, Sapiro testified in a clear, even tone, lecturing the jury most of the day

Avondale Unit To Play Big Part in Home Exhibit

J. M. High Company To Have Complete Charge at Covington Road "Home Beautiful."

One of the first houses you will want to see in The Constitution's "Home Beautiful" exhibit, opening at 1 o'clock next Sunday afternoon, is located at 10 Covington road, Avondale Estates.

The entire furnishings for this house will be supplied from the stocks of J. M. High company's houses furnishing departments. They have been selected and will be installed and arranged under supervision of this firm's interior decorating department.

Cooperating with J. M. High company in the furnishing of this house will be the Cable Piano company, which will furnish a Baby Grand piano, and the Georgia Railway & Power company, which will supply the electrical equipment and appliances. This is a two-story house in English design, with living room, dining room, breakfast room, kitchen and reception hall downstairs. There are three bedrooms and sleeping porch on the second floor, also two modern bathrooms. All these rooms open into a central upstairs hall. The sleeping porch will be fitted up as a nursery for the exhibit.

Harold Short, who is in charge of the interior decorating department of J. M. High company, is more than enthusiastic about the attractive manner in which this house is to be furnished and gave The Constitution a detailed description.

The reception hall will have a console table and mirror, one hall chair and a bench. A Lilliput rug in colors of blue and gold will be used. The living room draperies will be made of Austrian damask in colors of rose, green and gold. They will hang under hand-painted cornices. Glass curtains made of imported silk casement cloth will be used in this room.

The furniture will include davenport and chair to match, Dugan Pythe occasional table, decorated end tables, mahogany chairs and three floor lamps, and Baby Grand piano.

NEW TROOPS LAND BENEATH MUZZLES OF CHINESE GUNS

English Sailors Engage Orientals in Slight Skirmish at Changsa; Surrender Demanded.

CHINESE GENERAL PLANS PUNISHMENT

Commander at Wuhu Officially Demands Indemnity of $87,500 After City Is Shelled.

BY FRANCIS MISSELWITZ.

Shanghai, March 29.—(United News.)—(11:30 p. m.)—While the guns of Chinese river forts menaced foreign ships Great Britain and France tonight ordered additional troops to Shanghai.

From Hongkong and French Indo-China word of new troop movements reached the city.

As the nationalist government held its first meeting since capture of Shanghai anti-foreign sentiment in Yangtze river towns and in others further inland increased. Following a slight engagement between British sailors and Chinese at Changsha, the Chinese commissioner of foreign affairs demanded that British sailors involved in the clash be surrendered "to permit us to take drastic action."

An indemnity of approximately $87,500 from the British authorities who fired on the city was demanded by the Chinese commander at Wuhu.

Ultimatum Delivered. The demand was made in the form of an ultimatum. It stated that the British must pay $25,000 for each of 35 Chinese drowned many weeks ago when a British merchant vessel struck a launch. Otherwise, it warned, the captain of the steamer would be seized.

Changsha became the point of chief anti-foreign demonstration Tuesday. Immediate evacuation of all British nationals from that place, which is in Hunan province on the Slang river, was ordered by the authorities. The Chinese commissioner of foreign affairs also demanded withdrawal of British warships and was understood to have proclaimed that all extrajurisdictional rights formerly held by British subjects there had been cancelled. British officials here received dispatches stating that the situation in Changsha was extremely bad.

At both Wuhu and Nanjing guns mounted by Chinese on high points overlooking the river were in position to fire on foreign vessels at any moment.

More Armored Cars. British officials received word that more armored cars and additional artillery and infantry units had been ordered rushed from Hongkong Tuesday. The units consisted of the first field brigade, the fourth pack brigade and a signal detachment of the British royal artillery. They were to be accompanied by the thirteenth

ATLANTA A. S. M. E.'S ARE ADDRESSED BY CALVIN W. RICE

Calvin W. Rice, of New York, secretary of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, addressed the Georgia Tech chapter of the society Tuesday afternoon in the Mechanical building on the school campus. He described his recent trip to South America and discussed engineering ethics.

Mr. Rice stopped in Atlanta for two days on his way from Florida to Kansas City, Mo., for which point he left Tuesday night. Monday night he was guest of honor at a meeting of the Atlanta A. S. M. E. chapter, at the Atlanta Athletic club, where he outlined activities of the society.

"The leading engineering nation of the world today is Italy," Mr. Rice said in his talk Monday night.

Besides mechanical engineers, representatives of the electrical, civil and chemical engineering societies were present at the gathering Monday night.

when a committee was appointed to organize the Georgia Society of Engineers. Professor C. E. Coolidge is secretary of the local mechanical engineers. Those on the committee are Earl Scott, A. M. Schoen, Mat Harrison and Professor J. L. Daniel, of the Georgia Tech chemistry department.

BOYS' HIGH R. O. T. C. UNIT TO PARADE THIS MORNING

Participating in one of the years most outstanding ceremonies at Boys' High school, the R. O. T. C. unit of the school will parade this morning, in honor of Colonel Raoul, of the fourth corps area, and inspectors from the war department. Parents of the students also will be present as honor guests of the occasion. The company, battalion and staff sponsors then will be presented the battalion.

Inspectors are here for the formal inspection, one of the details necessary to determine whether Boys' High against will be rated an honor school, as it was last year. The unit has been working steadily all year under direction of Sergeant Short, commandant of the R. O. T. C. unit, and his staff of cadet officers. The parade will begin at 10:45 o'clock.

LAST RITES TOADY FOR SIDNEY BRAIN

Funeral services for Sidney Brain, Atlanta chemical engineer, who died suddenly Monday afternoon while walking from an office to the elevator on the fifteenth floor of the Citizens and Southern Bank building, will be held this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from Oakland City Methodist church. The Rev. W. W. Carroll and the Rev. R. Z. Tyler will officiate. Interment will be in Oakland cemetery. Officers and members of the Order of Lion commandery will have charge of services at the graveside. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Bertha Brain, and a son, Norman Brain. Awtry and Lowndes company in charge.

APPLING MURDER TRIAL WILL OPEN TODAY

Appling, Ga., March 29.—(P)—L. E. Blanchard, clerk of court for Columbia county, charged with killing Isaac Jones, well known business man, at Harlem, last November, will go on trial here tomorrow before Judge A. L. Franklin.

The case is attracting more attention than any murder trial held in this county in many years. A dispute over a negro who worked for Jones and who is said to have had an argument with Blanchard brought about the killing, it is claimed.

CONSTIPATION
30 YEARS

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN brought relief in two weeks!

Read Mr. Weller's sincere tribute to the power of ALL-BRAN in relieving this dread disease:

"I have been constipated for the last 30 years. Have taken stuff from all over the world without any result. A couple of weeks ago I got a package of your ALL-BRAN. Have taken two spoonfuls with sugar and milk at every meal and ever since I am not constipated any more."

G. WELLER
South San Francisco, Cal.

Constipation leads to more than forty serious diseases. Don't let it begin its deadly work on you. Headaches, pimples, spots before the eyes, dizziness—all are tell-tale symptoms.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is guaranteed to relieve constipation. Eat two tablespoonfuls daily—in chronic cases, with every meal.

Kellogg's is 100% bran—100% effective. Delicious with cream or milk—and add fruits or honey. Use in cooking. Served and sold everywhere. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek. Recipes on package.

Birdie E. Hirsh, Pupil of Hodgson, In Fine Recital

Hugh Hodgson, famous Atlanta pianist and instructor, presented his pupil, Birdie E. Hirsh, in recital Tuesday afternoon at his studio on Peachtree street.

Mrs. Hirsh's program included "The Well-Tempered Clavier," prelude and fugue in D major by Bach; "Sonata" in D minor, by Beethoven, a Chopin group prelude in B minor; waltz in E minor; Nocturne in E flat, and Impromptu Fantasia and the MacDowell, second Sonata Eroica, first movement.

Mrs. Hirsh has the temperament balanced with a well-grounded technique, placing her interestingly in the young artist class. Of the Chopin group the "Waltz in E Minor" was the outstanding number, and in the "Impromptu Fantasia" Mrs. Hirsh met all the rigid technical requirements with ease. Beethoven's "Sonata in D Minor" was beautifully essayed. In the final number the first movement of the MacDowell Sonata was played with taste and intelligent understanding of the work.

Concluding the musical, Mrs. Hodgson, assisted by Miss Caroline Gray, served the guests with tea and pastries. H. KNOX SPAIN.

We carefully check each step in laying a Barrett Specification Roof.

FIRST—alternate layers of Specification Felt and Pitch. Second—poured top coat of pitch. Finally—a slag or gravel wearing surface. And you have a Barrett Specification Roof.

With that roof goes a Surety Bond (issued by a nationally-known surety company) which guarantees you against repair expense for the next 20 years —until the year 1947. But that's not all! Many roofs of this type laid 35 or more years ago are still giving expense-free, weathertight service. That's why we (and we've had long experience with all kinds of roofs) recommend a Barrett Specification Roof as a sure solution of your roofing problem. Put it up to us.

Consolidation of State Tax Collections in One Office Urged in Auditor's Report

Sam J. Slate Makes Recommendations in Report on Comptroller's Department; Increased Revenue Shown.

All revenue collected by the state in taxation should be handled through one central office with one official responsible as the head of such a department, according to recommendations made public Tuesday by Sam J. Slate, state auditor, in submitting to the governor a report of his audit of the books of the state comptroller's department, covering the years 1924, 1925 and 1926.

The auditor recommends in addition that increased activity be shown in collection of delinquent taxes of all kinds; suggested that county tax collectors be made deputy sheriffs for the purpose of collecting delinquent taxes; recommended abandonment of personal bonds for tax collectors, and recommended establishment in the comptroller's department of a bureau of county accounts.

Increases Shown. Figures made public by the auditor show that the increase in taxes collected for ad valorem tax levies, inheritance taxes and public utility taxes increased from approximately $12,000,000 in 1924 to approximately $14,000,000 in 1926. Fulton county with payment of $1,703,921 led all the counties in the state in payment of taxes. Figures quoted by the auditor as part of the state's revenue do not include money collected from the gasoline tax, cigarette and cigar tax and other special taxes which are collected through other departments and bring the state's total revenue up to approximately $22,000,000 annually.

Auditor Slate complimented the staff of Comptroller General William A. Wright for the efficiency with which the affairs of the office have been handled. He complimented General Wright and his chief clerk, William B. Harrison, for the manner in which they have directed the affairs of the department.

Auditor's Views. In commenting on the report, Auditor Slate said:

"We have carefully analyzed the collection of taxes through the office of the comptroller general so that legislation that would improve collection can be carefully considered in the light of results now accomplished. Eventually Georgia should have one central department whose sole duty should be to collect the revenue of the state and all collections of all kinds; suggested that county tax collectors be made deputy sheriffs for the purpose of collecting delinquent taxes; recommended abandonment of

"The recommendations we shall make, the objects of which will be a more systematic system of collecting state taxes, have been repeatedly urged by the comptroller general in clear, forceful arguments in his report for the last 25 years, but we desire to reiterate them, sustained by figures for the last three years, to see if attention cannot be focused upon them."

"Comptroller General Wright has served the state ably and acceptably for 50 years and has in many reports endeavored to bring to legislative attention the need of improvement."

State Is Blamed. "Our state has never set up machinery necessary for the proper collection of taxes. Both the comptroller general and his efficient assistants are to be recommended and congratulated upon the showing that has been made in the past year, in spite of tax laws and tax machinery framed to collect about a million dollars, while now the collections in the comptroller general's office are about $17,000,000 and in all that time no additional clerical help was provided by the legislature, unless additional duties were required for the purpose of requiring all the time of the clerical assistance furnished."

"The time has now come, with heavy increase in expenditure and with heavy volume of collections, for the state to be more diligent in an effort to collect her delinquent taxes. The needs of the state are great; government operations cover more and more scope but we should not ask for additional taxation until all delinquent taxpayers pay their proportionate part of the cost of government, and until we make the effort to do this it is manifestly unfair in laying additional burdens upon those who have paid, while those who enjoy the benefits of government are escaping dues already found to be their part."

"Some changes in reporting have been agreed upon by this office and the comptroller general's office. These changes are for the purpose of securing statistical information. The books are neatly and accurately kept. I desire to personally make some expression of my appreciation for the comptroller general for the last three years. Both he and his efficient staff have in every way cooperated with us. Both he and his chief clerk, W. B. Harrison, have been of very great and valuable assistance to us."

LOVETT IS GIVEN FREEDOM ON BOND

In addition to Lovett, Fitchett implicated Jack Lance, Ike Sneed and Flim King, held in Fulton tower; Abe Nissenbaum, Ed Lee and Whitey Jones, fugitives in the murder plot.

MANHUT CONTINUES, DECLARES SOLICITOR.

On the heels of dispatches from Chattanooga, Tenn., that Charles H. Fitchett is now claiming an alibi to the killing of Bert Donaldson, criminal investigator, Solicitor General John A. Boykin Tuesday said that he would ask the grand jury to return a bill of indictment against Fitchett on the charge of murder.

indictment charging him with murder, but that the search for the four fugitives jointly indicted with Fitchett was being carried steadily forward. Fitchett recently confessed to having murdered Donaldson here on July 29, 1926.

The solicitor has previously declared that he had sufficient evidence in hand to convict the seven men named in the confession made by Fitchett regarding the murder plot, even if Fitchett had not made his incriminating statement.

Attorneys for the prisoner, who is being held in the Hamilton county jail in Chattanooga on a charge of passing a worthless check, made their fight Tuesday in federal court in Knoxville, Tenn., to obtain permission to communicate with Fitchett, when Federal Judge Xenophon held in ruling on a habeas corpus petition that such a proceeding was in the jurisdiction of the Tennessee state courts and would not be a proper matter to consider in federal court.

The attorneys were referred to Judge Charles D. Lusk of the Hamilton county criminal court in Chattanooga, who has previously declined to allow the attorneys to see their client.

The prisoner, in a letter alleged to have been smuggled out of the Hamilton county jail, claims that his wife and baby had been with him in his small runabout all during the summer and that he was not in Atlanta on the night the noted blue slench was murdered. Little credence was placed in the alleged letter.

LOVETT RELEASED ON HABEAS CORPUS.

Lake Village, Ark., March 29.—(AP) Ralph B. Lovett, arrested here Saturday as a suspect in connection with the murder of Bert Donaldson, criminal investigator in Atlanta, Ga., was released from custody in $10,000 bail following the granting of a writ of habeas corpus by Chancellor E. G. Hammock at Dermott.

BRITAIN AND FRANCE LAND MORE TROOPS

Infantry brigade of signalmen and a battalion of infantry from the Green Howards regiment.

It also was reported that France had decided to send another battalion of Annamite soldiers from French Indo-China.

With Y. M. C. A. S. other foreign owned public buildings and most foreign homes crowded with refugees, efforts on the part of American consular agents to bring remaining refugees to Shanghai were continued. Radio played an important part in the appeal of the United States government. In some cases individual Americans known to be in danger zones actually were paged by way of radio. Virtually all missionaries in the trouble area near the Yangtze and elsewhere own radio sets. Scattered Americans who have thus far refused to leave their homes are being urged to do so in a final effort to make them take no further chances on their lives.

MOBS SEEK IN VAIN TO BREAK BARRICADES.

Washington, March 29.—(United News.)—Attempts of mob violence to break through the barricades of the international settlement at Shanghai have been repulsed by border patrols and sentries. Rear Admiral Williams, in command of the American Asiatic fleet, has reported to the navy department that the situation in the native city at Shanghai continues, the admiral reported, but the international settlement and the French concession are quiet.

Though another day has passed without outbreaks against foreigners in China, American officials there are exerting every means to persuade their nationals to leave the danger zones. American Minister MacMurray at Peking has urged all Americans to evacuate the entire territory held by the Cantoneses. Radio warnings have been broadcast to missionaries in the interior, practically all of whom have radio receiving sets.

Wuhu Situation Worsens.

Rear Admiral Hough, commander of the American naval patrol on the Yangtze, reported that the situation at Wuhu is worse. It is believed most Americans have left, however.

Minister MacMurray forwarded to the state department an unsigned message from Nanking, apparently from Admiral Hough, urging "the immediate withdrawal of all Americans in nationalist territory and the undertaking of some action sufficiently strong to deter the perpetration of similar incidents elsewhere."

This message also stated: "The campaign of terrorism and insult to foreigners is not only officially continued and directed, but even prearranged."

BRITAIN IS PREPARING FOR SERIOUS TROUBLE.

London, March 29.—(United News.) Great Britain is preparing for more serious trouble in China.

Following the example of the United States the British government has ordered its nationals to evacuate Ichang, Changsha and Chungking. Authoritative statements made to the United News make it plain that this is the first move of a general policy looking to concentration of all British nationals at seaport towns where they can be more easily protected if the storm of anti-foreign feeling breaks.

British authorities say that it is impossible now even for officials on the scene of action to predict the next events in China, to forecast the future, to say whether extremists or the moderates will gain control of the nationalist party or what will happen if the extremists win.

Britain's intention to cooperate closely with the United States in any necessary action in or near Shanghai is the one thing of which British officials are certain. It also seems assured that if trouble comes the powers, as previously foreshadowed, will concentrate on holding some treaty ports, and especially Shanghai.

AMERICANS FLEEING FROM MANY PROVINCES.

Shanghai, March 29.—(AP)—Alarm at the growth of anti-foreign agitation in southern China has spread northward to districts threatened by the Cantoneses advance, and refugees, most of them Americans, are moving out of southern Shantung, Anhwei and southern Honan provinces.

Advices from Chefoo in Shantung say that all the American missionaries in east Shantung are on their way to Tsingtao, which is on the south-eastern coast, or to that city. Their exodus was caused by the uncertain future of the province and the events of the past week at Nanking and other nationalist-controlled cities. A Japanese destroyer arrived at Chefoo Sunday, and the American consul there has asked for a United States destroyer.

Major General John Duncan, commander of the British force, visited Captain Uyematsu, commander of the Japanese marine force, and discussed the general situation as to defense of the international zones.

Subsequently Major General Duncan conveyed to the authorities British sympathy on the attempted suicide of Lieutenant Kanoo Araki, who was in command of the guard at the Japanese consulate at Nanking at the time of the outrage there last Thursday.

Lieutenant Araki, who is in a grave condition, sought to kill himself aboard the Japanese flagship Tone this morning after reporting details of the sinking of the consulate. Apparently he was weighed down by a sense of responsibility for the events there, although it was stated that he had held the fire of his force of seven sailors only because he feared shooting would mean the massacre of those under his protection.

BISHOP MIKELL WILL BE SPEAKER AT UNION SERVICE

Right Rev. H. J. Mikell, bishop of the diocese of Atlanta, will be the preacher at the Union Lenten service this week at the Church of Our Saviour, on the corner of Highland and Los Angeles avenues, one block north of Virginia avenue.

Since arrival of Father Joseph William Gubbins, new rector of this church, less than a month ago, a large class for confirmation has been formed, and under the instruction of Father Gubbins and Lay leaders W. G. Hastings and A. H. Thomas, the class has been prepared for the bishop's administration of the rite. This will take place at the service Thursday night at the Church of Our Saviour.

Father Gubbins has held daily services at the Church of Our Saviour at 9:45 o'clock and 4 o'clock during Lent. Daily services are not confined to the Lenten season, and will be continued throughout the year.

TO AWAKEN MAN PORTER SUMMONED FINDS HIM DEAD

Chicago, March 29.—(AP)—Edward A. Holden, 65, a north side merchant, was found dead in his berth on a Chicago & Alton train when it arrived here today from St. Louis. His throat was slashed and a razor was found in his hand. He had left a call for 5:30 o'clock. The porter, going to awaken him, found the body.

Mrs. Holden said she had expected her husband home today from Hot Springs, Ark., and was unable to give any motive for suicide.

BENEFIT ASSOCIATION TERMINATES SESSIONS

With a class of instruction in rituals and laws conducted by Miss Frances D. Partridge, supreme record keeper of the Woman's Benefit association, as the principal feature of the Tuesday morning session at the Henry Grady hotel, the first quadrennial Georgia convention of that fraternity closed its two-day session Tuesday.

A feature of the afternoon program was an entertainment at the home of Mrs. Jennet Brown, on Rumson road for the benefit of the visiting delegates.

Mrs. W. B. Foster

Augusta, Ga.—"Motherhood left me with a severe case of feminine trouble. I was so weak and nervous that I could scarcely move, my back ached and I suffered a great deal of distress and pain. I was a physical and nervous wreck when I happened to see Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription advertised, and started at once to take it. By the use of this wonderful medicine I was entirely restored to health and strength. It gave me a new lease on life. 'Favorite Prescription' is a godsend to the ailing woman. ## Three Confidence-Creating Endorsements and Three 1927 Advances

In these days of obviously high-pressure selling, more and more people are turning quietly to those things that reflect instead high-pressure satisfaction among owners.

Nowhere in motor car history will one find an endorsement equal to the intense owner loyalty of the Franklin.

Nowhere will one find power reliability endorsed so completely and dramatically as aviation has done in adopting Franklin's fundamental principle of air-cooling with its outstanding results.

Nowhere will one find so widespread a reputation as Franklin enjoys of being the best built car today.

Only strict adherence for over twenty-five years to its original vision of never substituting or compromising with principles or quality, could have brought about this high-pressure satisfaction.

And never in its history were fineness in product and fineness in result so pronounced as in the 25th Anniversary Franklin.

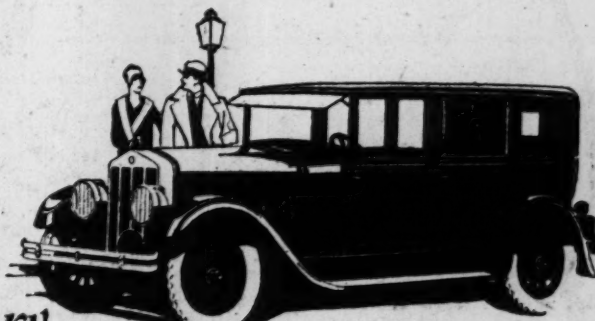

Its new power comes with more than exceptional pick-up for the tight places—it comes with an ability for high, sustained speeds without parallel. That is air-cooled power reliability. There can be no variation, no cooling troubles. That stands by itself among motor cars.

Also by itself is the new smoothness, the big advance of 1927. This is constant—as free from vibration at 50 and up as at 20. And being a part of basic car design, it lasts as long as the car itself—more of that original and unique vision of sustaining high-pressure satisfaction.

Building on this constantly fine and constantly improving foundation, and on the unusual comfort, handling ease, safety, efficiency and dependability which have never ceased to accompany it, Franklin is now producing a car which to many people has no superior anywhere today. And in keeping with today's trend, it is offered at the most favorable prices in Franklin history.

Proper Training of Youth BECK TELLS ROTARIANS SOME OF PROBLEMS Necessary for Leadership

Cameron Beck, personnel director of the New York Stock exchange organization, and one of the foremost authorities on employment relations in this country, was the principal speaker at the weekly luncheon Tuesday of the Atlanta Rotary club, at the Capital City club.

The role that employers of America can and should play in developing the integrity of youth was the keynote of Mr. Beck's talk. He recounted a few incidents that stood out in his experience as personnel director of an organization having the largest number of boys in their teens on its payroll, he declared.

"The New York Stock exchange is more concerned with the morals of its young employees than are the parents in many cases," Mr. Beck declared. "Those men who stand out as leaders of Wall street and of the nation are seriously interested in the proper training of youths for future leadership."

In relation to personnel work there are four fundamental principles that must be borne in mind, the speaker asserted. "These are, responsibility to the boss, individual responsibility to the individual on the payroll, civility and responsibility on a part of the concern and responsibility to those who

Second Tag Sale Set for Thursday To Aid Veterans

Falling short by $700 of an amount needed to send every Confederate veteran in Fulton county to the annual Confederate reunion to be held in Tampa, Fla., next week, in a tag sale last Saturday, another tag sale will be staged Thursday, it was announced Tuesday afternoon by Mrs. A. O. Woodward, general chairman of the sale.

Permission has been granted by Mayor I. N. Ragsdale to Mrs. Woodward to conduct the tag day sale. A sale was held last Saturday but when returns were checked only $500 had been received and the amount needed to send all veterans to Florida is more than $1,200, Mrs. Woodward stated.

A program of plans for the reunion in Florida next week follows:

The first session is the meeting of the Sons of Confederate Veterans on the night of April 5. First meeting of the veterans is on the morning of April 6. The parade on April 8 winds up the reunion. Headquarters for the reunion are at the Hotel Tampa Bay, headquarters of the Sons of Confederate Veterans at the Florida hotel.

Sons of Confederate Veterans will leave Atlanta on the Kansas City special on Monday night, April 4, at 8:30 p. m., arriving at Tampa Tuesday afternoon, April 5, at 4:10 p. m. Train does not ordinarily carry a through sleeper, but through sleepers are provided and reservations can be obtained at Southern railroad office, and special information can be obtained there from E. E. P. or W. T. Crane.

Road-trip tickets for veterans and those traveling with the veterans for their protection, $11.25 for all others, $17.50. Sleeping car accommodations extra.

Staterooms are not open to the public but only to the members of the various organizations. All veterans are entitled to the rate whether they are members of the organization or not. Certificates for veterans can be obtained from their camps, or they will be furnished by John Ashley Jones, 609 Isaac-Horrell building.

Certificates for the Sons of Confederate Veterans, their families, sponsors, matrons, chaplains, maids of honor and members of the Ladies' Memorial association will be furnished by John Ashley Jones, 609 Isaac-Horrell building.

Members of the United Daughters of the Confederacy can obtain information about their meeting and certificates from either of the following ladies: Mrs. E. B. Williams, 122 Crumley street, telephone Main 0425, matron president of the Fulton chapter, or Mrs. C. L. Anderson, 207 North Highland avenue, telephone Walnut 2495, president of the Atlanta chapter.

There will be numbers of side trips and special rates from Tampa to other points in Florida and to Havana, Cuba, and return.

GEORGIA EDITOR WILL SPEAK TODAY TO MASONIC CLUB

F. A. Wilson-Lawrence, of The Atlanta Georgian, will be principal speaker at the regular weekly luncheon of the Masonic club today at 12:30 o'clock at the Henry Grady hotel. In addition to his address an interesting musical program has been arranged. Every Mason in the city has a special invitation to be present. Rev. N. R. High Moor, president of the club, will preside.

TRAINING CAMPS VALUE EXPLAINED TO ATLANTA LIONS

Colonel Robert H. Peck, of the United States army, was principal speaker Tuesday at the weekly luncheon of the Lions club, at the Wine-coff hotel. Citizens' military training camps in developing young men of America were main points in his address.

Miss Helen Battle and Miss Mildred Battle featured in the musical program which was in charge of J. E. Jordan, Joseph B. Wolfe, president of the Lions, presided.

RAINS PREDICTED FOR CITY TODAY; MORE BALMY DAYS

Light rains late this afternoon to continue through the night are expected, following several days of beautiful spring weather, according to C. F. von Herrmann, local meteorologist.

Temperatures today are not expected to vary very much from those of Tuesday when a low and high mark of 49 and 63, respectively, were recorded.

Rains are expected to be of short duration and a return to clear spring weather is expected during the latter part of the week.

LEE R. MORRIS HELD AFTER RAID AT STILL

Lee Roy Morris, 30, was held Tuesday morning by United States Commissioner

L. S. Ledbetter for the federal grand jury on prohibition charges. Commissioner Ledbetter fixed bond at $2,000 on the charges of distilling and possessing 200 gallons of whiskey.

WILD CHASE ENDS WITH LIQUOR, AUTO, M-A-N IN CUSTODY

H. C. Sheffield, 25, of Canton, was arrested and lodged in Fulton tower Tuesday morning by County Policemen Claude Webb and Curtis Webb on a charge of violating the prohibition law, following a daring chase of approximately five miles which resulted in confiscation of Sheffield's automobile, and 75 gallons of corn liquor. The chase began on Peachtree road and ended in the heart of Atlanta when Sheffield was forced to bring his car to a stop in obedience to a traffic signal at the intersection of Spring and Marietta streets.

He is being held in default of $500 bond.

JURIST PAYS FINE IN FIGHTING CASE

Griffin, Ga., March 29.—(Special.) Police court records of Griffin show that Judge James Flynt, representative from Spalding county in the state legislature, has assumed full responsibility for the recent fight in which he and Judge Robert Cumming, ordinary of Spalding county, engaged, and has paid a fine of $7.50. The case was settled out of court, the charge of quarreling and fighting against Judge Cumming was dismissed.

The two prominent Spalding county citizens engaged in a personal altercation February 28 in Judge Flynt's office and for reasons they would never divulge. Both were badly hurt before friends arrived upon the scene and separated them.

ANNOUNCEMENT

Friday, April 1st, 1927, we will open a Buick Service Station in West End for the convenience of our owners in that section, it will be at 587 W. Whitehall Street, next door to the Hall Davis Motor Company, and one block south of Gordon Street.

The opening of this service station is in line with our policy of making Buick the most desirable car in Atlanta to own, for any car is worthless without adequate service facilities.

There are about 4,000 Buicks in Atlanta—more than any other make except Ford—and a large number of them are in West End, or out in that direction; consequently we feel it is our duty to these Buick owners to do everything in our power to aid them in getting the greatest possible satisfaction out of their automobile investment.

Mr. W. J. Davis, who has been assistant manager at our North Avenue Service Station, will be in charge and we assure our owners of the same courteous pains-taking service that has made our main service station so popular.

of sales of more than $46,000,000 in the last three years for the residential developments under his direction. He has been identified with the outstanding Florida developments, as publisher of the Miami Herald.

Three sentences covered it. One revealed a falling off in net income since the Independent published a series of anti-Jewish articles with which Sapiro later was connected. The other two stated that since the alleged libelous publications no farmers had called upon Sapiro to form them into a cooperative agency and that only three established cooperatives had sought his services or advice.

Sapiro's success required more than a day for telling from the witness stand—a meager childhood existence, life in an orphanage, brilliancy in studies and quick rise in professional life.

Such things as his plan for cooperatives being adopted entirely or in part in 40 states, his appearance before the supreme court of the United States and the high courts of 15 states and his addressing the legislatures of six commonwealths were touched upon as incidents.

Most of the day, however, was devoted to argument over the legality of admitting Sapiro's figures of income as an evidence of damage done by the Dearborn Independent articles.

FLOODS ENDANGER GREAT TERRITORY

Mississippi river near Laconia Circle had not gone through, it had saved the crown of the top and was in danger of going through any minute.

There was still hope for emergency work to prevent a break which would flood the lower part of Phillips county and Desha county. A special train had gone into the Snow Lake territory to carry out those desiring to leave tonight. It was improbable that regular train service would be maintained through the Laconia district tonight.

Whistles blowing a warning caused the previous report that the levee had already broken.

A half acre of woodland outside the Laconia Circle levee sloughed away into the Mississippi just before the government snag boat started its warning whistles, railroad employees reaching here tonight said.

Refugees will be housed in box cars and national guard tents. Major Sam C. Herrin, of Little Rock tonight dispatched a request for 200 additional licity director and sales director of Venetian Islands, as publicity director and associate sales director of Miami Shores, and is now president of the Southern States Securities corporation, handling the Coral Gables Consolidated securities. He is a member of the boards of directors of the Rotary club, the Ad club and the City club of Miami.

Beauty Is Feature.
Mr. Riach said he was immediately impressed by the beauty and advantages of Avondale Estates, asserting his conviction that they were not matched for completeness, for artistic and scientific values, in the south and probably not in the United States.

"Mr. Riach has a name throughout the United States as a real estate sales executive of the largest connections who has never employed the so-called 'high pressure' methods of exploitation," said Mr. Willis, owner of Avondale Estates, announcing the new appointment. "He has never undertaken a commission or venture on which he has not first himself been 'sold' thoroughly."

"In view of this, it is significant that Mr. Riach, coming to Atlanta after association with several of the largest residential developments in the history of the United States, visited Avondale Estates as his first move, viewed the development in all its aspects of beautiful homes, 14 miles of paved street frontage, riding stables, golf course, lake, swimming pool, business center, parks and schools, and in less than three hours survey announced himself as eager to have a part in its continued development."

Mr. Riach's enthusiasm was apparent in his personal statement confirming the news of his connection with Avondale Estates.

Monument to Courage.
"Atlantans who have watched the steady growth of this new city may have the perspective of the greatness of the enterprise and its achievement," he said. "But to one coming here for a first view of the realized dream of a modern new city, the inescapable impression is that of a monument prospect of contented homeowners, a more thoughtful design of comfort and beauty, and a greater promise for the future."

"It is the future of Avondale Estates that appeals to me even more strongly than the present. The American public is the most intelligent buying public in the world. It can't be fooled. It is going to buy for intrinsic values, whether the purchase is of homes, automobiles or any other commodity. Therefore, it is going to recognize the unusual advantages in Avondale Estates and to express this recognition substantially."

The dream of Mr. Willis of a 15,000 city on his holdings is a vision of which it is easy to see the realization."

Mr. Riach said he was particularly impressed by the unmistakable evidence of a warm community spirit in the new city, which finds expression in the social activities of the Avondale Community club and in organized work for welfare of the Avondale schools and community development generally. This club, of which Avondale residents and property owners are members, is one of the most attractively equipped and enthusiastically supported social organizations about Atlanta.

Explains Contracts.
Sapiro spent hours explaining every detail of the contracts he had drawn up for wheat and tobacco growers in various parts of the country. Then came the break. Senator Reed suddenly interrupted with a question about the witness' income. That started the spectacular matching of wits that continued throughout the balance of the day and which probably will be resumed at the opening of court Wednesday.

Senator Reed declined to reveal how long he will keep Sapiro in the witness chair.

"He'll have to stay there until I get through with him," the senator said. "It all depends on what evidence I am able to get."

Interest in how long Sapiro will remain on the stand has been increased by the report that Henry Ford will be the next witness. Although he has lived in Detroit all of his life, Detroiters really don't know the manufacturer whose name is better known than the name of their own city.

Ford Rumor Spread.
An illustration of this was presented Tuesday when a tall gray-haired man wandered into the federal court building. He bore a striking resemblance to Henry Ford and the word spread rapidly that it was Ford. A court officer stepped up politely to escort him to a seat at the defense counsel table and even news photographers began touching off their flash-light powder in their eagerness to turn in the first "shots" of the great man. Then the man announced that he was James E. Goodrich, of Blackman Village, a Detroit suburb. The incident was in the nature of a dress rehearsal of Ford's appearance in the building.

When Federal Judge Raymond announced adjournment for the day Sapiro and Reed were exchanging sharp repartee. Reed had begun digging into names, places and dates, apparently attempting to nail down the allegedly libelous charge that Sapiro belonged to a band of international Jews intent on setting themselves up as dictators of the world's food supply. Sapiro answered rapidly. Every detail seemed to be on the tip of his tongue.

AARON SAPIRO SHOWS DROP IN INCOME.

Detroit, Mich., March 29.—(AP)—Calmly, almost casually, with no trace of anger or bitterness in his voice, Aaron Sapiro today told a federal court jury his story of alleged libels by Henry Ford and the automobile manufacturer's weekly, the Dearborn Independent, for which he asks $1,000,000.

Three sentences covered it. One revealed a falling off in net income since the Independent published a series of anti-Jewish articles with which Sapiro later was connected. The other two stated that since the alleged libelous publications no farmers had called upon Sapiro to form them into a cooperative agency and that only three established cooperatives had sought his services or advice.

Sapiro's success required more than a day for telling from the witness stand—a meager childhood existence, life in an orphanage, brilliancy in studies and quick rise in professional life.

Such things as his plan for cooperatives being adopted entirely or in part in 40 states, his appearance before the supreme court of the United States and the high courts of 15 states and his addressing the legislatures of six commonwealths were touched upon as incidents.

Most of the day, however, was devoted to argument over the legality of admitting Sapiro's figures of income as an evidence of damage done by the Dearborn Independent articles.

fronting both the listening public and the broadcasting station operator. They are:

First, limitation of the broadcasting band.

Second, limitation of power.

Third, assignment of frequencies.

Fourth, simultaneous broadcasting.

Fifth, establishment of time limitations.

Sixth, limitation of number of stations operating.

Question of Power.
The question of power seemed to offer the greatest variety of opinion with broadcasters, manufacturers, radio engineers and amateurs widely separated on their ideas.

Paul Godley, of Newark, N. J., told the commissioner power allowed a station should depend upon the nature of territory served, the geographic location of the station, and the natural conditions surrounding the station.

Roy M. Manson, of the radio division of the Electrical Manufacturers association, declared the commission should specify power to be used by a station in issuing a broadcasting license. The limit of percentage of modulation should also be established, he believed.

He suggested the commission limit the power to the present values of here.

station and only permit increases as the number of stations decreases.

"High powered stations kill the amateur's experimental work," Manson stated.

Location Issue.
Speaking for the southwest, H. D. Hough, of Fort Worth, Texas, asked consideration of geographical location of stations in regulating power.

"Down in my country the rancher depends upon the radio reports in shipping his cattle," Hough declared. "Many times they are from 300 to 400 miles from the nearest broadcasting station and like to get their price reports in the morning. A small powered station can not reach them."

Y. suggested the assignment of air channels for different powered stations.

"High powered stations are absolutely necessary for national coverage," Felix maintained. "The commission should allot definite channels for definite powered stations."

High powered stations are needed to give service, according to Dr. Alfred N. Goldsmith, radio engineer for the National Broadcasting company, New York.

"Division of power should be made by the commission on the service rendered by individual stations," he contended.

J. C. Jensen, Lincoln, Neb., suggested to the commission that a study be made of the effects of height and location of aerials on radio interference.

The public hearings will be continued through Friday.

ATLANTA ANNOUNCER DENIES WAVERING.

Washington, March 29.—(AP)—Lambdin Kay, announcer for station WSB, Atlanta, Ga., said today his station has not wavered during the period when many "jumped" other wave lengths and that "only dynamite would set us out of it unless the commission tells us to."

"We are going to sit tight," he said.

EMORY AND VANDY DEBATE DRY LAW

Picked debating teams of Vanderbilt and Emory universities Tuesday night debated the question, "Resolved that the eighteenth amendment should be repealed," before a large audience at Fulton High school. No decision was rendered.

This is the second of a series being conducted by the two teams for the purpose of informing students on the prohibition question. The first debate was held Monday night at Lithonia. Thursday night the teams will meet at Conyers, Ga., and Friday will close the series with a debate at Emory university auditorium, at which time judges will be selected and a decision rendered.

This is the first debate Emory students have had with Vanderbilt in several years and both schools were represented by teams chosen in a series of contests at each school to select the most convincing team.

Horace and Hubert Holman, brothers, argued the affirmative side of the question for Vanderbilt, and Emory was represented by Roy L. Gardner, of Oglethorpe, and Frank Pippin, of Decatur.

Professor J. E. White, head of the English department of Fulton High school, presided as chairman.

EMORY YOUTHS WIN DEBATE AT FURMAN.

Greenville, S. C., March 29.—(Special)—Emory university debaters tonight defeated Furman college in a debate on the question, "Resolved that the United States should recognize the Russian soviet government." Wallace Alston, of Decatur, and Glenn Elliott, of Lawrenceville, argued the affirmative side of the controversy for the Georgia school against Furman.

Tomorrow night the Emory youths will debate at Davidson, N. C., on the same subject.

MULLENS TO ADDRESS SHORTER GRADUATES

Rome, Ga., March 29.—(AP)—Dr. E. Y. Mullens, Louisville, Ky., will deliver the baccalaureate address at Shorter college on June 7, according to the announcement of the president.

Luring of Girl From Her Home Laid to Woman

Stella Hogue, 24, of Egan, Ga., was indicted Tuesday by a Fulton county grand jury on a felony charge in connection with the disappearance more than a week ago of Willena Lawrence, 15 years of age, from her home in Smyrna.

The indictment charges inducing the girl from her home in that the defendant "did maliciously lead, decoy and entice away" the girl from her father, W. L. Lawrence.

Due to the girl's age, the offense is a felony and is punishable by four to seven years imprisonment.

TO SET ZERO HOUR FOR CANDIDATES IN CITY PRIMARY

Date for the closing of entries in the city democratic primary of May 25 and setting of entrance fees are slated to be decided today at a meeting of the subcommittee at 3 o'clock at the city hall.

J. P. Wall, chairman of the committee, Tuesday named the subcommittee as follows: J. L. Peacock, of the first; J. H. Bush, of the second; A. E. Everett, of the third; H. A. Hollingsworth, of the fourth; Claude Leatherwood, of the fifth; H. A. Joiner, of the sixth; W. C. Wilkerson, of the seventh; Ed M. Rosier, of the eighth; Fred T. Gibbs, of the ninth; Thomas C. Smith, of the tenth; Earl M. Carman, of the eleventh, and Bruce J. Baxter, of the twelfth.

Dr. W. D. Furry, Dr. Mullens is president of the Southern Baptist Theological seminary at Louisville and also of the World's Baptist convention. The fifty-fourth annual commencement of the college will begin June 4 and continue through the morning of June 7. Four class reunions, those of 1887, 1907, 1917 and 1919 will bring a large number of visiting alumni. The senior class has had the college ever last had.

For the convenience of Men

When plans for this modern store were first laid out, the men's departments were placed so that busy men could step right in from the street, make purchases and depart without the customary fuss and bother they have associated heretofore with department store men's service.

On the Ellis street side, near Peachtree, is the men's entrance to the building which opens directly into the departments of Furnishings, Hats and Shoes. A special elevator right at the doorway, operating only between these two floors, takes you to the Clothing, Luggage and Sporting Goods departments on the floor above.

Thus have we provided facilities for shopping that are a radical departure in department store service, looking to the comfort, convenience and privacy of MEN.

Special elevator connecting the Men's Furnishing Department on street floor with the Clothing Department on second floor.

When Men Go Shopping—

WHAT an interesting story could be written about the men's departments in this magnificent new store! Romance, indeed, could be woven into the theme, for it fairly bristles of fiction, but simple facts are more appropos.

For some unaccountable reason Southern women have long enjoyed a very great privilege . . . revelling in fashion's dominion . . . that but few department stores have accorded the men. Why the custom has been local to the South, we do not know.

However, the barrier does not exist any more, for in the construction of this marvelous store—modern to its finger tips—things of this sort are brushed aside in the evolution which directs the scientific distribution of merchandise.

Indeed, we could not claim the distinction of marked completeness which is manifest throughout the establishment did it not embrace also a full complement of apparel distinctively masculine.

So, in providing departments for the exclusive sale of men's apparel, we have sought to make them not only individual shops with the atmosphere to which men are accustomed, but also to stock them with merchandise as authentic in styles as it is dependable in every other particular.

On the main floor, approached directly from the entrance on Ellis street, or from the South entrance on Peachtree, are located the departments of Furnishings, Hats and Shoes; each in charge of men capable by long experience in high class men's shops.

These departments have tremendous assortments, the most desirable and exclusive designs, procured from the style centers of America and Europe.

Displayed in magnificent settings, brilliantly illuminated, the goods are shown under the most favorable conditions for inspection and color selections.

The Clothing Department, located on the second floor, immediately above, is reached by a special elevator operated only between the two floors. Marvelous in completeness, it contains the most wonderful collection of men's clothing and every appointment that could be desired for selecting and fitting. A special Salon for formal and informal dress suits!

Next to the Men's Clothing is the Sporting Goods department, in which equipment for almost every sport is represented; and a Practice Court for golfers, where you can test the clubs and balls, as well as your skill.

Here also will be found the Luggage, sturdy and dependable, the most sumptuous array of travel accessories to be had in the South.

And . . . it might be remarked in passing that the economies effected by the enormous purchasing power, incident to our affiliation with Macy's, of New York, is reflected in the extraordinary values in each of these departments.

HUSBAND JAILED IN WIFE'S DEATH

Eaton, Ga., March 29.—(P)—Sam Knowles, prominent farmer of Putnam county, is in jail awaiting the outcome of a chemical analysis of the viscera of his wife, who died of a mysterious malady the latter part of January.

The Putnam county grand jury, in session last week, indicted Knowles for the murder of his wife, on evidence that there were signs of strychnine poisoning before and after her death. The coroner and sheriff are to examine the body and ship the vital organs to the state chemist for analysis. The examination was begun last Thursday but delayed for lack of proper tools to open the grave enclosure of brick and cement.

Dr. Frederick Griffith, physician attending the woman during her last illness, has stated that there was no natural cause for her death and that symptoms point to strychnine poisoning.

Rumors had been rife in the county since the woman's death in January but official cognizance of the reports of foul play was not taken until the grand jury session.

Dr. Griffith, the family physician, and C. R. McKemie, undertaker who prepared the body for burial, advised Mr. Knowles to have the remains exhumed and an examination made to set at rest such rumors, but he declined to take this action. In county jail here charged with murder, he has announced himself as willing to the exhumation and declares himself innocent.

"PAIN WAS DRIVING ME WILD"

Snowbound on remote farm, gets relief from acute neuralgia

Snowbound and alone on a remote farm, miles from a doctor, a plucky Canadian woman endured for hours the racking agony of acute neuralgia. "The pain in my head was driving me wild," she writes, "when I happened to see a bottle of Sloan's Liniment on the dresser. I gave it a trial and in no time the pain was gone. I slept peacefully the rest of the night."

Sloan's gives quick, genuine comfort to every kind of muscular pain because it doesn't just deaden the nerves. It helps the body to throw off the conditions that are causing the pain.

No need to rub. Pat a little Sloan's on lightly. A healing tide of fresh, germ-destroying blood begins tingling through the aching place and the pain, swelling, stiffness are quickly relieved. So clean and easy to use, too. All drugists—35 cents.

Hard-LuckHubby Gets Unanimous Support of Court

Atlanta's champion hard-luck husband is a husband no longer, for a jury in Fulton county superior court Tuesday was happy to sever the marital tie for V. Heath, a former Atlanta street car motorman.

To begin with, Heath told the court, his wife hit him on the head with coat hangers after his return home from a hard day's work at driving street cars. And a lot of times his wife returned home from her evenings out in a bad humor, the petitioner said.

Next, she refused to cook supper. She had a habit of drawing a pistol at the most unexpected times and of threatening the expected thing.

"And then, too, she said the first time the notion struck her, she would melt lead and pour it into my ears as I slept," the plaintiff wailed.

And here the judge and jury could no longer restrain their dignity. The court room broke out with laughter.

"Give the papers to the jury," said Judge John D. Humphries.

And the foreman of the jury hurriedly signed the verdict of acquittal and freedom for the petitioner.

WHITFIELD ESTATES BANKRUPTCY ASKED

Jacksonville, Fla., March 29.—(P)—An involuntary petition in bankruptcy against the Whitfield Estates, Inc., a Sarasota corporation, was filed today in the United States court for the southern district of Florida, by three creditors, alleging to be creditors.

The complaints were the Ringling Trust and Savings bank, the Southern Construction Engineering company and the Cragin-Smith Advertising company.

There was no accompanying data as to the complaint filed with the petition.

"JUNIOR" EDITION AROUSES INTEREST OF AGED READER

It was Tuesday night, 8:30 o'clock, and at Five Points.

Two attractive members of the Junior League were selling early editions of the special Junior League edition of The Constitution.

An aged man approached. He bought a paper.

"Missey, how's come this paper's so big?" the aged purchaser asked.

"It's the junior edition," the new-sie-pro-tem answered.

The old man peered over his glasses and grinned. "Well missey, if this is a junior edition, I'd like to see what the senior edition looks like."

Then he ambled off, chuckling.

DEATH CAR DRIVER SOUGHT IN MACON

Macon, Ga., March 29.—(P)—Police and county officers are looking for the driver of a gray automobile following the death last night of Mrs. Emmett C. Dobbs, wife of Attorney E. C. Dobbs, of Barnesville, Ga., who died in a local hospital after being run down last night by the car. The driver did not stop, according to S. F. Skrine, of Macon, a witness to the accident.

Mrs. Dobbs suffered a fracture of both legs and an arm and was internally hurt. She was crossing a street near the terminal station when the accident occurred, accompanied by her son, E. C. Dobbs, Jr., 22, both of whom were on their way to the depot to board a train for Avon Park, Fla., to visit a sick uncle of Mrs. Dobbs. They had just alighted from a bus when the car knocked her down and dragged her a short distance.

Mr. Skrine told police the driver was traveling at a fast rate and did not check his speed after hitting the woman.

The body has been shipped to Barnesville for funeral and interment.

ARLINGTON MAN SOUGHT IN MACON DEATH

Arlington, Ga., March 29.—(Special)—Sheriff T. H. Plowden received a message this morning from Sheriff J. R. Hicks, of Bibb county, stating that the latter was holding a warrant for murder for D. G. Jones, of near Arlington, in connection with the fatal injury in Macon last night of Mrs. Emmett C. Dobbs, who was run down by an automobile, the driver falling to stop.

An eye-witness got the tag number of the car and it was found that the car was the property of Jones, it is said.

Jones and his wife went up to Macon yesterday afternoon to visit their son who is a student there. Jones is prominently identified with business affairs of this city and of Baker county, being engaged in farming and in the mercantile business. He also is a member of the county commissioners of Baker county.

Telefoto Brings Big Ad to League From Macy Chief

Science contributed its quota to this issue of the Junior League edition of The Constitution—as did also the directing genius of one of the greatest business establishments in the world.

With scarcely 24 hours left in which to act before the presses started rolling off the league edition, Mrs. Eugene R. Black, Jr., president of the Atlanta Junior League, on Tuesday dispatched a personal wire to Jesse L. Macy, president of the R. H. Macy company, of New York, advising him that the league, composed of many of the city's most prominent young women, was sponsoring the publication project in the name of charity. Full details were presented in the wire.

Hours passed by. Then over the wires of the American Telegraph and Telephone company came the answer—in the form of a full page telephoto advertisement from Mr. Straus personally with instructions that it be published in the special league edition.

The ad from Mr. Straus, one of the greatest merchants in America, may be seen elsewhere in this edition, as may also the advertisements of the Davidson-Paxon-Stokes company with which local concern the R. H. Macy company is affiliated. Utilization of the telephoto service by Mr. Straus is the only thing that made possible publication of this ad.

CITY BUILDER PRESENTS GRAND OPERA NUMBER

The April issue of "The City Builder" off the press Tuesday, presents a cover in colors devoted to leading artists in the approaching season of grand opera. Galli-Curci, Ponselle, Talley, Louise Hunter and Nanette Guilford are the singers who adorn the cover.

The leading article on grand opera is written by Miss Rosemary Stevenson, Paul Hinde contributes an historical paper giving the background in the erection of the auditorium, and the movement which resulted in bringing Metropolitan Grand opera to Atlanta. He pays high tribute to the late Colonel William Lawson Peel.

"The South's Finest Department Store" is the title of an article by James A. Hollomon, associate editor of The Constitution, in which he describes the opening of the Davidson-Paxon company's new establishment on March 21. Platt Young contributes an interesting sketch in verse which he calls "When Straus Came Back Home." He also writes about Jesse L. Macy as a city builder.

Robert B. Peggam, vice president of the Southern railway, writes about railroad transportation in Georgia, tracing development of the industry not only within the state but throughout the south. Alfred C. Newell nominates William Candler as the director of the chamber of commerce of the United States for this district.

"Atlanta's Street Car Service Unsurpassed" is the theme upon which L. K. Starr, of the Georgia Power company, writes, describing the service which is now offered the people of Atlanta and suburban communities by our street railway. Ed Danforth tells about the 1927 Crackers and predicts a fine season for the team. A. Gillingham, of Georgia's "Great Coastal Country" is the title of an article by George D. Lowe, of Brunswick. "The Georgia Farm Situation" is an article by J. Phil Campbell, of the state college of agriculture. Will D. Muse, of Atlanta, contributes a poem, "Success."

MORSE TO ADDRESS TEMPLE SISTERHOODS

Professor Josiah Morse, of the psychology and philosophy department of South Carolina university, will be principal speaker at the convention of Georgia-Florida-Alabama Federation Temple Sisterhoods, assembling in Atlanta April 4, 5 and 6. The distinguished educator will talk at an open meeting in the temple, at South Pryor and Richardson streets.

Features of the three-day program will be held at the Standard club, Biltmore hotel and Temple. A special reception will be tendered the sisterhoods by the Council of Jewish Women, following Professor Morse's lecture. The convention will be concluded with a business meeting Wednesday.

Road Hogs, Reckless Drivers, Speed Fiends All Menace You

"Car Overturned by 'Road Hog' Man Badly Hurt."

That was a headline appearing in The Constitution early this week, and it brings forcibly to attention of all motorists the fact that they are constantly menaced by the carelessness or recklessness of others.

You can't calculate your chances of being injured in the ever-growing wave of disasters sweeping the country. Death or injury may wait you today, regardless of how carefully you conduct yourself.

Get insured!

The Constitution offers you the famous $7,500 travel accident policy issued by the North American Life Insurance company, an old and reliable concern which already has paid more than $50,000 on claims of Constitution policyholders.

The cost is only $1.25 per year, the fractional part of a penny a day for protection of the highest type.

The policy provides for payment of sums ranging downward from $7,500 in case of death resulting from certain, specified accidents; heavy cash sums for permanent injuries; and $10 weekly indemnity for disability resulting from the accidents enumerated.

Can you afford to take chances on having your income abruptly halted? Can you continue to jeopardize the future comfort of your wife and children when the insignificant sum of $1.25 a year is involved?

A train wreck, a crash of autos, the crushing wheels of a speeding car, a burning building—and you may be a victim of the accident wave today.

Against all those emergencies the $7,500 travel accident policy guards you. Watch for advertisements appearing regularly in this paper which supply full details of the unparalleled offer.

This $7,500 travel, $2,000 auto and $1,000 pedestrian accident policy is issued only to subscribers of The Daily and Sunday Constitution and immediate dependent members of a subscriber's family between the ages of 15 and 70 at $1.25 per policy per year. Open to both old and new subscribers.

One who is now taking The Daily and Sunday Constitution, or will subscribe for same through carrier in Atlanta or suburbs, or through a out-of-town carrier or dealer, paying for the paper weekly, monthly or other wise, is a subscriber and is eligible. Those taking The Daily and Sunday Constitution by mail, either through a postoffice or rural route delivery, and all those subscribing through the twin-word building contest for one year are eligible by paying $1.25 per year per policy above the subscription price.

In sending application for insurance, the applicant must state name in full, give age and occupation. If beneficiary is desired, full Christian name must be given and the relation of same to the insured.

Branch Shows Quick Recovery After Court Fit

BY BEN COOPER.

The hands of the wall clock in United States district court room drew near to 10 o'clock Tuesday morning. Court would be opened in a few moments, and spectators, court officials, lawyers and defendants chatted, awaiting the entrance of Federal Judge Samuel H. Sibley.

Five minutes to 10 o'clock, William D. Branch, narcotic defendant, whose period of custody has been enlivened by such incidents as a sensational grab for a pill of morphine in Commissioner J. S. Ledbetter's office, and the attempted smuggling of morphine to him under the guise of cigarettes and magazines, stirred nervously.

Branch, in common with his co-defendants, Kenneth P. Roberts and Ruby McKee, alias Raines, did not want to plead guilty, and Branch also did not want to be tried Tuesday by a jury, according to court attendants.

An inarticulate cry came from Branch's lips, now running with foam and blood, and the defendant half rose, tottered for a moment, and keeled over in a convulsive faint. For a few moments there was considerable excitement, and when it was over Branch was lying in the bull pen in the marshal's quarters, in a seemingly comatose condition.

A former physician, now an inmate of the federal penitentiary, who was in court Tuesday as a witness, conducted an examination, pronouncing Branch's heart and pulse actions normal, and stating that the blood was being drawn from a bad tooth. When the physician attempted to look at the pupils of the eyes, he found that Branch resisted his effort to roll the lids back.

Court was opened, and several hours later, following adjournment, the prisoners were returned to the bull pen. Branch then executed a quick recovery, and was soon once again in his cell at Fulton tower.

Help Find Daddy Appeal Is Made By Youthful Son

"Please help us to find our daddy." These words came to The Constitution through the mails Tuesday afternoon, in a pathetic appeal from a little boy.

It was written by J. P. Thompson, Jr., 10, of Calhoun, Ga., and asks The Constitution to aid in finding his long-lost daddy who left home on January 17 to go to Dalton, Ga., supposedly to see a sister. He has not been seen since.

When Mr. Thompson left home he left four children, Mildred, 12; J. P. Jr., 10; Jack, 7, and Donald Thompson, 4, and those four youngsters with the aid of friends who have taken them into their homes, have worried no little over the loss of their daddy.

Not only has the loss of daddy dealt a severe blow, but their mother died two years ago, and now "daddy gone and left us," the youngster said.

Mr. Thompson is described as having light hair and blue eyes, 6 feet tall and weighs about 140 pounds.

FEDERAL COURT WORK LIMITED BY FUNDS

March term business of United States district court in Rome and Gainesville will be restricted to handling pleas of guilty and civil matters, because of the necessity for economy brought about by failure of congress to pass the necessary appropriation, it was announced Tuesday.

Federal Judge Samuel H. Sibley will go to Gainesville on April 25, and to Rome on May 16. There will be no jury or grand jury business at either session of court, criminal business, except for pleas of guilty, having been postponed until after the advent of the new fiscal year on July 1.

Judge Sibley will adjourn criminal court in Atlanta April 6, and will not handle criminal business here again, except for pleas of guilty and emergency cases, until the new fiscal year.

Civil cases will continue. Federal court here will not be seriously hampered by the deficiency in expense money, save for continuance of all cases involving large expense accounts.

The United States marshal will not transfer prisoners from city to city except in emergency cases until the new fiscal year, allowing them to remain here if they are not wanted by prosecutors until after July 1, it was stated.

Expenses of the marshal's office run around $50,000 per quarter, for witness, jury and other fees and traveling expenses. Louis Crawford, United States marshal, has enough money on hand to carry the ordinary office routine forward until the new fiscal year, it was stated, although transfer of prisoners and other such expenses will be largely restricted. Salaries are provided for in a separate appropriation and are interfered with in the present situation.

MISS BALLARD, ATLANTA GIRL, SAFE IN CHINA

Miss Louise Ballard, daughter of Dr. L. J. Ballard, of 560 Moreland avenue, associate editor and business manager of the Wesleyan Christian Advocate, who has been in China for the past two years, is reported safe, it was learned in Atlanta Monday in a cablegram to her parents.

Miss Ballard, after completing her early education in the public schools of the city, took a special course at one of the Methodist preparatory institutions for missionary work and went to the foreign field about two years ago. She is a teacher in the McTyre school, a religious institution in the city of Shanghai, China.

ENTOMOLOGICAL BOARD DEFICIT IS SHOWN

The state board of entomology closed the year 1926 with a net deficit of $3,463.30, State Auditor Sam J. Slate declared Tuesday in an audit of the board's accounts.

The board has operated on a deficit basis for the last three years, Mr. Slate said, and "this condition will exist until the board realizes it must live within its income."

An appropriation of $73,000 was made the board by the legislature. Sale of products from three experiment stations added $711 to the fund, the audit showed.

At the Sign ofRich's Star and Crescent

The Star and Crescent is the sign of individuality, the seal of good faith. It is a way of saying, "This is Rich's, and it is sterling."

Is the Star and Crescent on the side of a truck? On a bit of wrapping paper? At the top of a page ad? Its meaning is: this merchandise—merchandise being hauled or wrapped or advertised—is stamped with an institution's personality.

Rich's power—a distinctive power gained by long living close to the life of Atlanta—to make every purchase bring profit and pleasure to the purchaser is expressed by the Star and Crescent.

Rich's desire and will to give customers 100% value in dollars, in pleasant shopping conditions, in personal attention, are expressed by the Star and Crescent.

It is an old emblem, adopted five decades ago by Morris Rich, founder of the store. It is a happy emblem. The Star radiates the good will between the store and the community that have grown up together. The incomplete curve of the Crescent indicates the years ahead for

RICH'S STAR AND CRESCENT.

In this group of photographs, prominent members of the Atlanta Junior League are shown shopping through the quartet of fashion shops located on the third floor of the M. Rich & Bros. Co. department store. At upper left, Miss Gwendolyn Barker, pretty model in the sub-deb department, which caters to the young lady between the years of 13 and 17, offering correct wraps and dresses and all accessories, is displaying a dainty gown for, left to right, Misses Isabelle Breitenbucher, Virginia Campbell and Jeanette Bailey. Miss Lota E. Kelly is in charge of the sub-deb department. At upper right, the Junior Leaguers inspect Rich's main ready-to-wear medium price section, of which Richard H. Rich is manager. Standing is Miss Catherine Candler talking with Mrs. Aimee Earney, of the department, and seated are Misses Alice Smith and Jeanette Bailey. At lower left is a scene in the specialty shop, which features imported gowns and wraps and is highly exclusive, only one article of a kind being included in its stock. Left to right, Misses Isabelle Breitenbucher, Catherine Candler, Alice Smith, Jeanette Bailey, Virginia Campbell, Sarah Hurst and Mrs. R. H. White, Jr., are shown a gorgeous gown by Miss Carey Lovelace, standing, of the Rich store organization. Miss Annie May Gallagher, Rich's stylist who last year won two awards for prize gowns at the National Retail Garments association, is in charge of the specialty shop. ## Many Free Public Service Bureaus of Rich Company Make Friends for Store

Aid in Establishing Reputation of Concern as One of Leading Establishments of Country.

Enjoying a reputation for progressive and aggressive business acumen, evidenced by its friendly and cooperative association with a great number of activities of the Junior League of Atlanta, the M. Rich & Bros. Co. has in operation a system of free service for its patrons which marks it as one of the leading mercantile establishments of the country.

Striving in every department of its work to satisfy its customers and to win their lasting friendship, Rich's has gone to great pains and expense in the matter of anticipating the needs of the public and has blazed the way for other stores by establishing a number of bureaus devoted exclusively to rendering a free public service.

Among these bureaus may be listed the following:

The Penelope Penn personal service bureau, which aids shoppers in selecting purchases, engages theater tickets, makes hotel and taxi reservations and in many other ways makes itself useful to the shopper. It is located on the first floor of the big Rich store.

The free parcel checking room in the basement, which takes care of packages of all kinds while their owners are making purchases or attending to business downtown. This bureau is located in the basement.

The postoffice substitution on the main floor, established in order to save Rich patrons the trouble of leaving their shopping in order to go to the main postoffice at Forsyth and Walton streets or to hunt up some other substitution.

The adjustment bureau, located for convenience of customers on the main floor, to which may be referred all complaints. These are disposed of promptly and satisfactorily in accordance with the Rich store policy.

The free garage service supplied through Rich's connection with the big C. L. Barnwell garage directly across from the store's Forsyth street entrance. By arrangement between Rich's and the garage, customers may leave their cars in the garage while they shop, and charge tickets are validated by the Rich company, making the auto storage cost the customer nothing.

The nursery on the fourth floor, which mothers may "check" their children and make their purchases at leisure with the assurance that the youngsters are in excellent hands while they are gone.

The public rest room for women on the fourth floor, handsomely outfitted and affording every convenience for the shopper.

The hospital on the fourth floor, always ready to receive and care for any person in the store, whether customer or employee, who is seized with illness.

The assembly room on the fourth floor, the use of which may be secured by any public-spirited gathering free of charge for the purpose of holding meetings.

The employee's rest room, in which every provision is made for the health and comfort of the small army of people who work for the Rich store.

These services and the spirit which they breathe have done a great deal to build for the Rich organization the reputation as a leader in all improvement enterprises which it enjoys.

Camp Exposition Staged at Rich's Big Attraction

One of the most interesting educational movements looking to the development of summer camps and resorts for the boy and girl is now on foot at the M. Rich & Bros. Co. department store in the form of an exhibit of camp arts and crafts on the sixth floor.

Fifteen resorts catering to the youth of Georgia and neighboring states are represented by exhibits featuring their advantages in the way of educational and recreational facilities. These 15 camps are located in north Georgia and the Carolinas.

In charge of the exposition is Miss Lota E. Kelly, a widely-known Rich executive, and she is assisted by Miss Dorothy Gow, of New York, an authority on camps throughout the United States. Miss Gow has recently visited more than 300 camping places in all sections of the country and is prepared to give parents expert advice on problems of youthful vacations.

Last Saturday afternoon the Rich store staged a stunt program in which more than a half dozen of the camps represented in the exhibits took part, putting on demonstrations of skill in archery and other sports.

Motion pictures were shown and talks were made by officials of the various camps. This program marked the close of the first week of the exhibition, which will be continued through the present week.

Questions—

In the words of a well-known southern writer, Mrs. Eugene Harrington doesn't know "anything else but" questions.

Except answers! Well, here's the explanation of it all:

Mrs. Harrington, who is a prominent member of the Junior League of Atlanta, is head of the Penelope Penn shopping bureau at the M. Rich & Bros. Co. store. The work of the bureau is best described by a recent Associated Press dispatch which was published all over the country, being

Two Departments of Great M. Rich & Bros. Co. Store Have Executives Who Are Leaders in All Activities of the Junior League of Atlanta

At left, a view of the Penelope Penn personal service bureau, headed by Mrs. Eugene Harrington, chairman of the committee of the Junior League in charge of this special edition of The Constitution. Miss Lida Ragsdale, at far left, is supplying information to Miss Alice Smith, while Mrs. R. S. Morrow and Miss Virginia Campbell consult over travel guide books. At right, Mrs. Lott Warren, Jr., assistant to D. E. Devault, manager of the interior decorating department at Rich's, displays a quaint Chinese jewel flower to Mrs. Harry Stearns, Jr., sitting, and Mrs. R. H. White, Jr.

No business house in Atlanta is more closely associated with the Junior League than the M. Rich & Bros. Co., the big department store having in many ways on past occasions aided the work of the league, and in its present sponsorship of this special edition of The Constitution having contributed heavily to the success of the project.

In two of its departments Rich's boasts of executives who are prominent in all activities of the league, these being Mrs. Eugene Harrington and Mrs. Lott Warren, Jr.

Mrs. Harrington is head of the Penelope Penn personal service bureau, a novel, free service department which originated at Rich's and which has proved to be greatly popular with Atlanta's shopping public and particularly with out-of-town friends of the Rich organization.

The bureau renders a personal shopping advice, offering advice as to purchases and conducting tours of the various departments for the benefit of customers who desire it. It makes theater and hotel reservations, engages taxis, and in addition acts as an information bureau for the store's clientele.

Mrs. Warren is assistant to the manager of the interior decorating department and has many friends who patronize her department in a fashion show, and cause of the excellence of its offerings accompanied by a photograph of Mrs. Harrington:

"Where can I get a list of Canadian hay fever resorts? 'Would flesh georgette do for a wedding? 'What should one wear to Bobby Jones' dinner dance? 'I love her, but she does not care for me. What should I do? 'These are indicative of the hundreds of questions Mrs. Eugene Harrington, Atlanta society matron, now is answering instead of going to pink teas. Social life became monotonous, so she established a personal service department in a large store—and put it across.

"First, the department was designed to assist shoppers in the purchase of goods, but now it has developed into well, let her describe it:

"We planted a book exchange, and grew a library. Instead of aiding a few shoppers in the store, we buy for both men and women all over the country, plan trips abroad, sell theater tickets, steamship tickets, plan tea and dances, give advice to the lovelorn and find lost children."

"Mrs. Harrington varied her life as a debutante by driving an army truck during the world war. She has traveled the world over. She has trained numerous girls and assisted them in establishing businesses of their own."

"But she admits she and her assistants occasionally have to spar for time as persons over the telephone and behind the office rail fling such questions as these:

"What is really the proper manner in which to act in a hotel? 'Where can I rent a punch bowl? 'How can I work my way to Europe?'

EMPLOYEES OF RICH HAVE SOCIAL CLUB

Employees of the big Rich company point with pride to their own social club, the membership of which is composed of workers in the great department store organization. The matter of joining is voluntary and at last reports the club had a roster of more than 400 members.

The club holds a social meeting once each week, usually a dance or a dinner at a local hotel. In addition it has staged winter roasts and possum hunts and works to foster a spirit of friendliness within the store's personnel.

but in order to maintain friendly contact with her.

Mrs. Warren is a former president of the Junior League and Mrs. Harrington has held various offices in the organization. She was chairman of the Junior League "Follies" on the occasion of one of its most profitable appearances here, and she was chairman of the campaign of sponsorship of this special edition of The Constitution.

Mrs. Harrington and Mrs. Warren became connected with Rich's as a result of their activity in the Junior League. When the new Rich store opened it cured the services of the league in staging a fashion show, and Mrs. Harrington and Mrs. Warren were in charge. So splendidly did they do their work that Rich officials, recognizing the fact that the show was the best it had ever held—not excluding professional exhibitions—asked Mrs. Harrington and Mrs. Warren to accept permanent positions in the company, which they did.

Both Mrs. Harrington and Mrs. Warren have displayed a spirit of cooperation in their association with the Rich company which has caused them to be known as two of the most popular employees of this great house.

RICH EMPLOYEES STRONG FOR FIRM

A small city within itself, an entire community under one roof—with every one of its agencies striving to please the public and succeeding in its aim—the M. Rich & Bros. Co. store owes much of its greatness to the cheerful cooperation which its employees render the concern.

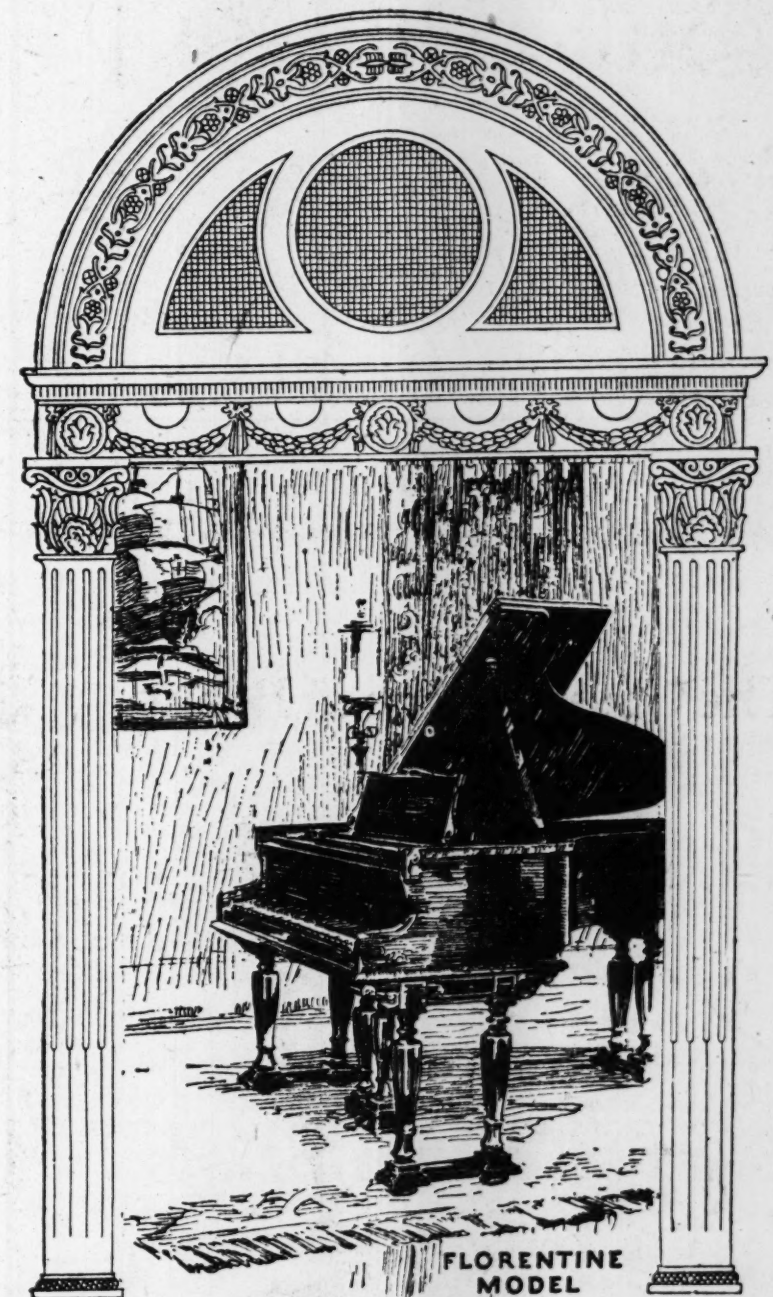

Rich's interests are their interests; they meet the public with a smile and stand ready at all times to put their very best into the work that is allotted them.

And there's a reason: Rich is just as good to them as a big department store knows how to be with all the scientific information it can assemble at its command. The job of keeping its employees satisfied is a business with the Rich company, for it means much in the attitude which the public entertains toward the store.

Rich workers have every aid extended them by the store in the way of making living and working conditions pleasant, and the matter of recreation is given earnest consideration by the executives.

To enumerate the many things done for the benefit of the employees is impossible, but excellent illustrations are afforded by the Rich store club and the choral club. These musical organizations afford whole-some opportunity for enjoyment of the employees and at the same time they supply a source of pleasure to the entire personnel of the store as well as to many public gatherings before which they have appeared. Trained by professional musicians, they stand in the forefront of organizations of their kind.

In addition the Rich store issues a regular publication, the house organ being called "Rich Bits." Employees contribute to it and are associated with every phase of the publication, which is known as one of the strongest factors in the chain of good-will builders fostered by the store.

The Gossard Line of Beauty

Model 6607, designed of the miraculous, pliant, triple-wear Charmosette elastic, which is found only in Gossard figure garments, is shown here. Charmosette step-ins are unbelievably soft, supporting and durable. Priced $10.

In the Smart World of Sports Gossard
Silhouettes Meet Every Challenge

The critical eyes of the observing gallery—growing steadily keener as women's athletic prowess increases—concern themselves as much with appearance as with skill. She whose figure lines are naturally, softly supported, is assured of a lithe, graceful silhouette. Her appearance brings joy to observers, assurance to her game.

Gossards Are Scientifically Smart

Gossard garments of each variation—step-ins, combinations, girdles, front-lacing corsets, are scientifically designed to support the muscles of the figure, to free them from fatigue—and to bring the smartest lines of the natural figure to the fashionable world of sports. Ask your corsetiere to show you a selection of new Gossard foundation garments.

Hubby, 9, Is Divorced.
Constantinople.—Mustapha Kemal, reform ruler of the new Turkey, recently promulgated a new divorce law. One of the first cases heard was that of a 17-year-old girl who divorced her "husband" to whom her parents had wedded her eight years ago, under the old law. The divorced husband is nine years old.

"Ain'ts." 5 Cents Each.
New York.—Too many "ain'ts" in the vocabulary of the pupils at public school No. 58 here, so exasperated the teaching staff that a fine of 5 cents for each grammatical slip has been imposed on careless pupils. In one grade the school fund collected $5 in fines in a month. Now scholars who wish to say, "he done me wrong," wait until they get into the open air.

THE GUMPS—!!!!!!!

Starring Dulcie Jayne

By VIRGINIA TRACY.

INSTALLMENT LVI.

CORNELIA BRAVES THE STORM.

Saturday passed uneventfully, with no word of Dulcie and with Lyman not yet over from his New York office. In the evening still more snow began falling, and Sunday dawned over the deeply renewed virginity of yesterday's mud heaps. A violent wind was rising and by noon the air was swirling chaos through which no eye could penetrate. A city gorged with newspapers and early dinner spent the afternoon looking out of the window and saying, "Well, this is a regular blizzard!"

Monday dawned, an icy glare. The dazzling sunshine itself was frozen, making no impression on the crisp surface of the snow over which skated a wind of furious velocity, sharp like steel but with the impact of a runaway tank; an irresistible, armed enemy. Here and there, where any break had occurred in the snow crust this wind filled its mouth ravenously with furry particles of softness; then, whooping with venom, blew them forth in stinging clouds of needles. No surface was safe.

From the subway, packed, dripping and inclined to delays but still running, a narrow footpath, three blocks long, had been trodden to the ferry between high banks already beginning to be foul. The ferry, its schedule entirely disorganized, sent out its boats through ice. When Cornelia finally shivered on to the Jersey shore, half an hour later, she was met by the information that there were no cars running and no means of conveyance to Hertzog's.

All the other companies have hired motor busses, no take-over, "explosion," exploded little Mr. Thompson, who lived on the northern part of West End avenue and had made the boat before Cornelia. "But the cost $10 a trip, each bus, and we're not worth that to our concern. They had a team of horses with a wagon—an open wagon, mind you—just for the grips and I suppose we'll have to wait till that gets back."

On the next boat Miss Brown arrived. She said that H. Jerome Hubbard had intended to return to work today but had just telephoned her it would be folly for him to venture out in such weather; it was evident that Mr. Leach felt that such weather was not place for his lavishly and Miss Frye, perhaps out of pure refinement, did not appear. When the young fellow who had taken Phil Nathan's place arrived on the boat following Miss Brown, the four members of the scenario department who had got as far as Jersey left the shelter of the ferry house to stand by the road as if this would in some way hasten the return of the two-horse team.

The terrible wind their bones ached and tears froze on their eyelashes. Directors flashed no take-over, "explosion," exploded little Mr. Thompson, who lived on the northern part of West End avenue and had made the boat before Cornelia. "But the cost $10 a trip, each bus, and we're not worth that to our concern. They had a team of horses with a wagon—an open wagon, mind you—just for the grips and I suppose we'll have to wait till that gets back."

Miss Brown refused to do anything of the kind. "We're come as far as ordinary public facilities will take us," said she. "If they want us to go any further, let them send for us."

The young man who had taken Phil Nathan's place suddenly exclaimed that he wasn't going to freeze to death for anybody; if the team wasn't here with the wagon again inside the next five minutes he was going back on this boat. If the management kicked him out for that, well, he'd rather be kicked out alive than dead. Whereupon Miss Brown, learning that the wagon was an open wagon, with mere boards laid across it for seats, declared that no management could force her to plow through six miles of snowdrift in an open wagon, turned her back and made for the ferry.

Young man who had taken Phil Nathan's place looked open minded along the road, as if giving it one more chance to show anything it had coming, swung square round and followed her. Little Mr. Thompson looked uncomfortable, irresolute, colder and colder. Cornelia felt as if she were going mad with cold. Suddenly, when the whistle began to blow, Mr. Thompson mumbled something and then he, too, ran for the boat. Cornelia alone remained. Not for the sake of Miss Jacobs, of Dulcie Jayne, nor of independence pictures. She simply lacked the nerve to take a risk.

For beneath all the eager strain and waiting of the past few weeks, of the excitement about Dulcie's coming, the hope, the expectation, there was something sick. Unacknowledged, indefinite, unformed in suspicion, there was the sense that the steam heat of miracles is past. The profound thing which experience had brought Cornelia was mistrust of life. There, deepest down, it lay. There, she lay the sense that, whatever seemed to be happening, the best thing she could do, really, was to hang on to her job. Across the tracks, far off along the road, a dark speck emerged, bulked, bumped slowly nearer, became an open wagon drawn by two horses. When Cornelia had crawled in between the boards laid across it and sat down on the bottom her hands were too cold to draw the strap around her.

But, at Hertzog's, the steam heaters were outdoing themselves. From the empty scenario department Cornelia took a novel and writing materials into the department's old quarters, now Mr. Leach's room. No Mr. Leach. No sound from across the partition. The world was empty. Cornelia sat down in a big rocker, ready to luxuriate in the smell and the size of the steam, eager to be lapped in that dense, thick heat. But she could not get warm.

An hour of waiting for the wagon had been too much. Though her head ached for air, her nerves twitched, her skin burned feverishly, something in her bones would not thaw. The thermos bottle, along with everything else in the Bronx flat, had been out of order lately and Cornelia had no tea. . . . Would the lunchroom be open today? It was barely eleven, but the proprietress was a conscientious person and might be on hand.

The proprietress was not only conscientious but—unpredictable combination—amiable. Amiable and experienced. She took one glance at Cornelia's face, scarlet but pinched, and as she poured boiling water upon tea leaves she said to a young male relative who watched dispassionately: "She'll do the lady more good if she has a drop of something else with it."

The dispassionate relative retreated to and returned from some secret storehouse and Cornelia, taking from her moist, apron wiped hand, a glass containing a liberal "drop" of something else, confidently swallowed it. And promptly, instantaneously, an immense change took place in her—a living fountain of warmth, light, courage, competence, friendliness, sprang from Cornelia's heart to her brain, where glittering balls tossed lightly in its magic spray, like dimes to which the world was moving. As definitely as if she had closed one door and opened another the middle aged maiden lady walked into another climate of the soul. A wall before her had dissolved. She had stepped out of a cocoon. And now she knew that she and the proprietress, the bond of a magnificent bond; the bond of a glorious common understanding about the essential goodness of life.

Then the tea, scalding tea, drunk by command of the proprietress, almost at a draught and bringing a delicious, relaxing, relaxing bath of sweat. Cornelia's skin stopped burning, her nerves ceased to twitch and prick. And life, though still growing better every minute, became less strenuous. A mist began to envelop the world, glowing and tender, softening the heart, the standards, and the outlines of faces hitherto regarded with disfavor. So that even a vision of Lyman Hertzog was received into the brotherhood of man and as she walked through the billows, misty grandeur of Hertzog's halls she felt the sadness of Lyman's life, unloved, disrespected, ridiculed, belittled by his own unworthiness of the marriage to which he should never have aspired, but in losing which he had perhaps suffered too much.

Miss Hirsch and Mr. Haas Given Dinner at Standard Club

A beautiful compliment to a fated couple was the dinner Tuesday evening at the Standard club given by Mr. and Mrs. Joe Hirsch and Mrs. Ike Hirsch, for Miss Beatrice Hirsch and Leonard Haas, whose marriage will be a brilliant event of Thursday evening.

The club was attractively decorated for the occasion with palms, ferns and cut flowers. The guests were seated at one large table, which was graced by a large French basket filled with pink roses, carnations, pastel-shaded snapdragons and sweet peas. Dainty hand-painted cards, suggestive of a wedding, marked the guests' places.

Mrs. Joe Hirsch received her guests wearing a becoming model of blue georgette crepe, embroidered with crystal.

The charming bride-elect wore a blue georgette dinner gown and shoulder spray of orchids.

Covers were placed for Miss Beatrice

Hirsch, Leonard Haas, Mrs. Aaron Haas, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Hirsch, Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Hirsch, Dr. and Mrs. Visanska, Mr. and Mrs. Jake Hirsch, Mrs. Herman Cohen, of Dallas, Texas; Mr. and Mrs. Howard Schloss, of Baltimore, Md.; Mrs. Burgunder, of Baltimore, Md.; Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Oberdorfer, Jr.; Mr. and Mrs. Gabriel Schoen, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hirsch, Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Hirsch, Dick Rich, William Rich, Ben Joel, Lyons Joel, Henry Hirsch, Morris Hirsch, Louis Montag and Donald Oberdorfer.

Miss Telford Weds John A. Kimbrel.

Of interest to a wide circle of friends is the announcement of the marriage of Miss Ethel Elise, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Telford of this city, and John Arthur Kimbrel, of St. Augustine, Fla., the wedding having taken place at high noon in St. Augustine on March 6, at the First Presbyterian church.

The bride is talented both in voice and music, having studied vocal for three years at the Mrs. Grace Lee Townsend conservatory, and music under the instruction of Miss Eda Bartholomew, becoming an accomplished pipe organist. She also attended Brenau college, at Gainesville, Ga., from which college she graduated with high honors.

Mr. Kimbrel is the son of an old and distinguished family in the south, being an official of the East Florida Railway company.

After an extended wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Kimbrel will reside at St. Augustine, Fla.

PROGRESS AND PROSPERITY

Being a Record of New Departments, Recent Enlargements and Additions

BUSINESS is very good, thank you. Evidence of Progress and Prosperity are everywhere at Chamberlin's.

The Round Table, recently installed in the center aisle, flourishes beyond the most sanguine expectations.

The Tiffany Glass, a Chamberlin exclusivity, is miraculously beautiful. Wish we had space to print the nice things people say about it.

The New Luggage Shop travels along: Sound, substantial hand luggage, conspicuously inconspicuous, at moderate prices.

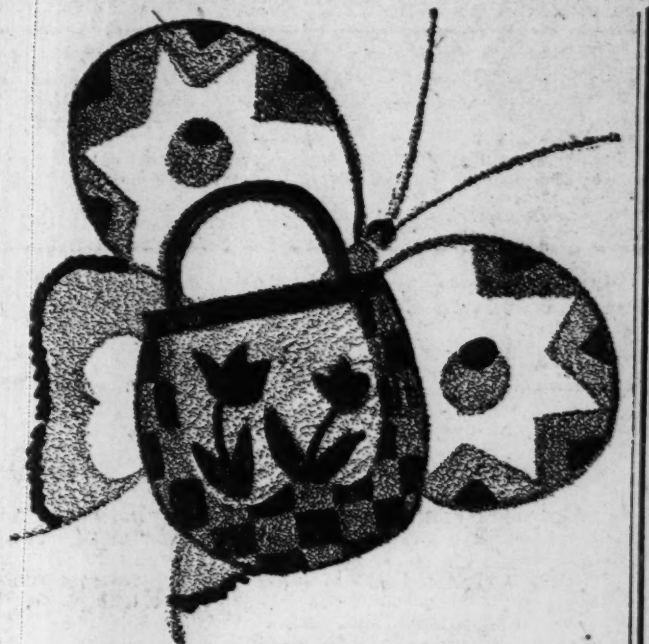

Van Raalte silk hosiery and glove silk underwear have been recently added.

The growth of this store is oaken—slow, stalwart, steady.

It never strays from the straight, strict path of mercantile rectitude in order to encompass greater volume or to increase profits.

The principles of integrity in quality and sincerity in every contact, laid down long since by the founders, are as flaming torches carried aloft today by the sons of the founders, the present and sole owners of the store.

The record to date is flawless. More than half a century of honorable service to the people of Atlanta and Georgia.

With Many a Flirt and Flutter PRINTED CHIFFON FROCKS $29.50 to $69.50

FASHION is nothing if not immediately responsive. Perhaps its chief charm is in its kaleidoscopic change, its elemental reactions to the cycle of the seasons, its emotional moods and tenses. With spring still young and summer on the wing, naturally butterfly frocks appear. Their name is printed chiffon.

Fluttery and fragile, airy and fairy, flowery and resplendent in dainty prints or bold splashes of color. They reflect the sunshine as butterflies' wings and they enliven the scene wherever worn—tea, bridge, opera matinee, informal dinner.

A little opening of these dresses tomorrow on the second floor. Dozens of pretty things, irresistibly pretty, we assure you—through the sheer force of disarming femininity. There is no power like beauty.

Wife-Beating Charge Is Laid To J. W. Cook

An indictment charging wife-beating was returned Tuesday by a Fulton county grand jury against J. W. Cook in connection with his alleged attack on Mrs. Cook, his wife, who is a state's witness in Solicitor General John A. Boykin's investigation of the murder of Bert Donaldson.

Cook was taken in custody Tuesday afternoon by Special Investigator George Pounds and lodged in the detention room in the Fulton county courthouse on a charge of interfering with a state witness. He is alleged to have tried to induce his wife to leave the witness room just before she was to have been called to testify before the grand jury.

According to investigators of the solicitor's staff, Cook objected to his wife giving testimony in connection with the investigation of the slaying, and Monday is alleged to have severely beaten her as she was en route to the solicitor's office. He was arrested by police at that time and after being reprimanded was released.

He is being held in Fulton tower in default of $10,000 bail.

School Girls and Visitors - Share Social Honors Today

Charming, vivacious schoolgirls and their visitors, who occupy the center of the social stage during their short vacation days, share the honors of the day's events with brides-elect, recent brides and debutantes.

Among the lovely Atlanta belles who are home from school to be the guests of their parents and who will figure in the day's parties are Misses Boyce Lokey, Frances Barnett and Helena Callaway. The bevy of visitors who add interest to the affairs include Misses Josephine Sommer, of St. Louis, Mo.; Elizabeth Hall, of Athens; Janet Riley, of Notre Dame, Ind.; Virginia Hall, of Cedartown, and Jean Williams, of Memphis, Tenn.

Miss Beatrice Hirsch and Leonard Haas, whose wedding will be one of the most brilliant events of the week, will be honor guests at the dinner-dance at the Biltmore hotel.

Miss Mary Will Montgomery, one of the most attractive of the spring brides-elect, will also be among the honor guests of the day.

Mr. and Mrs. William D. Ellis III, who have been the center of much social attention during their recent marriage, will be guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Royle at the midweek dinner-dance at the Biltmore hotel.

Miss Isabelle Breitenbucher, president of the Debutante club, and one of the most popular members of the younger set, will be honor guest at the bridge-tee at which Mrs. Philip Breitenbucher and Mrs. Perry Blackshear will entertain today.

J. P. Allen & Co. wishes to extend its compliments to the Junior League and express its admiration for the many wonderful things the League has accomplished. It has our very best wishes in anything it may wish to undertake!

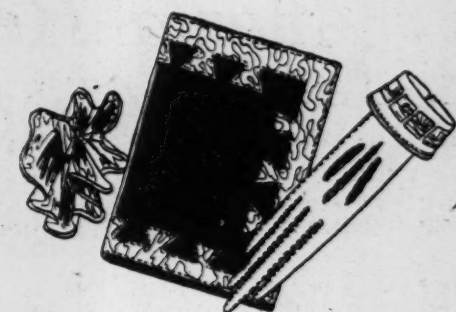

Leading all the coat modes this season is the coat of black kasha trimmed with silky monkey fur. A striking example of the chic and beauty of this mode is pictured. Adding to the individuality of this particular model are the circular tiers of kasha on an underlay of black satin. $98.75.

Wide-brimmed hats for formal occasions, say Parisian stylists . . . and so Allen's French Salon provides a profusion of these artistically lovely shady brimmed hats in delicate bridesmaid pastels or flattering dark shades. Too, there is every variety of smart little close-fitting hats for the less formal and tailored ensemble. In fact, the French Salon is up on all the trickiest new headgear for Easter, for Grand Opera, for weddings and other important occasions.

Prominent among the smartly attired women at Easter will be the woman in the tailored suit. There are many equally popular versions of this mode. The model sketched in a link button model of navy charmeen with three graduated pockets. Grosgrain bound. $65.

A sheath of white crepe, a fringe of crystal beads with an icy gleam and glittering sequins . . . that's a word picture of this handsome evening gown which you're bound to see later in the boxes at Grand Opera. The back reveals an intriguing cut-out arrangement. $98.75.

Among the smartest of the new modes is the jacket frock. This frock is smart alike for the youthful and matronly figure and is developed in many materials. Sketched is one of taffeta and crepe. The blue and gray black plaid skirt is of taffeta, the coat of navy taffeta and the blouse of white crepe. $49.50.

Paris has showed a late favoritism for lace, using it on all occasions. You find it most artistically used in this informal frock of navy blue Georgette crepe with its finely-pleated two-tiered skirt. $89.50.

Water Lily . . . that's the shade of the fine kid in this clever new pump with its smart patches of colored kid. Orchid kid covers the heel and around the vamp are patches in green, red, blue and orchid. $13.50.

The miss of 13 to 15 knows her fashion book. That's why she chooses this charming little navy and white printed crepe from the Junior's Shop on the Fourth Floor. $29.75.

The hat to go with this frock is of soft novelty braid in navy, blue and is also from the Junior's Shop, Fourth Floor. $12.95.

For the Junior Miss of 13 to 15, nothing makes a smarter Easter outfit than the three-piece suit. Pictured is one of compose striped green flannel with white crepe blouse. From the Junior's Shop, Fourth Floor. $35.

The hat with this suit is of green crochet and also from the Junior's Shop, Fourth Floor. $15.

A shawl for Grand Opera and after Lenten festivities may be as expensive as you would have it. This one is of corn-colored silk crepe with large rose-colored embroidered flowers. $13.75.

New bracelets are of real stones with gold shell mountings. The one sketched has stones of green onyx and is only one of the many styles to be had at $5.95.

Wherever one goes one needs a vanity case, and every smart vanity case has a separate compartment for cigarettes. Expensive looking one of white metal and colored enamel have price tickets that belie their appearance. $5.95.

Pearls for Opera? Of course! And the natural choice is the smart lariat pearls with the brilliant balls of rhinestones. $4.95 up.

Ready for April, the Most Important Fashion Month In the Year for Atlanta

APRIL, speaking fashionwise, will be the most memorable month of the year for Atlanta. First, we have Easter, inspiration for the world's smartest accomplishments in informal wear. Then, the last week in April comes Grand Opera, the supreme dress event of the year.

Careful plans and much preparation are needed for you to gather together all the important things you'll need for these two occasions . . . the important things that mark your toilette as being distinctly of the mode, but individually YOU.

The sophisticated Atlanta woman depends upon Allen's to help her in this important task. And Allen's is ready. Great preparations have been made. Nothing has been overlooked. Every smart means for helping Atlanta women to appear their beautiful best at Easter and Grand Opera has been provided. At your disposal now is a most complete array of formal and informal fashions. May we help you?

Camp Fire Girls To Camp At Toccoa Falls in June and July

Mrs. Tom Brooke, camp chairman, announced to Camp Fire Girls at the grand council fire that the summer camp of Camp Fire Girls will be at Toccoa Falls. The camp will continue three weeks, from June 13 to July 14, with accommodations for 75 to 100 girls each week. Girls may register for one, two or three weeks at the regular price of $7 a week for board and 50 cents craft fee. Camp folders with full details as to program, expense, camp outfit, and counselors, will be printed in a few days and registrations will open Monday, March 28, at Camp Fire headquarters, 214 Wynne-Claughton building.

The Camp Fire camp at Toccoa Falls is situated on the southern plateau of the Blue Ridge mountains, at an altitude of over 1,200 feet above sea level. The section is famous for its healthful climate and the mountains will furnish a playground for many hikes. The girls will use the campus of the Toccoa Falls schools on which are the beautiful Toccoa falls, which are 26 feet higher than Niagara Falls. Three nights a week the girls will eat supper out of doors, either cooking it themselves near the foot of the falls, or on an afternoon hike to one of the many points of interest in the vicinity. There will be a complimentary trip given by the Kiwanis club of Toccoa to the noted million-dollar dam on the Tugaloo river. Here the girls can walk through a cement tunnel under the falls into South Carolina, and enjoy hand rides on the lake. There will be hikes to Simpson's lake and hikes to Currahee mountain, trips to the noted furniture factories at Toccoa to learn how some of the most beautiful furniture in the country is made. The camp program will include swimming, boating, tennis, archery, basketball and outdoor cooking. There will also be instruction in handicraft, nature lore, first aid and camp craft. A trained nurse will be in camp. A dietitian will plan well-balanced meals with plenty of vegetables and milk. A teacher of swimming and life saving will teach swimming. Girls swim only at specified times with a life guard and instructors in attendance.

Various Camps' Activities.
Camp Fire Girls of North Avenue Presbyterian will have a tree program and plant a crepe myrtle tree in front of the school Thursday, March 31. Included in the program will be the tree dedication, tree song, and the Neidlinger Camp Fire songs.

The Monday meeting of the O'Keewapo Camp Fire Girls was given over to nature study and discussing a nature hike which will be held Saturday under a nature expert. Four girls in O'Keewapo recently passed the fire makers' rank, and one passed woodgatherers' rank. Recently the school assembled on the campus to enjoy a tree program and the planting of a tree by the Glennwoda Camp Fire Girls.

The Winona Camp Fire Girls met with Louise Honiker for its last meeting. Mrs. Honiker and Mrs. Nichols taught them how to make crepe paper sweetpeas. Each girl made and waxed three flowers and afterwards played some out-door games.

Aowahia, of Hoke Smith Junior High school, sponsored a cake sale at the Federal bakery recently and the money cleared will be used for many needed supplies for the group. At a recent council fire 10 girls were received as members.

Thalia, of William Bess Junior high, met Wednesday with Sarah Davidson at her home on Courtney drive. The meeting was held in the woods nearby and after the business session a winter roast was enjoyed.

Toheo, of Emory university, has planted a beautiful dogwood tree in front of the Emory hut.

Tems-kwah-ta-wah Camp Fire group of East Point, Ga., spent Saturday afternoon, hiking. Several types of fires were made. A lunch of bacon and eggs, fried on a flat top stove, and toasted wieners and marshmallows were enjoyed. Tems-kwah-ta-wah now holds the Howson trophy, presented monthly to the Camp Fire group in the Atlanta district having the best monthly report. This group has attained the highest record during the period from February 15 to March 15.

Recently the following girls of the Swannanoa group cooked and served a luncheon as a requirement for the firemakers' rank: Mary Frances Davis, Jane White, Frances Stipe and Mary Clio and Joyce Stead. Jane White also taught the girls to tie several kinds of knots.

The Wetomachick group had a wieners roast at the Waterworks, Knoll Monday. These girls have made banks in which they are saving their money for camp this summer.

The Chenalo girls of Moreland school have finished their cigar box head looms and are ready to begin their beaded headbands.

Caroline Ridley, new president of the DeJohi Camp Fire group, presided over the last meeting of the group. Plans for a play to be given in the near future were discussed. Miss Helen Haggard, guardian, plans to take the girls through Nunnally's candy factory.

History Club Holds Meeting.

The regular semi-monthly meeting of the History Study club was held Thursday at the home of Mrs. McCready in Decatur, the president, Mrs. Mitchell, presiding.

The following members were present: Mrs. P. N. Brown, Mrs. E. B. Dickinson, Mrs. F. A. Hubbell, Mrs. R. A. Kite, Mrs. H. R. McCready, Mrs. Harry O. Mitchell, Mrs. Walter Van Nostrand, Jr., Mrs. C. L. Williamson.

Mrs. Williamson gave the usual 10-minute parliamentary law drill.

A talk on "The Dawn of a New Day in Spain, 1808 to 1917," was made by Mrs. Williamson.

"Russia's Red Hand in China" and "The New Federal Banking Laws" were the current event topics for this meeting given by Mrs. Moyer and Mrs. Brown, respectively.

The club was invited to meet with Mrs. Hubbell on East Tenth street April 10, at 2:30 o'clock.

Mrs. Barker Will Preside at Meeting.

Theodore Roosevelt Auxiliary No. 2, department of Georgia U. S. W. V., was entertained at its monthly social meeting by Mrs. C. A. Wright, of East Point.

The meeting was opened by the president, Mrs. Henry D. Shaddow. Reports from chairmen were made, and the one from the dance given March 17 at Communid hall, West End, was most gratifying. The auxiliary wishes to announce that these dances will be given regularly, the fourth Wednesday of each month.

An announcement of especial interest to the auxiliary of Atlanta is that the president general, Mrs. Blanche Barker, will be here on March 29 and will preside at a business meeting composed of the two auxiliaries, Helen Gould and Theodore Roosevelt, at Edico hall, Peachtree street, at 2 o'clock. The ritualistic work will be reviewed at this time.

Congratulations—from New York—

The Telephoto of the letter reproduced herewith was received in Atlanta by Mrs. E. R. Black, Jr., President of the Atlanta Junior League, from Jesse Isidor Straus, President of R. H. Macy Co., Inc., New York, wishing success to the league in their undertakings and thanking all Atlanta and Georgia for the interest manifested upon the recent opening of Davison-Paxon Co.'s New Store as well as for the hospitality extended the New York visitors.

This letter was received yesterday, (Tuesday) at 3 P. M., having been telephotoed from New York where it was filed at 2 P. M., the same day.

To—
The Junior League of Atlanta

assignments, and they have called on advertisers in such number that they have attained to the "selling" fluency of veteran professionals.

An interesting story is attached to the last-minute finish of their race for the four prizes. Just when it seemed that success was in their grasp a disastrous event occurred. Mrs. Knox's maid left, which deprived the enterprising ad salesman of a custodian for her young son, John Knox, III.

But that didn't stop Mrs. Knox. Arming herself with an extra supply of candy and ice cream and other good things to keep young Johnny happy, she brought him to work with her, and all day long she and Mrs. Arkwright and the youngster called on prospects.

It's whispered that the very youthful ad salesman with them proved to be a winner, for his bubbling good spirits kept everybody laughing, and while they laughed Mrs. Knox and Mrs. Arkwright signed them up.

In addition to winning their four $25 prizes, Mrs. Knox Tuesday was awarded a prize for the captain of the winning team a stunning hat which she chose from the stock of the Buchanan millinery store, which concern offered the prize some weeks ago.

JUNIOR LEAGUE IS IMPROVEMENT BODY

gesture and set down in the constitution as the aims of Junior league endeavor.

After 1921, the association grew by leaps and bounds until in 1925 there were 63 leagues. In order to establish a more vivid contact between each league and the national association, the country was divided into six territories, and a regional vice president appointed in each to serve as liaison officer between the leagues of that section and the national association.

The most important development during the next year was that of the growing interest in training courses for provisional members. Some sort of course, varying with the needs of the community, was given in almost every league to the provisional members who were up for election. Speeches by heads of various city departments, followed by field trips and practical work and examination on community problems formed the basis of these courses, and after a rigorous period of real study and practical application, ranging from 10 days to six months, the provisional member who passed the examination entered the league with a very much clearer idea of what it was all about and with some knowledge of the problems that lay behind the work she was about to undertake. It also served to make efficient by proper training, the volunteer service of the Junior league girl who as an untrained worker could not offer as intelligent service before her practical course as she could after a month or two of intensive study.

The year 1926 saw the appointment of a field secretary who was to keep the leagues all over the country in touch with one another, and inspect new leagues before their admission to the national association.

Three Important Innovations.

This winter marks the beginning of three very important steps in the development of the Association of Junior Leagues of America: the revision of the constitution into seven sections, the beginning of the sectional conferences, and the starting of a national headquarters in New York city. This year six sections are having sectional conferences. Three or four delegates from each league are invited and the leagues have found in these conferences a splendid opportunity to discuss every thing both of general interest to the association and of particular interest to the individual committees.

These conferences also make it possible for more Junior league girls to foregather with leaguers from other states, giving them at once the feeling to understand the reason for the Junior league and the ideal back of it, and the feeling of national unity and the ability to work together.

National headquarters with its two small rooms, office and sitting room, has proved to be a meeting place for girls from all over the country. Since its opening day in October about 600 Junior league members from 65 leagues have visited the home of the national league. With various leagues acting as hostesses, one special tea a month has been given to which membership at large was invited, and at which some special feature of interest was offered.

Winners in Special Edition Ad Contests

Mrs. Knox was captain of the team. Below at left, Mrs. Edwin Peebles, whose team won the fourth $25 prize offered by The Constitution, this being for the team securing orders for the largest amount of advertising space. as bait. In October there was a modern art show with pictures by Bellows, Kent, Sloan and Davies. November an exhibition of antique and modern handicraft from the Needle and Loom guild of the Detroit league. December, two troupes of the New York Glee club gave an afternoon of carols, accompanied by a tiny organ. January brought paintings, sculpture, etchings from all over the country. Twenty-one leagues were represented and four prizes and five honorable mentions awarded by the judges. Again in January Eleanor Cook, of the Hartford Junior league, accompanied by Eugene Kollard, gave an afternoon of eastern Europe in song and dance. February featured poets' day, and out of the total of 300 poems, 20 were read and prizes awarded to the best sonnet and best free style poem. Forty-six states and 107 Junior league poets were represented. In April there is to be another exhibition, this time by famous Brooklyn artists, and the end of April the Junior league theaters are to send contributions to a national theater arts exhibition, prizes to be awarded to the best play submitted and the best exhibition.

Work Is Expanding.
This is but a brief relief of fact against a solid background of action. There is a history for every league, a history for every committee. But the tale each tells is the growth of the Association of Junior Leagues of America, the spreading of its tentacles, the expanding of its aims and purposes.
At first, the leagues were a little slow to realize what opportunities lay before them and preferred to keep to the beaten track of old-time philanthropy—the charity of our mothers and grandmothers—of giving that someone else might receive and be happier. But now they are realizing more and more that their place in the community is not one of arbitrary giving, it is an actual partnership, of cooperation with their cities, a working together for their mutual benefit. Feeling their way in their communities, they have begun to stand behind all that is good in their cities. Now not only do they stand for philanthropic enterprises (and their baby clinics, occupational therapy, day nurseries, milk stations and Braille committees) are doing much-needed and publicly acclaimed work in many cities) but their activities have spread fan-like into almost every branch of community life. Libraries, book shops, little theaters, children's theaters, city planning and planning, taxicabs, Sunday concerts for children, lecture courses, Americanization work with the foreign-born—all these forms of work are being undertaken by league members throughout the country. Realizing that the purpose of the league is to develop the younger women and make it possible for them to find their place in their own community life, the leagues aim to offer their members as varied opportunities as possible, and to put them in touch with all sides of community life, so that they may have a chance to decide for themselves toward what endeavor they wish to bend their energies and devote their time.

This organization of Junior leagues is not an end in itself. It is a stepping-stone to other interests, a survey of city life. It is a spring-board from which we may survey the sea of activity before us, and from which we may plunge into our chosen place, to swim for all that is in us. As Mrs. Lowrie of Philadelphia, so wisely says: "Its value is that the young are responsible for its influence and keep its engagements and contrive its successes, and are made wiser by its failures."

'The American Home' Is Stressed By Mrs. Sherman in Albany, Ga.

BY BESSIE S. STAFFORD, Editor of the Woman's Department of The Constitution.

Albany, Ga., March 29.—The "American Home," its equipment, its decoration, its environment, discipline, upbringing of children, the music, art and recreation that should be a part of the home whether it be humble or palatial, holding the home up as the nation's most important industry, was the theme of the address made Tuesday evening by Mrs. John D. Sherman, president of the general federation, before hundreds of Georgia clubwomen assembled in Albany for the opening session of the second biennial council held in the auditorium.

The presence of this distinguished guest added a spectacular brilliance to the occasion. Mrs. Sherman's message to Georgia's federated women follows a two-year survey of the equipment of American homes, made by the general federation under her direction. She pleaded with Georgia clubwomen to save the home from being relegated to the junk heap along with such antiquities as long, trailing skirts of the gay nineties; the one horse shay and the family equipage; and the spinning wheel at which our grandmothers wove materials for their clothes. "For such an institution as the home there can be no substitute," said Mrs. Sherman. "Our citizenship is based upon it. Let us make it efficient. Let us, both men and women, regard home-making as a profession and as a God-given duty, conducting it with the same attention and precision that we give our business institutions, adding to these efforts the spiritual qualities that tend to keep life in the right channels. Clubwomen are working to bring about this year, as a definite accomplishment in home-making, recognition in the census of the United States for the housekeeper or homemaker, and to have home-making rated as a profession or trade, receiving the same consideration from the government as other professions or trades.

"No woman who does not organize her home," continued the national president, "so that the labor and drudgery of it is done well, but with the least possible amount of strength and time, can fill her proper place in the family or in the life of her community. The more of her time that can be saved from meaningless drudgery, the more can be spent on the development of the home's chief product—the American child."

Thus advised Mrs. Sherman in her strong speech to a spellbound audience, whose efforts have always been, and will henceforth be devoted to the upbuilding and advancement of the "American Home," an integral and necessary factor in this powerful nation.

Distinguished Guests.

In presenting the distinguished guests, Mrs. Brantley, state president, expressed the pleasure of Georgia clubwomen at having the national president, Mrs. Sherman, a guest, paying high tribute to Mrs. Sherman's ability and spoke of the wonderfully human side of her nature, which accounts for her great success in dealing with two million American women, who recognize her fairness at all times. Georgia gives her a welcome as warm as its beautiful sunshine, laden with the fragrance of flowers, concluded Mrs. Brantley.

Mrs. Richardson's Speech.

Mrs. Alonzo Richardson, director for Georgia in the General Federation, in introducing Mrs. Sherman said: "When, in the course of human events, it becomes necessary for women to reinforce bands which have connected them with one another, and to assume among the powers of earth separate and equal obligations to procure for their children, the future man and woman of these United States, those benefits to which the laws of nature and of nature's God entitles them, a decent respect to the opinions of mankind, requires that they should declare the causes which contribute to the highest form of patriotism and citizenship and which impel them to continue their efforts toward the uplift of humanity in the General Federation of Women's Clubs. We hold these truths to be self-evident—that all children are created equal; that they are endowed by their Creator with certain inalienable rights; among these the highest type of life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. That to secure these rights to all American children the atmosphere and spirit of homes must be raised to the highest degree of efficiency in the development of men and women.

Deriving their best powers to this end from the unanimous consent of the governed, wise heads in the General Federation of Women's Clubs agreed upon the outstanding effort which should mark their activities for the ensuing term of the federation president's administration, and called to their leadership the ablest woman in the United States to take the army of American women over the top to the utter routing of every enemy influence against the highest, the most efficient expression of manhood and womanhood in America's boys and girls. It therefore becomes my enthusiastic pleasure to present to you Mary Sherman, the woman to whom the General Federation of Women's Clubs has become the glorified guardian of each and every day of her most successful administration, an administration begun in admiration and continued in admiration plus the unbounded affection of her coworkers in the General Federation of Women's Clubs, of which Mrs. John D. Sherman is the beloved president.

The response of Mrs. Brantley made to the address of welcome of Mrs. J. M. Patterson, president of the Albany Women's Club, the hostess organization, brought out the fact that in the progressive and cultural city of Albany much of the most far-reaching club work was inaugurated and leaders commissioned to stand within the gates of public opinion and speak in the great departments of woman's work in the federation. Club history is deeply rooted in the records of the city, and clubwomen from every section of this vast commonwealth of Georgia have assembled to counsel together in the work of humanity.

Mrs. Brantley's Report.

Mrs. A. P. Brantley, state president, gave in her report a complete resume of the year's work, stating that she had attended six district conventions; a meeting of the program committee in Albany; the southeastern council, in Charleston, S. C., last November, and was in attendance upon the biennial convention of the general federation, held at Atlantic City last May, wherein there was representation from the Pacific to Atlantic oceans, Alaska to Florida, and foreign countries. In October she visited the model American home, at Riverside, N. Y., by invitation of the New York Federation and she spoke, by invitation of the New York Federation, at its regular meeting. She commended the work of the student aid under the leadership of Mrs. E. B. Wey, of Atlanta; the Ella S. White memorial fund with Mrs. Z. I. Fitzpatrick as chairman, and the increase of interest in Tallulah industrial school, under Mrs. J. K. Otley, of Atlanta, president of the board of trustees. The interest of Georgia clubwomen is centered in education in its highest form, and urged the importance of continued efforts in behalf of the rural women through county federations and other means for her help and interest, intensified interest in club extension; junior members, Simmons and Miss Eileen McKinney.

District Presidents' Theme. The district presidents have chosen as the theme for Wednesday evening, "Knowing and Doing Federation Obligations." First district, Mrs. F. A. Brinson; second district, Mrs. R. H. Lee; third district, Mrs. R. H. Lee; fourth district, Mrs. H. M. Bird; fifth district, Mrs. Oscar Palmour; sixth district, Mrs. J. C. Warren; seventh district, Mrs. C. B. McGarrett; eighth district, Mrs. J. W. Gholston; ninth district, Mrs. T. E. McElroy; tenth district, Mrs. W. B. Smith; eleventh district, Mrs. E. D. Dimmock; twelfth district, Mrs. J. C. Meadows.

Miss Watts Honored At Bridge-Tea.

Mrs. Thomas D. Bradley was hostess at a bridge-tea Monday afternoon in honor of Miss Grace Lucile Watts, a popular bride-elect. The occasion assembled 25 close friends of the hostess and honor guest. Spring flowers in the pastel shades were artistically arranged throughout the home. Miss Watts was presented with lovely gifts of linen. Mrs. Bradley was assisted in entertaining by her daughter, Mrs. Roy Watkins, Mrs. Jack Simmons and Miss Eileen McKinney.

Miss Catherine Howell To Honor Miss Sommer.

Miss Catherine Howell will honor Miss Josephine Sommer, of St. Louis, Mo., at luncheon Friday at her home on Peachtree road. Miss Sommer is on present the guest of Miss Boyce Lokey, and after Thursday will be with Miss Frances Barnett.

Blackheads Go Quick By This Simple Method

This is a simple method that makes blackheads go as if by magic. Get two ounces of Calomel powder from your drug store, sprinkle a little on a hot, wet cloth, rub briskly over the affected parts, and in two minutes you will find every blackhead dissolved away entirely.—(adv.)

The Capitola Baker Safeguards Your Baking

In the Atlanta Milling Company plant there is located a small, but most complete bakery, presided over by one of the most critical bakers in America. None of his wares are ever sold in stores. He bakes only for himself. From each batch of Capitola he selects a sample and makes an actual baking test, and only after this test proves that the flour sampled is of superlative excellence does it go into clean, new Capitola sacks.

Consequently Capitola Flour never varies. Every barrel is of oven proved quality.

STATE IS AUDITING STATE AUTO FUNDS

State Auditor Sam J. Slate Tuesday began an audit of the books of the state motor vehicle department. In beginning this work Auditor Slate said:

"Today under the authority conferred upon me by the law creating the department of audits we have taken charge of the books, records and vouchers of the motor license bureau in the office of the secretary of state. The facts as disclosed by the audit will be given the public as soon as ascertained. In justice to the secretary of state it should be stated that he requested an examination of the accounts of this bureau as early as possible and at the earliest practicable moment this audit was put under way."

Secretary McLendon requested the audit following the arrest of Charles Wilkes, negro porter of the department, who was indicted on a charge of taking $500 from the safe of the bureau. Charles A. Cook, cashier of the department, stated his belief that approximately $5,000 has been taken from the safe while Secretary McLendon has stated that the daily records of the department show no discrepancies in the accounts.

WOMAN MUST SERVE TWO-YEAR SENTENCE

Alleged failure of Mrs. Rachel Johnson to live up to conditions of her probation resulted in the revocation Tuesday by Federal Judge Samuel H. Sibley of a two-year suspended sentence.

Mrs. Johnson pleaded guilty March 6, 1926, to charges of possessing morphine and was placed under a two-year suspended sentence, with a three-year probation term. She was to have reported each month to T. E. Midgbrooks, narcotic agent in charge. Narcotic officers charged in district court Tuesday that Mrs. Johnson had made a sale of morphine while on probation and Judge Sibley then revoked the suspended sentence.

M. H. Burson, charged with possessing two gallons of whisky, pleaded guilty in district court and was fined $15. He already had been fined $50 in state court on this charge.

Found guilty of selling morphine, D. W. McLester was sentenced to serve a year and a day in the federal prison.

Fred Williams, negro inmate of the penitentiary, was given two additional years on charges of purchasing narcotics while serving a prison term.

E. T. Evans entered a plea of guilty to voluntary sale of morphine to narcotic inspectors and was sentenced to 13 months in the penitentiary, to take the "dope" addict's "cure."

Wilmer D. Branch, Kenneth P. Roberts and Ruby McRee, alias Raines, were in court but refused to enter pleas of guilty to narcotic charges, and will be tried later by a jury.

Woman's Screams Frighten Burglar Who Gets $26

Awakened by the sensation of a cold hand across her face, Mrs. W. A. Weeks, of 313 Washington street, gave vent to screams that frightened a burglar from her home early Tuesday and sent him scrambling through a window, police reports revealed Tuesday.

According to the story to police, the unidentified man made his way into the Washington street residence by "jimmying" one of the windows. Noisily he stole into the bedroom in which Mrs. Weeks was asleep and ransacked the room, taking $26 from Mrs. Weeks' purse. It is believed he then observed Mrs. Weeks about to awaken and clasped his hand over her mouth. She freed herself from the grasp and shrieked for help. The burglar made his exit by leaping through a window. Chief of Detectives Lamar Poole assigned additional men to the case later Tuesday to continue the investigation.

LAW SCHOOL DEBATES VIRGINIANS TONIGHT

Debating teams of the Atlanta Law school and the Randolph-Macon college, of Ashland, Va., meet tonight at the Liberal Christian church, 301 West Peachtree street, to debate the question: "Resolved, That the Volstead Act Be Modified to Permit Manufacture of Light Wines and Beer."

Representing the Atlanta Law school, on the affirmative side, are C. A. Vandiver and R. H. A. Norman, while the negative side will be championed by Wesley H. Greene and Donald J. Porey, of the Virginia college. The Virginia team is on an extensive tour, engaging in numerous debates with colleges of the south. Winners of tonight's encounter will be determined by the Oxford method which permits the audience a say in the final decision.

CIVITANS HEAR EMORY PRESIDENT SPEAK ON "MIND"

Dr. Harvey W. Cox, president of Emory university, was principal speaker at the regular weekly luncheon of the Civitan club Tuesday noon at the Atlanta Athletic club. He spoke on "The Mind Off Guard," and gave many striking illustrations concerning the subconscious mind. He was introduced by Dr. W. W. Meminger, rector of All Saints Episcopal church.

Andrew M. Fairle also spoke at the meeting and gave a brief report on the work that has been accomplished by a special committee appointed some time ago to assist in the "get-out-the-vote" campaign. He urged members of the club to air in every way possible to get a larger percentage of the registered voters to cast their ballots at every future election in the city.

In addition to the brief speaking program, an interesting musical program, consisting of several selections from a quartet of the "Georgette Orchestra." The program was arranged by George Phillips and the meeting was in charge of B. Graham West, president.

COMMERCIAL HIGH STUDENT AWARDED
CARTOON PRIZE

Miss Janet Dreyfus, of Commercial High school, has been awarded first prize for her cartoon on "Thrift" offered by the Atlanta and Lowry National bank.

Miss Dreyfus is a junior at Commercial High school and has contributed cartoons regularly to school papers. Since her recent triumph of winning the first prize a second request has come from Miss Annette Smith, the associate editor of the School Press Review, of Columbia university in

New York, to use original cartoons in that city. After completing her course here, Miss Dreyfus plans to enter the commercial art course now being given at the High Museum of Art. She has been requested to make some posters to be sent to Macon, Ga., to be used at the parent-teacher convention, to be held in that city in April.

INTERRACIAL BODY OFFERS 3 PRIZES
IN ESSAY CONTEST

The commission on interracial cooperation, with headquarters in Atlanta, has announced the offer of three cash prizes of $50, $30 and $20, for the best papers by high school students on "Negro Progress Since the Civil War."

According to the announcement, papers submitted must not exceed 1,000 words in length and each must bear the name, address, school and grade of the student submitting it. The contest closes May 1, and all papers must be handed in or postmarked not later than that date.

The commission has prepared a pamphlet embodying suggestions and data, which will be sent on request to teachers and students interested.

SOLD TO ATLANTA,
BRINGS $52,000

Leesburg, Ga., March 29.—One of the largest land deals to occur in Lee county in several years was the purchase recently of 1,609.37 acres of land in the southern part of the county by Dr. Lucien Lamar Knight, state historian, of Atlanta. The purchase price was $52,000, or slightly more than $30 an acre.

The tract of land is known as the old Davis place, and is situated a few miles north and northwest of Albany near the Dougherty county line. The land also borders on the north and northwest on the Muckalee creek, it was said.

Although the exact consideration of the deal was not given out by the parties involved it is understood that Knight traded some Atlanta property and gave a cash consideration to close the deal. The land was purchased from W. L. Shipper, of Atlanta, who bought the property several years ago. Mr. Knight stated that he expected to develop the plantation into an up-to-date farming enterprise and already had laborers on the land clearing several uncultivated tracts and getting the land in first-class shape.

to park your car in the streets.

We say "try to park your car in the streets" advisedly, with the accent on the "try."

As a matter of fact, it takes genius—or a hand-grenade—to make parking-space where there isn't any.

And so our ladies waste a lot of their good time running around blocks and blocks, that should be spent in shops and shops.

So easy, instead, to come into Ivy Street—turn your car over to us, order your packages delivered here—and do you shopping in solid comfort.

Sounds very luxurious and is. That is, all except the price, which often enough is even less than the cost of parking in some vacant lot, or revamped stable.

Check it up, and SEE for yourself.

CHINESE CHAOS EXPLAINED HERE TO KIWANIS

John Early Baker, of Thomasville, and for the past 10 years American adviser to the administration of communications of the Chinese government, discussed the present Chinese situation at the regular meeting of the Kiwanis club, Tuesday at the Ansley hotel. He explained the political chaos existing in the Orient.

A feature of the entertainment program was violin solos by Henry C. Heinz, Jr., 8-year-old son of the prominent Atlanta banker. Young Heinz was accompanied at the piano by his mother. The meeting was presided over by Fred H. Smed, vice president of the local club.

BODY OF MACON SAILOR SHIPPED HOME FOR BURIAL

Augusta, Ga., March 29.—(P)—The body of Charles Thomas Stone, aviation mechanic of Hampton Roads, Va., who was killed in an airplane crash near Belvedere, S. C., Saturday afternoon, was shipped to his home in Macon, Ga., today for interment.

Stone, an enlisted man of the navy air service, met instant death when a navy plane, piloted by Lieutenant E. B. Wilkins, crashed in a field in South Carolina, seven miles from Augusta.

Lieutenant Wilkins and his mechanic, G. F. Lawhorn, escaped by using parachutes. Stone was a passenger in the plane and was on his way to Macon, on a 30-day furlough.

Culverton Home Burns.

Sparta, Ga., March 28.—(Special.) The home and furnishings of Frank Beall, prominent farmer and merchant of the Culverton community, was entirely consumed by fire early Saturday night. The origin of the fire is not known, as it had gained much headway before being discovered that nothing could be saved. The loss is partially covered by insurance.

Ahead in Refinements
As in Smooth Performance

See the Hupmobile Eight today, if you would know the greater value made possible by the world's largest straight-eight production.

Augmented in beauty and luxurious appointments, refined mechanically, this Eight alone explains the new and growing interest in multiple cylinder cars.

Especially to those accustomed to paying more for purely individual appearance, the striking lines of Hupmobile Eight closed models will have instant appeal.

Wheels are smaller and the roomy bodies lower; graceful, compact lines have been attained without sacrifice of passenger comfort; equipment features inside and out reflect the highest standards of custom-built cars.

To distinguished beauty is added new ease and perfection of control. All dials are grouped on a single plate under glass and indirectly lighted. An improved heat control is operated from the dash. Head-light switch is located at top of steering wheel.

When you examine the many new features of the latest series Hupmobile-Eight, when you add to them the superiority of Hupmobile smoothness, performance and low maintenance cost, you will realize why thousands are turning to this car as the final expression of motoring luxury.

Suspect in Hogan Slaying

YOUTHS ALL EXPECT ELECTRIC CHAIR

Reveals Record of Crime

Macon, Ga., March 29.—(AP)—The three men arrested at Knoxville, Tenn., and brought to Macon yesterday accused of the murder of E. B. Hogan, cotton broker, for participation in which the three made complete confessions, were still locked in separate cells at the Bibb county jail today, unable to communicate with each other.

From stories told by each to reporters who visited them, it appears that each has figured in crime since childhood.

John Kenton, 26, stocky blond, sat on the edge of his cot in his cell at night and related a story of a life which he said "has been hell all the way through." He told of an unhappy marriage, an army career and a series of crimes committed in several states.

Kenton said he was born in Ann Arbor, Mich., and lived there until he was 6 years of age.

"My folks didn't care anything about me," he said. "They sent me to Lansing to live with an aunt and uncle." At 9, he said, he was sent to a reform school as an incorrigible, remaining there four years.

At 13, he said, he joined the army, getting a woman to swear that he was 18. The woman posed as his mother, he said. He was large for his age.

He was a hugler under Pershing on the Mexican border in 1916; married a girl while stationed at Houston, Texas, "causing me a lot of trouble."

KIDNAPING CASE

NURSE GRILLED FOR OPERA TICKETS

Chattanooga, Tenn., March 29.—(AP)—With a man and a woman under arrest in connection with the kidnaping of two-year-old Virginia Jo Frazier, police have pieced together bits of evidence which they say will prove their claim that the abduction of the child was an "inside job."

Questioning of Miss Johnny Peale, nurse in the home of City Commissioner and Mrs. Fred B. Frazier, was continued by police tonight. Virginia Jo was safe and well at home after having been found Sunday night on the porch of a preacher's home following payment of Mr. Frazier of $3,233 ransom to the kidnappers.

Although Miss Peale clung to her story that she saw nothing of the kidnappers, police asked her to explain how a tiny locket, containing a strand of the baby's hair, which was found by Mrs. Frazier on her dressing table, disappeared at the same time the child was taken away. The locket was sent to the Fraziers in the first of three letters from the kidnappers demanding the ransom.

Frank Baskett and Mrs. Annie Miller Tompkins, both of whom formerly lived in Dayton, Tenn., once the home of the Fraziers, were in jail. Mrs. Tompkins was held at city jail, while Baskett was taken by police to Nashville because of fear of agitation of feeling among citizens.

RICHARDS EASES

BLUE LAW DRIVE

Columbia, S. C., March 29.—(AP)—Sales of gasoline and motor oils on Sunday throughout the state will not be interfered with by Governor John G. Richards pending a decision on the matter by the supreme court.

In making this announcement tonight, the executive said that it was the intention of the attorney general to appeal to the supreme court from an injunction against Sunday gasoline sales in Charleston issued last Saturday by Circuit Judge William H. Grimball. If the restraining order was made permanent by the judge, pending the result of this appeal, the governor said, he would order no further arrests for Sunday gasoline sales, being persuaded, he added, that "the law should be construed and enforced uniformly throughout the state."

Pitcher Loses

Memory After

Attack Here

While police continued their investigation into the slugging here Saturday of Milburn Shoffner, Rochester, N. Y., team baseball pitcher, Shoffner was in a local hospital Tuesday. He was unable to remember anything about the attack. He was found after the Rochester-Atlanta game under the grandstand at the ballpark. A broken bat nearby was found with his head, face and neck.

Police said they had wired officers in another state to keep a lookout for Roy Pledger, known to Atlanta boxing fans as "Irish Benny" Cline, who is wanted for questioning in connection with the investigation. A grape cup, which police say belonged to Pledger, was found in the tunnelway leading from the grandstand to the seating area. A broken bat, near the body of Shoffner, was found.

Hospital attaches said Shoffner was unable to remember anything connected with the attack. They said his memory had been affected by the blow on his head which caused a slight concussion of the brain.

Pledger is a close friend of Frankie Zoeller, Atlanta pitcher, who was hit on the head by a ball pitched by Shoffner. Police believe the attack on Shoffner was caused by resentment of some fan of the accidental injury to Zoeller, who has recovered. Pledger has been informed, they said, that Pledger went to the home of relatives here before the Atlanta-Rochester game was over, packed his suitcase and hurriedly left the city.

Tech Frosh Beat B.H.S. Tankmen

Junior Jackets Take Measure of Purple Team in Y. M. C. A. Pool.

The Tech frosh swimming team continued to sweep away all prep opposition by defeating the Boys' High tankmen, 54 to 8 at the Y. M. C. A. Tuesday afternoon.

Captain Brown, Jack Warner and Schroeder were outstanding for the Techsters, each winning his respective event. Schroeder was first in the 40-yard free style; Warner came in ahead of the field in the 40-yard back stroke, and Brown took first place in the 60-yard breast stroke.

The freshmen defeated the Smithy mermen recently by a large score.

Summary.
Forty-yard free style—won by Schroeder (Tech); Gowen (B. H. S.), second; Pancoast (Tech), third. Time, 22 seconds.

Forty-yard back stroke—Warner (Tech), first; Hagerty (Tech), second; Watkins (B. H. S.), third. Time, 27.4 seconds.

Sixty-yard breast stroke—Brown (Tech), first; House (Tech), second; Gowen (B. H. S.), third. Time, 45.1 seconds.

One hundred-yard free style—Schroeder (Tech), first; Wagner (Tech), second; Blackman (B. H. S.), third. Time, 1 minute 4.5 seconds.

Two hundred and twenty-yard free style—Hagerty (Tech), first; Beers (Tech), second; Weltman (B. H. S.), third. Time, 3 minutes 7 seconds.

Diving—Turner (Tech), first; Brown (Tech), second; Hanley (B. H. S.), third.

One hundred and sixty-yard relay—Tech, first (Warner, Pancoast, Hagerty, Schroeder). Time, 1 minute 29 seconds.

English Pilot Drives Mystery S To Record

Thousands Line Beach As Speed King Roars to New Mark on Daytona Beach in Big Car.

Daytona Beach, Fla., March 29.—(United News)—Speed hitherto believed unobtainable, which tossed his four-ton Sunbeam racing car lightly as a feather on the Daytona sands and which rendered the pilot unconscious to everything except the desperate effort of holding his machine to its course, was reached by Major H. O. D. Segrave, an English race driver, Tuesday, as he shattered all existing world's records in covering a one-mile stretch at the rate of 207.5076 miles per hour.

Hurling along the famous yellow beach past delicately contrived electrical timing instruments, with every thing blotted out in the roar of his 1,000-horsepower motors and the course flags, rods apart, a steady blur of meaningless color to his straining eyes, the British driver literally took his life in his hands to set his new record.

So terrific was his speed that a slight quivering wind from the landward lifted his massive racer and drove it from its course towards the white breakers coming up from the Atlantic, but with a desperate demand upon his nerve, Major Segrave kept the throttle open, and accomplished the feat upon which he and his associates have been planning for months.

The New Records.
When it was over, and the huge automobile, looking like a long red capsule, had glided to a halt, the major and his Sunbeam, known heretofore as the "Mystery S" car, had established the following new world's records:

For the mile—203.7928 m.p.h.
For the kilometer—202.9885 m.p.h.
For five kilometers—202.6757 m.p.h.

These figures are the official ones announced late Tuesday after a conference between Val Harsnap, a member of the A. A. A. contest board, the secretary in charge of the test, T. E. Myers, the judge, and Otis Porter, official timer.

The records are taken from the Sunbeam's average speed for both directions along the beach, where thousands had gathered to watch the attempt.

With the wind, in one direction, Major Segrave attained his greatest

Bobby Jones Made Honorary Life Member at Sunningdale

Sunningdale, England, March 29.—(AP)—Bobby Jones, of Atlanta, Ga., who won the British open golf championship last year, has been elected an honorary life member of the Sunningdale Golf club.

It was over the Sunningdale course last year that he created a course record of 66-68-134 for 36 holes. British golfers were amazed over this performance.

In September last Jones was elected to membership in the Royal and Ancient Club of St. Andrews, Scotland.

Boys' Hi Wins Opener From G. M. A., 5-2

Bluebirds Down Marists, 21 to 1—Fulton High Trounces Commercial, 14-4—Tech High Loses.

BY BEN COTHRAN.

Boys' High celebrated the opening of the prep baseball loop Tuesday afternoon by beating G. M. A., 5 to 2, on the G. M. A. campus.

Breezy Winn, the gentleman of the murmur, was the hero of the batsmen to face him.

Breezy was in good form Tuesday, and while doing all his whiffing, caused six men to fan the air in succession. He gave up six hits to the Cadets, only one of the raps was for extra bases, when Mott connected with a two-base knock in the first inning to score Toney from second.

Both teams looked good in their initial game. Boys' high is endowed with a fast infield and solid outfield, and a sparkling double play in the sixth frame that killed off what had started to be a Cadet rally.

A new backstopper appeared in the Purple lineup Tuesday. His name is Lenk Donehoo. He is about five feet tall, and couldn't weigh so terribly much, but he was sipping Breezy's fast ones, and didn't make any bobbles about it. He did his part at the bat, getting two smacks out of three excursions to the plate. He also scored one run for his team.

Started Scoring.
The Purple got down to scoring in the first inning, making one tally. To start it off, McGaughey walked and then stole second. Hardin got to first on an error by Golson, and McGaughey went to third. Hardin went down to second, but Pasquello made no attempt to catch him. Then Matthews laid down a bunt and was safe on fielder's choice.

McGaughey scored, and Hardin went out, Toney to Smith. The rest of the Boys' High side went out in order.

G. M. A. was not to be outdone, made its only two runs in its part of the first. Toney, Cadet third baseman, and even smaller than Donehoo, walked. And stole second. The Buster Mott poked out his only hit of the day and Toney romped home. Fielding was an easy out, McGaughey to Baldwin. Campbell knocked a hard one to Hardin, who muffed, and Mott scored. Campbell stopped at first. The rest of the side went out in order.

That was all the scoring G. M. A. did.

The third inning was about as interesting in the way of hits and runs as a case of soda pop to a bootlegger.

Breezy Winn was busy striking out G. M. A. batters, and the Boys' High couldn't connect. The fourth inning yielded Boys' High one hit. Two G. M. A. men struck out, and the other flied out.

B. H. S. Scores.
Boys' High got to work in the fifth and made three more runs. Donehoo singled to center field, and went to second on a single through short by Winn. Both runners advanced a base on a passed ball. McGaughey flied out to center field. On another passed ball, Donehoo scored, and Winn took third. Hardin singled through short to score Winn. Hardin was thrown out at second, while Matthews got to first on fielder's choice.

McGaughey went to second, no attempt being made to catch him. He scored a minute later on a single by Howell. Baldwin walked, and Ernie Reagan flied out to end the inning.

Both teams will be idle until Friday when the preppers again swing into action.

Glenna Collett Meets Miss Van Wie for Title

Two Women Golf Stars Will Battle at Pinehurst For North and South Championship.

Pinehurst, N. C., March 29.—(AP)—A young golf player from the middle west and a veteran from the east will meet on the Pinehurst Country club golf course tomorrow to determine the 1927 champion of the united north and south women's golf tournament.

They will be Miss Virginia Van Wie, of Chicago, a successful but comparatively unknown player, and Miss Glenna Collett, Providence, R. I., three times north and south champion and former holder of the national women's title.

Playing a fine brand of golf, Miss Collett defeated Miss Edith Quier, of Reading, Pa., 3 and 2, in today's semi-finals while Miss Van Wie disposed of Mrs. E. H. Baker, Jr., of Belmont, Mass., 5 and 3.

Returning to her old time form, the Rhode Island player turned the first nine holes, a distance of 3,083 yards in 35, one stroke above the men's par. She was off the course only once, her drive on the second hole going into the rough, but she halved the hole with a five.

Miss Van Wie had a comparatively easy time with Mrs. Baker. She stood 39 strokes to her opponent's 44 at the turn. On the tenth she gained another stroke, lost the eleventh and ended the match with a par four on the fifteenth where Mrs. Baker took a six.

Sheppard And Welch Hit Homers

Johnston and Frakes Hurl Crackers To Easy Victory.

BY TOM THOMPSON.

The Crackers tromped the Oglethorpe Petrels with all the zeal of a city auditorium fire preventer tromping a cigarette butt in the final spasm of a two convulsion series at Spiller's field Tuesday afternoon. The score was 10-6, but three of the Petrel runs came in the last stages of the ninth when Sheppard poked a circuit clout into left field with two on. The inning previous, Welch, Cracker outfielder, had walked around touching the hassocks after smacking one in the same place and so that made two home runs in one game, which is some kind of a season's record for this year.

As usual, the Spillerites staged a rally to overcome a one-run lead. This time the outburst of enthusiasm and base knocks came in the fifth after Oglethorpe had scored one run for a lead of that many in the previous inning.

Reil Jackson, some time ago, remarked within hearing of some of his ballplayers that his observation was that the fans were better satisfied when the Crackers came from behind to win a game—overcome a lead. If that's what they want, then they ought to attend the games, for that's what has invariably happened this year. However, as to the satisfaction of the fans, that's just a lot of applesauce, for it takes a good strong microscope to find any such things in Spiller's park these days. All of a dozen fans and at least half that many newspapermen attended Tuesday's game. That is also some kind of a season's record.

The First Score.
The first score of the game came in the fourth when the Petrels tallied. Sheppard singled, Welch stole second and scored when Walton singled to right field.

Then came the debacle of the fifth when the Crackers amassed six hits and that many runs. Kohlbecker singled. Frakes followed suit. Ditto Zoeller, filling the sacks. About that time Cuto took first and Kohlbecker walked home on a force, after the Cuban clown was dusted somewhere about the midriff. Schwab cleaned the sacks with a triple, and scored on Welch's single. Welch, however, was out trying to stretch his drive for an extra base. After gaining the initial bag, Hall raced into home on Suggs' double.

The Crackers added two more in the sixth when the Petrels annexed another in the seventh when Cousins gained first on an error by Cuto, went to second when Walton was safe on Zoeller's error and to third on an infield hit by Thompson. He scored on a sacrifice bunt which found Vaughn out at first. Johnston tightened up and the next two men were struck out.

Poles Home Run.
With Zoeller resting on the first sack after a single, Welch poked one into the left-field stands and walked around with Zoeller ahead of him.

In the ninth Thompson singled, went to second on Wood's error. Subsequent errors, one by Hall and one by Fulton, filled the bags. Right here Sheppard put one alongside Welch's four cornered lambast and they all walked home. The Petrel scoring rally came to a termination, however, and the game was over.

The Truth About China

Dr. T. W. Ayers, native Atlantan and a resident of China for 25 years, has thrown new light on the crisis in China in a series of interviews granted The Constitution, the second of which appears today.

BY HERR MCUSKER.

In the first interview of Dr. Ayers he emphasized the fact that the present trouble in China is not a flare up as many Occidentals believe, but the culmination of years of gradual change in the Chinese outlook and a departure from the hitherto strict adherence to the ancient Chinese philosophy. Stressing the importance of delving into Chinese history for the answer to present difficulties, Dr. Ayers declared that a woman was responsible to a larger extent than any other thing for the tremendous upheaval

Rheumatism can't be rubbed away

Are you one of those unfortunate who suffer with pains in your muscles and joints, making you miserable, less efficient, interfering with your working hours, ruining your sleep? You may have tried many things without relief. Why not try S.S.S.? For more than 100 years it has been giving relief in thousands of cases, as testified to in unsolicited letters of gratitude.

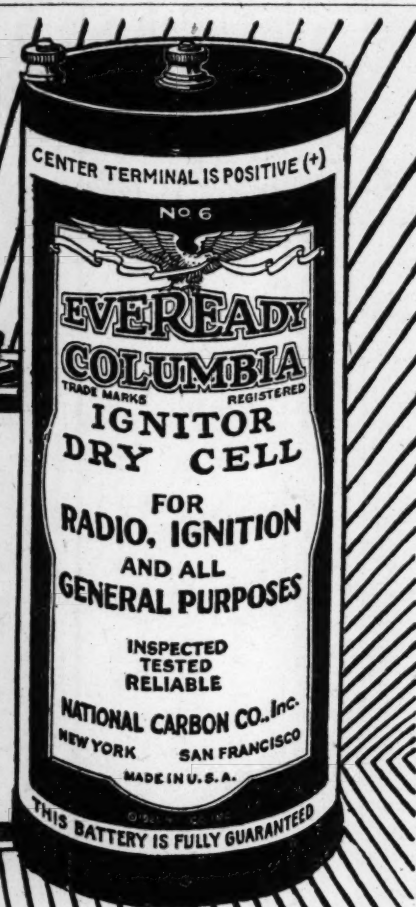

"I suffered from rheumatism for a good many years. At times my joints would swell so I couldn't walk. I tried most everything. Went to Hot Springs and finally I decided to try S.S.S. I took a course. In a short time the rheumatic pains entirely left me. I also had a breaking out on my hands for years that nothing would heal, but now this has disappeared, and I am sure that it was S.S.S. which removed the cause. I am now in perfect health, and want to add that I have tried all kinds of medicines but I think S.S.S. is the best."—Carl C. Campbell, 115 West Main St., Johnson City, Tenn.

S.S.S. is purely vegetable. It is extracted from the fresh roots of medicinal plants and herbs and gives to Nature what she needs in building you up so that your system throws off the cause.

S.S.S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.—(adv.)

In China which today has resulted in anxiety throughout the civilized world.

"While Occidentals think in terms of months and years, the Oriental thinks in terms of centuries," Dr. Ayers says. "For this reason, the Occidental who would appreciate the true situation existing in China today must necessarily study the history of China in so far as it affects the movement under way today.

Chinese Slow to Act.
"I have attempted to show how China is very slow to act but how, when once moved to action, nothing can stop the yellow giant. This I have done in order to demonstrate how the present trouble can be traced chronologically to 1852, how the tremor of a movement first stirred the sleeping giant gently; slowly gained momentum and after sporadic disturbances finally culminated in the present revolt against Occidental domination," he said.

Americans cannot understand how a people will require more than half a century to act on an idea. But the average American doesn't begin to understand the Chinese. He believes that the trouble must have originated a few months ago—whereas it was fomenting before he was born.

To fully appreciate the condition which has prevailed in China since the overthrow of the Manchurian government, a perspective of 500 years is necessary. Perhaps everyone is familiar with the history of the descent upon China of the barbarian Mongolian tribes from the north; led by Ku Blai Kan, and how these hardy, cruel warriors overwhelmed the decaying, wealthy and indolent Chinese nation. Then in turn came another barbarian horde from the northern province of Manchuria and conquered the Mongolians, who by that time had become assimilated by the Chinese.

"The Manchurian royalty she retained regency for another 14 years.

perial house and the ruling class. It was to this clan, the Yellow Girdle, that Emperor Hien Feng belonged when in 1852 he issued an imperial edict that 60 of the fairest maidens of the Manchurian aristocracy should be brought to his palace that the most beautiful of them might be established as imperial concubines.

Woman's Role Explained.
"Among these maidens was one, Tsu Hsi, fairer than the lotus blossom and more sparkling than the jewels that dangled from her ears. But she was of the Red Girdle clan and today is remembered as the late empress dowager, who bore only one person his only son and accordingly advanced to the place next to the ruler in power.

"Shortly after the birth of the young prince, the Tipling rebellion broke in all its fury against the ruling house and was partly responsible for the death of the emperor. Because her son was an infant, Tsu Hsi, the beautiful, became regent, and with the acquisition of power by this woman began the transfiguration of China.

"For the next 48 years Tsu Hsi was the real ruler of China. Endowed with great energy and brilliant forethought, she controlled 400,000,000 people to further her insatiable ambition and ruthless selfishness. And in so doing, she created in the minds of her subjects the embryonic idea that has blossomed during the past six months in China.

"In the second year of the young emperor's reign, he died. Legally, the throne should have passed to another member of the Yellow Girdle clan but the empress dowager had become so powerful that she was able to violate the sacred law of heredity, and placed a son of her sister, Wang Su and a member of the Red Girdle clan, on the seat. And through this act of state she retained regency for another 14 years.

"Impressed by the ruthlessness of his aunt, the empress dowager, young Emperor Kwang reformed the government by becoming ultra-radical, aided and abetted by capable teachers from Canton. In 1867, realizing the growing sentiment throughout the great land for reform, he started introducing acts which violated scores of the sacred customs of ancient Chinese history. Within 17 days he introduced 15 reforms, all of them radical. Consternation in old, conservative China was great as news of the reforms spread throughout the land.

Clamored for Reforms.
"But China had now tasted of reform and clamored for more. The idea that had been merely a germ now took roots and budded. When Kwang Su attempted to call a halt to his radical changes he found it impossible to stem the tide. He was incapable to halt the movement which had been slow in starting but which by now had gained momentum. When he did attempt to call a halt, the revolution against him broke in full fury.

"It was in this revolution that the famous Yuan Shi Kai, later to be first president of the Chinese republic, entered the scene. It was through his intervention that Kwang Su was removed from the throne and the empress dowager substituted, to rule until her death. Upon her death, the dowager named a son of a former lover, Jung Lin, to succeed her. The Prince Chun was named regent and tried to favor both the radicals and the conservatives with the result that he lost confidence of both.

"But the reform movement wasn't spent as yet. In 1911 China demanded the national cutting off of the queue, a symbol of Chinese submission to the Manchus. This was the beginning of the end for the rule of the Manchurian house. In rapid succession, China demanded national ownership of railroads and the revolution of 1911 resulted. The recog-

Furniture Emporium Stock Acquired by New Company

At left, Eugene G. Acree, organizer of the Furniture Emporium, which establishment's name has recently been changed to the Acree-Kornegay Furniture company, and George B. Kornegay, president and treasurer of the reorganized store, located at 142 Whitehall street.

Announcement that the entire stock of the Furniture Emporium, Inc., has recently been acquired by George B. Kornegay and Eugene G. Acree who are now changing the name to Acree-Kornegay Furniture company, was made Tuesday.

The Furniture Emporium was organized by Mr. Acree in 1925, and was located at that time on Hunter street. Early in 1926, the firm acquired the present location at 142 Whitehall street where the space and facilities have been greatly increased to meet the demand of additional business.

George B. Kornegay, who is president and treasurer of the reorganized Acree-Kornegay Furniture company, is a furniture man of wide experience. While he is not active at the present time except in an advisory capacity, he probably will be in the future. Meanwhile he is southeastern sales manager for the Buck's Store and Range company of St. Louis, Mo., with whom he has been associated for years. He has made his home in Atlanta for several years, and is well known here, being a member of the Lions' club, chamber of commerce, and other civic organizations.

Mr. Acree, who has been with the firm since its organization, is an Atlanta man, having been connected with a number of the leading furniture stores here before going into business for himself. He is vice president and manager, under the new organization.

The reorganization sale is now in progress. Unusual preparations have been made to give bargain prices on all articles for the home.

do know that it was because of the empress dowager and her actions that the idea germinated in the then stagnant mind of the Yellow Giant to discard tradition and to taste of freedom from the yoke.

(In the third and final interview in Thursday's edition of The Constitution, Dr. Ayers will present informative enlightenment upon the present situation in China, information gained only through continuous residence in the heart of that country and by virtue of fraternization with its leaders.)

Commissioner Quits.
New York, March 29.—(AP)—Police Commissioner George V. McLaughlin has resigned, it was announced today. He is to become first vice president of the Postal Telephone & Telegraph company.

Sen Yat Sen Disappointed.
"Dr. Sen Yat Sen, however, was doomed to disappointment. For in 1915 his successor attempted to set himself up as emperor. Public sentiment in favor of the republic was too strong, however, and Yuan was forced to retract and continue as president until his death.

"Shortly after Yuan's election as president, the world war started. Seizing upon this opportunity Japan served her infamous 21 demands, which virtually placed all of China under Japanese domination. The people did not exist. China had experienced the singular delight of radical reform for more than a half century and the country was not yet appeased. The movement was now started and was not to be stopped easily. Having once broken away from the ties of ancient tradition without suffering untoward results, all of China became intoxicated with the taste of comparative freedom and demanded more. And having gained this from the country itself, the demands naturally extended beyond the border, with the result that today we see a huge country, intoxicated with the desire for liberty, exerting its tremendous power to obtain it.

"To be more precise as to the actual events leading up to the present troubles, we need only to point to the action of certain politicians of northern China at the conclusion of the world war, when they granted important concessions to Japan in exchange for Japanese gold. The country passed into complete control of military barons, much on the order of the feudal lords in Europe in the dark ages. But despite the many contrasting chiefs at the head of the various warring factions, we still see one idea which all China harbors in common—the demand from the foreign countries for the complete freedom of China and the restoration of the wealth of the country to the people.

"We do not know what might have taken place had not the beautiful Tsu Hsi gained individual power over all of China in the last century, but we

DESPERADO BAND HELD ON CHARGES OF HORSE THEFTS

Bismarck, N. D., March 29.—(AP)—A band of desperadoes, whose alleged operations as cattle rustlers, train robbers and horse thieves brought reminiscences of the "bad men" of the early west, was under arrest today on charges of grand larceny for stealing horses.

and four others were sought as the climax of more than a year's investigation. The arrests were made at McIntosh, S. D., late yesterday, after Ted Albers, sheriff of Oliver county, had made arrangements for purchasing horses, alleged to have been stolen. Several rangers later identified the animals as their property. The activities of the band first came to official attention more than a year ago. Farmers and ranchers reported thefts of horses and cattle.

MAN FOUND DEAD ON BUGGY SEAT

When a horse and buggy drew up at the curb on Kirkwood avenue near Powell street about noon Tuesday, the equipage stood there for half an hour before a passing pedestrian investigated.

He found a man sitting bolt upright in the seat, his fingers clutching a taut rein while the horse stood patiently waiting his master's command. The man in the buggy made no response to the pedestrian's hail; he only sank lower in his seat when the investigator shook him. Then an ambulance was summoned, and at Grady hospital physicians pronounced the man dead.

He was later identified at the chapel of Ed Bond and Condon company as William Edgar Walker, of Campbellton road, a well-known horse trader of that locality.

He is survived by his wife and one daughter, Mrs. G. F. Orgain; one son, A. T. Westmoreland, and two brothers, D. O. Walker, of Atlanta, and Lee Walker, of Memphis, Tenn. Funeral services will be held this afternoon at 3 o'clock from the residence, The Rev. W. S. Pruitt will officiate and interment will be in Greenwood cemetery.

MEN WHO MADE THE WORLD

WRAGED AT HAVING COME OFF SECOND BEST, ONE OF THE FORESTERS FITTED AN ARROW TO HIS BOW AND SHOT AT ROBIN HOOD WHO HAD GONE SOME DISTANCE DOWN THE FOREST GLADE. IT BURIED ITSELF IN A TREE CLOSE TO ROBIN HOOD'S HEAD. INSTANTLY THE HOT BLOOD MOUNTED IN ROBIN HOOD'S HEAD. HE WHIRLED, NOKED ANOTHER ARROW AND WITHOUT FURTHER ADO, SPED IT ON ITS WAY. IT BURIED ITSELF IN THE BREAST OF THE FORESTER WHO FELL DEAD TO THE GROUND. THEN, BEFORE THE OTHERS COULD GATHER THEIR WITS ABOUT THEM, ROBIN VANISHED IN THE DEPTHS OF THE GREENWOOD.

WHEN HE HAD PENETRATED TO THE HEART OF THE FOREST, ROBIN HOOD SEATED HIMSELF. THE JOY WAS GONE FROM HIS HEART AND THE SUNSHINE FROM HIS SOUL. HE HAD SLAIN A MAN AND HAD POACHED UPON THE KING'S DEER. A REWARD WAS ON HIS HEAD AND HIS LIFE WAS THE PRICE OF CAPTURE.

King Richard I.

ROBIN WAS DECLARED AN OUTLAW AND DEEP IN THE HEART OF THE FOREST THERE CAME TO HIM FROM TIME TO TIME MANY OTHER MEN WHO FOR ONE REASON OR ANOTHER, WHICH WE WOULD NOW REGARD AS TRIVIAL, HAD BEEN OUTLAWED AND DARED NOT ENTER THE TOWNS AND CITIES OF MERRIE ENGLAND. MORE THAN ONE HUNDRED GOOD, STOUT YEMEN SO GATHERED ABOUT ROBIN HOOD AND CHOSE HIM TO BE THEIR CHIEF. THESE MEN, HAVING BEEN OUTLAWED BY BARONS, ABBOTS, KNIGHTS AND SQUIRES, SWORE LOYALTY TO ONE ANOTHER AND TO THEIR CHIEF AND TOOK OATH THAT THEY WOULD ROB THE RICH TO HELP THE POOR.

By DR. ELLIOTT SHORING, NOTED HISTORIAN

ONE DAY ROBIN HOOD WENT FORTH ALONE TO SEEK ADVENTURE. ON THE EDGE OF THE FOREST WHERE A LAD BRIGGED A BROOK, HE MET A TALL, POWERFUL STRANGER. ROBIN HOOD SOUGHT TO PASS FIRST, SO DID THE STRANGER. SINCE THIS COULD NOT BE, ROBIN HOOD CHALLENGED THE STRANGER TO A BOUT WITH THEIR STAVES. ROBIN HOOD WAS TALL, BUT LESS SO BY A HEAD THAN THE MAN HE NOW MET IN THE ENGLISH SPORT OF CUGEL PLAY.

Tech Glee Club Costumes Made By Tech Students

When the Georgia Tech Mandolin and Glee club make its appearance Saturday night at the Erlanger in the last performance of the season, the audience will be given a glimpse of what the students of Tech do in their college course. The beautiful gold and white capes, the gold ties and sashes worn by the members of the club in their final showing of the 1927 season took place in the laboratory at Tech. The cloth is of satin, the work of which is of cotton, and the filling of Celanese, a synthetic fibre manufactured by the American Cellulose and Chemical Manufacturing company. This is the first time in the history of the club that the costumes have been designed and made by the students.

In the ever popular "Drinking Song" from the "Student Prince" were made in the Tech wood shops of which J. H. Henkle, one of the foremost authorities on veneering in the south, is in charge.

One of the feature numbers of the program will be the concert Allen T. McNeil, considered one of the best cornet soloists in the south. The first number will be "Intermezzo" from "Cavalleria Rusticana," by Mascagni, followed by "My Heart at Thy Sweet Voice" from "Samson et Delilah," by C. Saint-Saens.

The 22 fraternities at Tech will occupy rows in the following order: Pi Kappa Phi, Sigma Chi, Theta Chi, Phi Kappa Psi, Sigma Alpha Epsilon, Phi Kappa Psi, Phi Gamma Delta, Kappa Alpha, Sigma Phi Epsilon, Phi Delta Theta, Chi Phi, Tau Omega, Phi Sigma Kappa, Sigma Nu, Delta Tau Delta, Pi Lambda Delta, Tau Epsilon Phi and Phi Epsilon Phi.

Speakers Attack and Defend Proposed New City Charter

With a series of charges and counter charges, opposing camps in the battle over the proposed city manager charter for Atlanta, Tuesday, March 29, back to back in the mayor form, Mr. Hartfield declared before the Businessmen's club.

Charges Justified.

Mr. Hartfield made the feature address at the regular weekly luncheon meeting. A large number of members attended.

In addition to glaring injustices which the proposed new charter would inflict on the electorate, the one outstanding feature of the new system would be unequal representation," the speaker charged. "It would be a government for big interests—owned, controlled and operated for the big man. The little man would be ignored out of government. His vote would mean less than nothing. Why, every one of the nine members of the new board of education under the new charter could come from one ward. Two wards of the city could band together under the new system and the others would be absolutely without a voice in the city's affairs."

"The tax rate could be raised by a vote of this same two wards—those wards where the new charter has been hatched and by persons who are attempting to put the new charter plan over. The big wards could form a coalition and representative government in Atlanta would be a thing of the past. The very thing our fathers fought for would be defeated and a foreign czar imported to dictate how every dollar of our money would be spent. The legislature would have no voice in checking large tax rates increases if the new charter is passed. A vote of a majority of the voters is all that is necessary."

"Figures show that Atlanta is the second lowest city in operation cost per capita in the entire United States. These figures were compiled by the United States department of commerce. The city which is lower is not operated on a city manager government, and no town which is so operated anywhere approaches Atlanta in the matter of governmental economy."

Work to Begin on Emory Pool

In keeping with the enormous expansion program adopted at the last meeting of the board of trustees of Emory university, contracts are being let and work will begin next week on a large swimming pool for the Emory campus. According to President Harvey W. Cox the pool will be the largest in the south and will be built in addition to the proposed new lake.

Approximate cost of the new pool will be $20,000. It will be 30 feet wide and 90 feet long. It will be of concrete nicely smoothed and graduated from the 2-foot depth to an 8-foot maximum depth. Showers, dressing rooms and other modern equipment will be installed in the new plant. A pumping station will be installed in the new plant with a system of purification and chlorinating the water. It should be ready for use by early summer.

The pool is to be built in the hollow immediately behind the university power plant, and there will be a road running from the dormitories, around the swimming pool and crossing over from the new road to the lake and the future fraternity row. Work on the lake will begin along with the construction of the new marble chemistry building.

Work on the lake will begin along with the construction of the new marble chemistry building.

Approximate cost of the new pool will be $20,000. It will be 30 feet wide and 90 feet long. It will be of concrete nicely smoothed and graduated from the 2-foot depth to an 8-foot maximum depth. Showers, dressing rooms and other modern equipment will be installed in the new plant. A pumping station will be installed in the new plant with a system of purification and chlorinating the water. It should be ready for use by early summer.

The pool is to be built in the hollow immediately behind the university power plant, and there will be a road running from the dormitories, around the swimming pool and crossing over from the new road to the lake and the future fraternity row. Work on the lake will begin along with the construction of the new marble chemistry building.

THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION

VOL. LIX., No. 289.

ATLANTA, GA., WEDNESDAY MORNING, MARCH 30, 1927.

LEAGUE OFFICIALS HAVE INTERESTING HOBBIES; HIGH TRIBUTE PAID SPECIAL EDITION WORKERS

League Heads Possess Many Fair Charms

By Mary H. Strobar.

TAKING a peep at the Junior League officers apart from their official duties, we find them vastly interested in a variety of things. Dolly Blacklock (Mrs. Eugene R. Black, Jr., president) finds herself so deeply submerged right now in the running of the tea room and this special edition of The Constitution, that she has almost forgotten her pleasure in bridge, golf, mah jongg, dances, etc. It is typical of Dolly, however, for her to have put aside her interest in these things and to have devoted herself to making a successful presidency of so valuable an organization. But with all of this, Dolly's two adorable and attractive children are accorded the love and guidance they rightly deserve.

MAMMIE ANSLEY (Mrs. Lewis Gregg, vice president) frankly declares that she had rather fish and spend delightful days at her cottage at St. Simons Island than anything in the world. She also takes a deep interest in her flowers. Then, too, there are many dogs at the Gregg home to be petted and looked after.

MARGARET NELSON, who possesses a beautiful voice, finds time in the rush of things to keep up her voice lessons, and practices each day. In her gracious way, Margaret has always contributed to the success of the Junior League Follies by singing many lovely songs. She also lends her voice to St. Luke's Episcopal church choir. Sportively speaking, her latest hobby is horseback riding, although she loves all sports and games.

TO KATHERINE WILCOX (Mrs. Philip Wilcox, treasurer) life is only a jumble of figures. Being the league treasurer, taking charge of the tea room accounts, and having kept an account of the ads for this special edition of The Constitution, she lives, breathes and dreams in a world of figures. A charming ten-year-old daughter and a keen interest in social, civic and philanthropic affairs claim her remaining hours—if there are any!

LOVELY EMMIE NIXON (Mrs. William A. Parker, Jr., recording secretary) fairly radiates the happy and charming personality which endears her to all her friends. She finds that the duties of a young housekeeper fill the hours of her days so completely that she does not have to seek diversion elsewhere.

ELLEN NEWELL (corresponding secretary) lives a busy life. Besides being a delightful and attractive friend, she divides her interest between her work with the Home for the Friendless, the Girl Reserves of the Y. W. C. A., etc., and the social life that naturally comes to a young lady. The doors of the hospitable Newell home in Druid Hills are always thrown open to Ellen's friends, and here one is sure to find a welcome and delightful entertainment.

League Convention Here During 1922 Is Recalled With Pride

In recalling Junior League activities, none is more vivid than the national convention held in Atlanta in April, 1922. Miss Marion Stearns (now Mrs. Edgar Upton) was president of the Atlanta League, and with her hand on the steering wheel of this organization, the true hospitality of the south was extended to visiting delegates, who included many of the most prominent and popular women from all parts of the United States.

Other officers at the time were: Mrs. Henry Tompkins, vice president; Miss Elizabeth Hawkins (now Mrs. John L. Hopkins, second vice president); the former Miss Mae Horine, recording secretary; Miss Henrietta Tupper (now Mrs. Stanley Pearce), treasurer, and Mrs. Hunter Muse, corresponding secretary.

Inaugurating the entertainments for delegates to the convention was the reception given at the Piedmont Driving club. In the evening of that day the dance at the Driving club gave the visitors "a taste of the south." The next morning the ladies were entertained at an old-fashioned barbecue at Druid Hills Golf club, and that afternoon the lovely garden party given by Mrs. John W. Grant at her home "Crignellachie" on Paces Ferry road was a mecca for convention delegates.

The league presidents were entertained at an elaborate luncheon at the East Lake Country club Friday, and that evening there was a dance at the Piedmont Driving club. Saturday the visitors were entertained at a luncheon given by the Atlanta Women's club.

The six photographs above used in the special edition of The Constitution edited by the Atlanta Junior League include the officers of this foremost organization. From left to right, top row, are: Mrs. Lewis Gregg, first vice president; Mrs. Eugene R. Black, Jr., president; Miss Margaret Nelson, second vice president; lower row, Miss Ellen Newell, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Philip Wilcox, treasurer, and Mrs. William A. Parker, Jr., recording secretary. This group of officers have always taken much interest in all the activities sponsored by the league, and contributed much personal service in the advancement of the league's social service work. Photograph of Mrs. Gregg by Thurston Hatcher; photograph of Miss Nelson by Brubacker.

Junior League Bulletin Wins Praise of New York Paper

The Junior League Bulletin, a monthly magazine published by the Association of Junior Leagues of America, is a project of the league well worth mentioning, and an official organ of which the league is justly proud. Edited and published exclusively by Junior League girls, it has grown from a two-page leaflet to a hundred-page magazine. It is regarded and esteemed so highly by the New York Herald, that when it appeared upon the news stands for the first time this paper printed the following editorial which bespeaks its worth in journalism:

"The Junior League Bulletin, founded in 1911, is a monthly magazine, published by the Association of Junior Leagues of America. Originally a news bulletin for members of the association, it has now become a magazine of youthful opinion with an ever growing appeal to the general public.

stands as a journal of liberal opinion will add a column to the annals of American journalism."

Worth-While News.

Besides news of local interest to each league, such as charity work, ways of raising money, etc., and personal notes of the league members, the bulletin each month contains editorials and news on national affairs, education, art, music, books, poetry, and covers subjects which the public demands of any well edited, well read magazine.

The editorial staff includes: Mrs. Charles A. Lindley, editor; Dorothy Milburn, assistant editor; Maud Gould, managing editor; Elizabeth Kountze, circulation manager; Amy Ashmore, Clark, advertising manager; Mrs. Alan G. Kirk, "The Book Case;" Mrs. Walter S. Bartlett, literature and poetry; Mrs. John DeW. Peltz, theater and music; Helen Appleton Read, art. Mrs. Edwin Peeples is bulletin editor for Atlanta.

Due to the renumbering of Atlanta residences, the following appeared in a recent issue of the bulletin:

Trouble in Atlanta.

"There is great trouble in Atlanta! Erring children, husbands, bulletins, milk and groceries are wandering in a maze of mystery—someone with fiendish ingenuity has changed all the street and house numbers! Consternation reigns! The circulation manager of the Bulletin is prostrated and occasionally emerges from behind a growing rampart of new addresses to consign Atlanta and all that pertains thereto to the nether darkness with fluency and unexpected skill. Mrs. Peeples sends passionate cries for help, and new Bulletins, but how, I ask you, can you send help to a place where addresses are things of the moment, here today and gone tomorrow? We are doing our best but you who live in this changeable town must sit down in your homes, if you can find them, and possess your souls in patience till your wandering Bulletins return to you."—Harassed Headquarters."

Paris, March 20.—Blue and white kid is used with buttonholes on one of Premet's prettiest ensembles for spring. Paris has approved this model of blue-gray wool mixture with a three-quarter length coat.

It has a distinctively cut front closing on the one piece dress and a belt of the kid. The large buttons on the dress are of blue.

Leather Bracelets Appear in Trio Sets.

Paris, March 20.—Bracelets of leather banded with narrow gold rings and worn in "trio sets" are Paris' latest version of the sport wristlet.

The leather is colored to match the dress. Originally leather bracelets were intended to take the place of the jade circlets which are too fragile for active sportswomen to wear. Now they have become ornaments in their own right.

Paris, March 20.—Dressmakers furnish the best clue to the things about which feminine Paris thinks. Each dress sponsored by a fashionable dressmaker is christened when it makes its

Fine Group Guides League In Year's Work

Included in the attractive group of photographs on this page are the officers of the Atlanta Junior League for 1926-27, who are steering the league through a year of unusual activities and strenuous undertakings. The one big undertaking is this special edition of The Constitution—the other the opening of the tea room in the Medical Arts building, the group including Mrs. Eugene Black, Jr., president; Mrs. Lewis Gregg, vice president; Miss Margaret Nelson, second vice president; Miss Ellen Newell, corresponding secretary; Mrs. William Parker, recording secretary, and Mrs. Philip Wilcox, treasurer. The board of directors include Mesdames De Sales Harrison, Henry Troutman, Charles Orme, Clark Howell, Jr., Floyd McRae, Jr., Edwin Peeples, John Thieson, Henry Newman and Miss Callie Orme.

These officers have proven amply competent of guiding the destinies of the league, as has always been the case with Junior League officers throughout its history. Representative of the group of young girls and young matrons who make up the league, they run true to form. Backed by breeding, education and refinement, these girls, an-censored by distinguished citizens who have aided in and are responsible for the growth and development of this community and state are following in the footsteps of pioneer developers of Atlanta, and have taken up the development and advancement of those less fortunate than themselves, with the same enthusiasm, energy and determination as did that group of debutantes in New York, who, at the termination of the Mauve decade—under the leadership of the then Mary Harriman—responded to the call and pledged themselves to the support of social service work.

Cast aside the shackles of social pleasures, these Junior League girls with a determination born of pride and garnered from experiences and examples set by their Junior League careers, march boldly forward on their way, alleviating the suffering of unfortunates and giving light in the huddled drab corners of life.

Since the organization of the league, a little more than ten years ago, this civic and philanthropic organization has functioned with an object to foster interest among its members in the social, economic, educational and civic conditions of Atlanta and to make a volunteer service one of efficiency. Using education and courage as a cornerstone, this group of young women has built the Atlanta Junior League upon the highest standards and ideals which are characteristics always identified with the flower of southern womanhood.

League Officers Praise Workers of Special Edition

The officers of the Junior League have paid high tribute to the following officials and team captains of the league's special Constitution edition organization, declaring that the success of this enterprise has been due in a large measure to their unceasing efforts in its behalf:

Office Chairmen—Mrs. Philip Wilcox, Mrs. Rembrandt Marshall, Mrs. Lawrence Willett, Miss Katherine Erwin.
Circulation—Mrs. Lewis Gregg.
Distribution—Mrs. Greene Warren.
Team Captains:
Team No. 1—Mrs. Henry Newman.
Team No. 2—Mrs. Bolling Jones, Jr.
Team No. 3—Mrs. William Huger.
Team No. 4—Mrs. Walter Wellborn.
Team No. 5—Mrs. E. A. Peeples.
Team No. 6—Mrs. John Knox.
Team No. 7—Mrs. W. W. Finley.
Follow-Up Committee—Mrs. Julia Thomas and Mrs. Carroll McGaughey.
Editorials—Mrs. Grover Middlebrooks, Mrs. E. V. Carter, Jr., Mrs. Henry Troutman.

The Room

(From the Junior League Bulletin)
The room was drowned in shadows, black and deep,
That pushed away the light with heavy hands
And, settled in the sheltered corners, steeped
In dark-robed ease, while peace in heavy strands Hung from the rafters, like blue moss that drips
From moistened walls of caves in silent strips
The firelight, splashing red and glowing gold Across the dark, showed in its wavering light Reflections wrapped in cloudy dusk, and rolled
In-busts of evenings melting into night
And ghosts of laughter, happy dreams once dreamt Sprayed out the silent air in dim content.
—JANE RULE, St. Louis.

Her Day of Work And Play

BY AMY ABBOTT

GLOBE TROTTER AT 80.
Nothing so astonishing as the examples of feminine endurance at hardships which crop out from time to time. Of course it was a man who first conceived the bright idea to refer to women as "the weaker sex." I wonder whether they really are weaker?

Women play all the games a man plays. They hunt, swim, ride, shoot and many of them do all these things better than many of the men whose exclusive prerogative in such strenuousness was conceded not many years ago. They endure long hours in industry, stick through trying days at executive desks, and, if necessary, outlast any merely male filibuster in the legislative halls of the nation.

All of which is inspired by the cheerful news that Mrs. W. D. Cornish, of New York, has just completed a 4,000-mile motor trip through "darkest" Africa, at the sprightly age of 80 years!

Mrs. Cornish is the widow of the late vice president of the Union Pacific. Her only white companion on the 4,000-mile jaunt was her cousin, Miss C. B. Hooper.

And, just to make it more interesting, Miss Hooper celebrated her 80th birthday a week after the journey ended at Johannesburg.

Engineers Admit Woman.
The American Society of Civil Engineers has broken down its wall of long-established tradition, by admitting to full membership, Miss Elsie Eaves, who has enjoyed an active career, both as a practitioner and an instructor in her profession.

Women's World Fair.
Twenty years of progress by American women will be fittingly celebrated in May at Chicago, with a women's world fair. An amazing progress it is.

Women who are judges, and women who are representatives in congress will attend; chemists and agriculturists, women who control big businesses, women in law, insurance, medicine, art and a score of other vocations will be present to inspire still greater progress in the years to come. The list of famous women who will go to the feminist world fair is long, but here are a few names, chosen at random.

Judge Florence Allen, of Ohio; Mary T. Norton, representative in congress from New Jersey; Mrs. Percy Pennybacker, of Texas, former president of the National Federation of Women's

How To Achieve Beauty

BY MME. HELENA RUBINSTEIN.

SPRING HATS AND SPRING COMPLEXIONS.

A Word About Colors in Spring Chapeaux.

Yesterday I talked about the importance of the proper lines in the selection of hats, and today I am going to give you a few hints regarding colorings in connection with the selection of your spring bonnet.

In regard to coloring, I want to say that one's eyes act as an outstanding color index. Your eyes are an important indication of your temperament and personality, and it is therefore wise to select hat colorings that will play up to the shades of your eyes and flatter them. This is even more important with a hat than with a frock, as it sets so near the eyes.

You should be very careful to select just the right shade of a color that will be becoming to your eyes—just the right tone will make them bright and sparkling, while another shade of the same color may make them seem lifeless.

The next important consideration in connection with the selection of the proper colored hat is the skin. Your skin may not be flawless, but with proper care will be as good as fresh looking, not sallow and luggish. I know many women who possess dark-toned skins, but they are so well cared for that the effect is very pleasing.

There are certain shades of some colors that are not becoming to any Clubs: Mrs. LeRoy Springs, of South Carolina; Mrs. Letitia Jewell Brown, of West Virginia; Mrs. Ida B. Wise Smith, of Iowa; Mrs. D. E. Ericson, of Nevada.

The date set is between May 19 and May 27. Write it in your engagement book. It is by no means an inconsequential occasion.

A Unique Specimen.

This demands attention. Perhaps we may even cheer a little. Lela Mae Stiles, of Frankfort, Ky., is a pretty girl and does not wish to go into the movies. Selected to represent the pulchritude of the Blue Grass state at the annual Confederate reunion at Tampa, Fla., in April, Miss Stiles at once declared that under no circumstances would she sign a motion picture contract.

She has posed, she said, for magazine artists, and her features have been copied on numerous covers designed but the movies—not! She gave no reason, saying simply: "Because I do not wish to." That is ample.

woman except those with very white skins, and these shades, of course, should not be used by most people. As you grow older your skin may be inclined to take on a slight sallowness, and then you must be especially careful of certain colors, particularly in hats. Don't forget each color has some shades that are trying, and also that there are shades in all colors which are not. There is really no excuse these days for women wearing anything but becoming shades, with the many beautiful and flattering tones they have to select from.

Lack of "color sense" is the basis of so much wrong dressing. Nearly every woman permits herself too many colors. If you cannot have a hat for each costume, then by all means select one that can be worn with several without "crying out." A safe solution is to find a few colors that are becoming to you and which seem to almost belong to you and to stick to them as much as possible.

In selecting a hat use of the most important things to consider is color. First, becomingness, then adaptability to the frocks and wraps you must wear with it.

MAKING MODERN MENUS

With spring here, the hostess is likely to get away from hot puddings and such and serve more cake. Here's a recipe for a light dessert cake:

ALMOND COCONUT CAKE.

One-half cup shortening, one cup sugar, three-fourths cup sweet milk, two cups flour, two teaspoons baking powder, three egg whites, one-half teaspoon almond extract, one-half teaspoon vanilla extract, one cup grated fresh coconut, one cup almonds, blanched and cut very fine. Mix and bake as any other loaf cake.

ICING FOR ALMOND CAKE.

Two cups brown sugar, one-half cup water, three egg whites. Boil sugar and water until it spins a thread. Pour slowly on the beaten egg whites and beat until the mixture holds its shape when spooned on a cake.

(Copyright, 1927, for The Constitution.)

Milk Committee Working For Conservation of Life

BY MARY COHEN ORME

Chairman of Milk Committee.

No work of charity, in my opinion, has ever been inaugurated by the Junior League which has proved as worth while and as essential as the milk fund charity.

It is a known fact that milk is beneficial to both old and young, but especially true is this in the case of persons who by force of circumstances have meager incomes. In general terms, this means undernourished people.

It will be gratifying to the general public to know that with the comparatively small fund appropriated for the milk fund (between $400 and $500 a year) worlds of good has been accomplished.

I may point, for instance, to one family which includes 14 children, hitherto neglected and distinctly undernourished, and the entire family has been restored to health and vigor. The children are able to keep up with others of their age in school as a result of the improvement in their condition brought about by receiving the proper nourishment.

I am sure it will hearten the members of the Junior League to know that their generous members of the organization are house rent of this particular needy family.

The amount of money furnished the milk committee and the number of children receiving fresh and wholesome milk is constantly increasing, and the good it is doing in conserving, if not saving human life is incalculable.

Many Minds

"Chinese life in general is less affected by war and disorder than life in most other countries would be under similar circumstances. The unit of Chinese social life is still, as it has been for many centuries, the family in the larger sense, more properly, perhaps, the family clan. The unit of its political life is the village, quite often merged into the clan. These units together form the real administrative system, the real government of China—the village elder as the responsible authority in each community, the clan head or the family head as its administrative assistants."—George E. Anderson, former U. S. consul in China.

"We have learned how to prevent or mitigate so many diseases that mankind has ceased to die in the mass. We are dying individual deaths now, from causes peculiar to ourselves and largely controllable by ourselves. . . . The life of children and their preservation in the first few years has extended the average period of life to its present figure. As mankind examines

Seven Wives All Seek Ivan, the Polish Sheik
Warsaw, Poland.—Ivan Petrovitch, skid at shelling was a wow. He peeped all the pretty girls. Say, could he neck? And how! He loved them young, he loved them old, he loved them slim, and wide; and every now and then he'd take some pippin for a bride! At last, when Ivan had annexed not less than seven wives, the cops came in and nailed him. What a wrangle! They hung the seven, for bigamy, they told him, is on our list of crimes, and no good honest Polish lad may marry seven times. But Ivan's brides all burst in tears as hubby went to jail. "We love him so," they told the judge, who wouldn't hear of bail. So Ivan, conscience stricken and sad, in his cell he sat: "When I get out I'll marry one of those gals, and that's that." Now Ivan languishes in jail while in the world outside, his seven wives cast lots to see who'll be his final bride.

Hey, Hollywood, Lookit!
Brookline, Mass.—This town has no movie theater and unless the citizens change their minds, it never will have. Motion pictures interfere with school studies, parents say, and the 47,000 residents voiced their determination to keep the movies out of Brookline in a referendum which defeated, by an overwhelming vote, a proposal to permit one theater to open. It doesn't matter much, Boston's right next door.

TIGHT-ROPE.
(From the Junior League Bulletin.)
We climbed a framework to a place remote. From that hard ground that was your common seat we came. And in a dismal and perverse suspense. We stand here waiting for an antidote. To dizziness that has me by the throat. Don't look too hard at me! Can I dispense. With caution, high upon this prominence? Today, as yesterday, you dare not note. The tight-rope stretching taut from you to me. Heroic challenge to enchanted folly. Will you break faith with fear and melancholy. Escape, from boys of reason, henceforth be. A disbeliever in mere circumstance And adept in the dangerous heights of chance? Elva de P. Mathews, New York.

Minor Musings

Mme. Schumann-Heink says that a happy home is where a man is "boss." We now await a snappy come-back from the Lucy Stone league.

A Chicago woman seeking divorce complains that when her husband is "tight," he is loose with his money.

A mother should realize that although her daughter may be a very good girl that doesn't prevent her from having a very bad voice.

Many a man is leading a single life because he never had a chance to lead a double one.

Nobody cares much about your troubles unless there is a scandal connected with them.

WILBUR E. SUTTON.

THE BOARDS LAMENT.

(From The Junior League Bulletin.)

The volunteer we simply hate. Is Nellie Green who's always late. The substitute: we do despise. When called on only show surprise.

The girl we simply cannot stand. If she who crabs on every hand. —K. H. H., Waterbury.

its ailments a little more closely and uses more intelligence in preventing these ailments the course of life will be lengthened, in the promised three score and ten. —Dr. Charles A. Mayo, great surgeon.

The Way I Feel About It

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY.

A whipped horse never pulled a willing load.

EPH SNOW

"The professional man who boasts his own game may be unethical," commented Eph Snow, "but I've noticed that he drives the finest cars."

ENVY.
My car may knock and creak and groan. And erstwhile make pathetic moan. With horn of coarse and raucous tone— But 'gainst its title is no loan!

My "boat" is poorer 'e'n than I. And life with me's just "getting by." But bill collectors I defy. When I chug forth beneath the sky!

My neighbor has a limousine. A clinking, clanking new machine. Where sits his wife, a haughty queen. On whom he spends his every bean.

Would I trade places with that cur. Whose debts are piling mountain high. And no relief is ever nigh? It's hard to tell—I'd like to try.

MODERN MILITENCY.
When modern Militency heard that President Coolidge had made a plea for "Old Ironsides," she snifflingly remarked: "These old fogies'll never find out that a girl can be just as modest without a corset as with one."

MODESTY.
The girl who goes to extremes thinks that modesty is the worst policy.

OLD OCEAN.
The ocean's not flirtatious; It generally behaves. But filled with bathing beauties, Sometimes the sad sea waves.

IN OUR TOWN.

Mazie Whirks is just so popular with the roadster boys that though she's nearly 20 years old she's never learned to walk.

THE POINT OF VIEW.

"Man that is born of woman is of few days." Said an ancient pessimist. But he has more days than a mosquito.

Which only has one. Although not nearly so many as an elephant. But who would change places With an elephant?

WHO REMEMBERS
When lightning rods were the visible sign of a farmer's prosperity? A SHORT STORY.

"How does it happen, Mandy, that you never are able to pay your rent when I call?" asked the landlord of his negro tenant.

"See heah, boss," she snorted, "yo'-all waits 'twell yo' has seven cullud babies one after another, and see how much money yo' got for such foolishness as rent!"

"55 Years in Atlanta"

Over 50,000<sup>00</sup> Paid To The Atlanta Constitution Subscribers

During the past five years through its Insurance Service Department

All Constitution subscribers and immediate members of their families between 15 and 70 years of age are eligible to this insurance service.

GET IT NOW—TODAY—TOMORROW MAY BE TOO LATE

YOU—May Be Killed or Crippled TODAY! Destiny May Not Let You Avoid the Tragedy

Only recently two death claims of $2,000.00 each paid on account of insured burning to death in residence—no such coverage is offered by any other Atlanta newspaper—The Constitution offers the greatest insurance coverage to its subscribers of any daily paper, not only in the South, but the entire country. Yes—it costs a little more, but it is worth many times more.

$7500 (Travel, Accident and Death Policy Increases 10% Per Year to $11,250.00 Value in 5 Years.) $2000 (Automobile Accident Death Policy Increases 10% Per Year to $3,000.00 Value in 5 Years.) $1000 (Pedestrian Accident Death Policy Increases 10% Per Year to $1,500.00 Value in 5 Years.)

Large cash payments for loss of eyes, limbs, etc., or a $10.00 weekly indemnity for total disability caused from such accidents as specified in the policy. Indemnity for loss of life as set forth in policy shall be payable to a beneficiary or estate of the insured, as may be specified by the applicant when applying for the insurance.

This insurance is for both old and new subscribers. If you are a subscriber, get this protection today. If you are not a subscriber, now is the time to subscribe and secure this protection.

It is the man who puts off until tomorrow who leaves want as his heritage to his loved ones. Do not put off taking advantage of this great protection for such a small registration fee.

Every Man, Woman and Child Between Ages of 15 and 70, In Atlanta and Vicinity, Should Secure Protection From Travel and Pedestrian Accidents, Through The Atlanta Constitution—Offered to Its Subscribers for a Small Fee.

Do It NOW!

Tomorrow May Be Too Late!

The Atlanta Constitution was the First Daily Newspaper in the Entire South to Offer Its Subscribers Travel and Pedestrian Accident Insurance Protection. Today There Is No Daily Newspaper In the South That Offers Such Complete and Large Travel and Pedestrian Accident Insurance Coverage As the Daily and Sunday Constitution, Which Paper Goes Into Nearly Every Worth-while Home in Atlanta and Vicinity and Is Delivered Into More Atlanta Homes Than Any Other Atlanta Newspaper.

THE SPENDTHRIFT WIFE.

(From the Junior League Bulletin)
You labored with me half the night.
And pointed out my evil ways,
And conjured up the dreadful plight
In which (you said) I'd end my days.
And never did you realize
The glory of your angry eyes!
Despairingly you sought to rouse
My better nature to profess Contrition for my broken vows,
Repentance for my sinfulness
But all the while I only knew
Your eyes were very, very blue.
Your voice raged on in chiding
"Unless you do as I insist,
Your reckless ways will ruin me!"
Cried you, and pounded with your fist
O righteous wrath poured out for naught!
"Delightful Eyes!" was all I thought

Establishment of Junior League's Tea Room Accomplishment of Mrs. Black's Regime

MRS. EUGENE R. BLACK, JR.

The most outstanding testimonial to the efficiency and progressiveness of the administration of Mrs. Eugene R. Black, Jr., present president of the Atlanta Junior League and eighth of the league's chief officers since its organization here in 1915, is the quaint and charming tea room in the Medical Arts building on Peachtree street.

Mrs. Black, who enjoys wide popularity among league members, originated the idea of establishing a tea room in which Junior League girls might turn their labor and ingenuity into actual dollars and cents with which to relieve conditions surrounding unfortunates in this city.

When she laid the matter before the league it was received with distinct enthusiasm, and league members who were practical business women extended their ready cooperation in making the venture the success it now is. Mrs. Lott Warren, Jr., and Mrs. Lorraine Montague took charge of the decorations and created the rustic French atmosphere which makes the tea room such an attractive eating place for the hundreds of patrons who have grown accustomed to attending it regularly.

The tea room has been in operation approximately six weeks, and Mrs. Black proudly says that it is already making a substantial return on money which was borrowed from the league's sinking fund in order to purchase equipment.

"It will take us a long time to repay this money in full," Mrs. Black said, "but already we are making money on the tea room and are steadily building up a bigger patronage. I think the tea room is doing splendidly and will yield a splendid return on our investment."

Mrs. Black was reticent about telling of the long hours of close application to problems of the tea room, which is distinctly a business institution and which has attracted a city-wide clientele, but friends in the league praised her highly for the way she stuck to the task and made it a success.

"She literally slaved over the business," they said, and Mrs. Black herself admitted that she had devoted practically all of her time to it. Mrs. Black became president of the league for a year's term last May and has proved herself a resourceful and efficient executive, one able to secure complete cooperation of the membership of the organization which she heads.

During her administration the league will have for the first time sponsored a special edition of The Constitution in order to secure charity funds, and the president has been a leading spirit in promoting the publication and making it a profitable venture for the league.

In addition to the league, under Mrs. Black, last November sponsored a golf match at East Lake Country club course in which a foursome composed of Bobby Jones, Gene Sarazen, Watts Gunn and Johnny Farrell played before a large benefit gallery. Members

Cake Recipes Favored by Junior League Girls

It's no longer fashionable to speak of the kind of cake that "mother used to bake."

Now the Junior League cake is the smart thing.

In the following recipes favored by Junior League girls, you'll find many good tips on cake baking:

Angel Food.

Eleven egg whites, one teaspoon vanilla, one teaspoon cream of tartar, 11-2 cups sugar, one cup flour.

Whip whites until stiff on a plate.

Add flavoring, whip in sugar sifted nine times. Lastly, whip in flour, sifted six times. Place oiled pan on bottom of angel-food pan. Do not grease sides. Bake 45 or 50 minutes in a moderate oven, until it becomes somewhat brown on top. After removal from oven, turn pan bottom-side up and leave for three hours.

Cherry Angel Food.

Make cake like the above recipe.

Pour half batter into baking dish and sprinkle in 1-4 cup chopped candied cherries. Pour in the rest of the batter and bake as above.

Apple-Sauce Fruit Cake.

One cup sugar, 1-2 cup shortening, 1-3-4 cups flour, two tablespoons warm water, 7-8 cup unsweetened apple sauce, 1-2 teaspoon cloves, one cup raisins, chopped, one teaspoon cinnamon, 1-4 teaspoon salt, 1-4 teaspoon nutmeg.

Cream together sugar, shortening, and spices. Add flour sifted with soda, and beat well. Add raisins and apple sauce.

Apple Sauce Cake.

One and one-half cups apple sauce, 1 cup sugar, 3-4 cup shortening, one teaspoon soda, one teaspoon cloves, one teaspoon allspice, 1-2 cup raisins, 1-2 cups flour.

Mix and bake in a moderate oven. Cover with apple icing.

Blitz Kuchen.

Three-quarter cup butter, 3-4 cup sugar, flour, two eggs, grated lemon rind, blanched almonds.

Beat eggs until light and thick. Add flour enough to make a batter which can be easily spread with knife.

Spread dough in a shallow pan. Sprinkle sliced blanched almonds on top. Bake in a moderate oven.

Blueberry Cake.

One cup butter, two cups sugar, two cups sour milk, one teaspoon soda, two eggs, blueberries.

Cream butter and sugar; add eggs and stir in milk in which the soda has been dissolved. Add flour enough to make a stiff batter, and as many berries as desired.

Boston Pound Cake.

One pound sugar, one pound flour, 3-4 cup butter, one cup sour cream, six eggs, one cup sherry wine, one lemon, one teaspoon soda.

Beat eggs separately. Use juice and grated rind of lemon. Bake slowly for one hour.

Chocolate Sour Cream Cake.

Two cups brown sugar, 1-2 cup rich sour cream, 1-2 cup sweet milk, 1-2 cup boiling water, 1-4 teaspoon salt, four squares chocolate, two eggs, two cups flour, one teaspoon soda.

Sift soda and salt with flour. Dissolve chocolate in hot water.

Cream Sponge Cake.

Two cups sugar, 1-2 cup water, one orange, eight eggs, 1-2 pound pastry flour.

Boil sugar and water until it spins a thread. Pour this slowly into the well-beaten yolks of the eggs. Beat until cold. Add to this the flour, juice and grated rind of orange, and lastly the stiffly-beaten whites of the eggs. Bake one hour in a slow oven. Ice when baked.

Daisy Loaf.

One pound pitted dates, one pound shelled walnuts, four eggs, one teaspoon vanilla, one cup sugar, one cup pastry flour, two teaspoons baking powder.

Bake in a loaf-pan lined with oiled paper, slowly for one hour.

White Fruit Cake.

Two cups sugar, one cup butter, one cup milk, four cups flour, eight egg whites, one cup orange juice, one cup citron, one teaspoon soda, two teaspoons cream of tartar.

Cut citron in thin slices. Chop raisins finely. Beat eggs until stiff. Bake slowly for one hour.

Fudge Cake.

One cup sugar, 1-2 cup melted butter, one cup flour, 1-2 teaspoon baking powder, two eggs, two squares melted chocolate, 1-2 cup walnuts, one teaspoon vanilla.

Bake in sheet about 20 minutes. Cut in squares for removal from oven.

Never-Fail Jelly Roll.

Four eggs, one teaspoon baking powder, four tablespoons boiling water, one cup sugar, one cup flour.

Beat eggs separately. Bake in a long tin. When done, turn out on paper on which sugar has been sprinkled. Spread with jelly. Roll and place in a cloth until wanted.

Lemon Sponge Cake.

Five eggs, one cup sugar, juice and rind one lemon, one cup flour.

Beat yolks until thick and creamy; slowly beat in sugar, add the lemon, and fold in alternately the flour and stiffly-beaten whites. Bake in angel-cake pan about 40 minutes.

Mahogany Cake.

Two cups brown sugar, 1-2 cup butter, 1-2 cup sour milk, two cups flour, one teaspoon vanilla, two eggs, 1-2 cup grated chocolate, one teaspoon soda, 1-2 cup boiling water.

Mix each set of ingredients together. Then combine two sets. Beat well. Have hot oven at first, then a slower degree of heat for baking.

One-Quarter Cup Butter.

One-quarter cup butter, one cup sugar, 1-2 teaspoon orange extract, 1-2 cup milk, two egg whites, 11-2 cups flour, two teaspoons baking powder.

Sift flour with baking powder three times and mix in following order: Butter, sugar, milk, eggs, flour. Bake in two shallow pans 20 minutes.

White Coconut Cake.

Two cups sugar, 2-1-2 cups flour, 1-2 cup butter, one teaspoon vanilla, 1-2 cup milk, two teaspoons baking powder, six egg whites. Use coconut frosting.

Yellow Cake.

Two and one-half cups flour, 11-2 cups sugar, 1-2 cup milk, one teaspoon vanilla, seven yolks and one white, two teaspoons baking powder, one cup butter.

Cream butter first, then add sugar, flavoring. Cream again. Then milk and part of the flour, and so until all is mixed.

SMALL CAKES.

Almond Cakes.

One-quarter pound butter, 1-2 cup sugar, one cup sifted flour, one egg yolk, 1-4 pound chopped blanched almonds.

Cream butter and sugar; add egg. Add flour gradually with almonds. Do not roll, but shape in princess molds, not too thick. Bake 15 to 20 minutes in a moderate oven. This recipe makes two dozen cakes.

Brown Cakes.

Two cups medium brown sugar, 3-4 cup butter, two cups flour, one cup raisins, 1-2 cup nuts, three eggs, 1-2 cup boiling water, one teaspoon soda.

Cream butter and sugar. Add eggs, one at a time, to the foregoing mixture, beating each in thoroughly. Add flour and beat again thoroughly. Place in small individual tins. Bake.

Lace Cakes.

Two and one-half cups oatmeal, one cup sugar, two teaspoons baking powder, two eggs, one tablespoon butter, one teaspoon vanilla.

Mix oatmeal, sugar and baking powder. Beat eggs well. Add vanilla. Melt butter, and mix all the ingredients together. Drop into a dripping pan from spoon.

Individual Spice Cakes.

One egg, one cup sugar, 11-2 cups flour, 1-4 cup nuts, 1-4 teaspoon cloves (optional), sour cream, one teaspoon soda, 1-2 teaspoon cinnamon, 1-4 cup raisins.

Break eggs into cup. Fill cup with sour cream. Add soda and remainder of ingredients. Bake in individual tins. Frost with a boiled frosting, to which one tablespoon peanut butter has been added.

Cream butter, sugar, grated lemon rind and juice. Add beaten eggs, flour and soda. Let stand in refrigerator one hour. Roll out and form in letter "S." Bake in moderate oven.

English Tea Cakes.

Two pints flour, one cup butter, two cups sugar, 1-2 cup milk, one cup chopped walnuts, three eggs, one teaspoon soda, orange peel, lemon peel, Sultana raisins, currants, citron, two teaspoons baking powder.

Mix baking powder, flour and butter thoroughly. Use enough peel, raisins, currants and citron to make cake dark. Stir in sugar and fruit. Heat milk in which soda has been dissolved and stir into mixture. Add eggs, well beaten. Beat well. Drop in pieces size of walnut on buttered tins. Bake in a moderate oven.

One cup sugar, one cup butter, one cup almonds, chopped, six egg yolks, three cups flour, 1-2 teaspoon vanilla. Roll into balls. Place a blanched almond on top of each. Dip in powdered sugar. Bake about 25 minutes in moderate oven.

Creamed Oysters.

1 quart oysters, 1 pint hot cream, 1 heaping tablespoon butter, 2 heaping tablespoons flour, 3-4 teaspoon salt, 1 saltspoon pepper.

1 shape cayenne pepper or several drop tabasco sauce. Melt butter; add flour and seasonings, blend all thoroughly. Then add cream about 1-3 at a time, stir constantly until the sauce is smooth and thick. Thoroughly wash the oysters, and parboil till plump. Skim carefully, drain and add to the above sauce. Serve hot on hot, buttered toast.

Brown Sugar Cookies.

One large cup brown sugar, 1 cup butter, 2 eggs, well beaten, 1-3 cup sour cream, 1 level teaspoon soda, vanilla or lemon extract.

Mix in order given, and add enough flour to roll. Bake in a moderate oven.

One cup chopped nuts and 1 cup chopped raisins may be added, if desired.

Shredded Ham With

Currant Jelly Sauce

One-half tablespoon butter, 1-3 glass currant jelly, 1 cup cold cooked ham, shredded, a few grains cayenne, 1-4 cup sherry wine.

Put butter and currant jelly over the flame. As soon as melted, add cayenne, wine, and ham. Simmer for five minutes.

Ham and Tomato Timbale.

One pint cooked tomato, 4 eggs, 1 teaspoon salt, 1-4 teaspoon pepper, 1 pint minced ham, 1-4 pint inside crumbs, day-old bread. Mix in order given, adding stiffly-beaten egg whites last. Turn into a buttered mold; stand in a pan of hot water and bake until firm in the center. Invert on a hot fry brown in bacon drippings. Add water. Cover skillet, let simmer slowly for one hour. Serve with a brown one tablespoon of flour and cover with gravy.

Peach Ice Cream.

One pint cream, 6 large peaches, 1 cup sugar, 1 tablespoon water. Peel peaches and mash well. Boil the stones, sugar and water and add the liquid to the peaches, then add cream, and freeze.

Pigs in Blankets.

Cut sirloin or round steak in two-inch strips, place on each a thin slice of bacon and a very thin slice of onion. Roll up and pin with toothpick.

In this picture is seen our horse-drawn ambulance of olden days on an emergency run at the Candler Race Track.

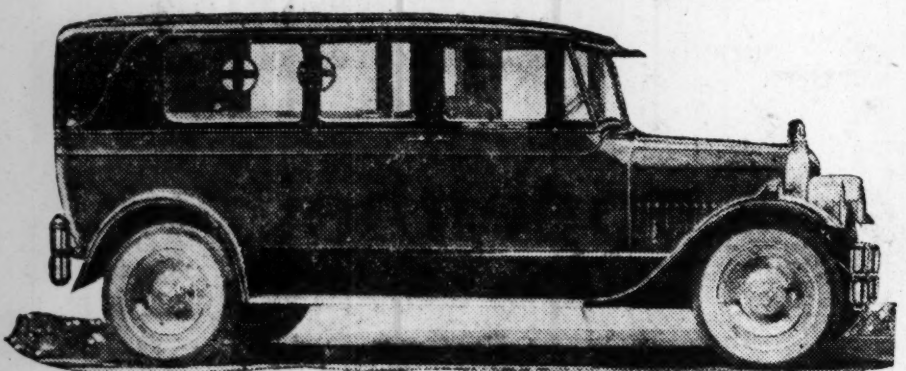

The horses galloping at a break-neck speed of 15 miles per hour. Truly very picturesque but lacking the speed and comfort of the automobile ambulance.

AMBULANCES of other years were a covered spring wagon, equipped with a mattress, serving the sick and injured. This evolved into the horse-drawn vehicle equipped with regulation hospital supplies and to the 1927 product—which incidentally is constructed to order at a cost of $5,000. What wonderful progress has been made in the motor ambulance, especially constructed for the ultra-comfort, convenience of the patient, equipped with Westinghouse shock absorbers, elliptic springs, heater, electric fan, Bomgardner hospital cot. Surely it is the acme of modern ambulance equipment.

Here you see our new ambulance, which is second to none in coachcraft, beauty and workmanship.

Work of Sheltering Arms Is Described by Mrs. Hurt

MRS. JOEL HURT, JR.

The following interesting account of the work done by the Sheltering Arms Association of Day Nurseries is given by Mrs. Joel Hurt, Jr., a leading worker for and former president of this wonderful organization.

"One of the most interesting things about the Sheltering Arms is the fact that this splendid organization got its start about 37 years ago in a disused box car and today maintains three-day nurseries furnished with modern equipment. One of these, the Osgood Sanders, was built and is operated on the lines stipulated by the National Federation of Day Nurseries," says Mrs. Joel Hurt, Jr., charming and able president of the Sheltering Arms Association of Day Nurseries.

This organization, which is one of the worthy agencies of the community chest, was organized in 1888, founded in 1890 and chartered in 1900. Its object is to give care during the day to the children of working parents and for this purpose three day nurseries are maintained: The Osgood Sanders Nursery at 142 West Baker street; the Cornelia Moore Nursery, on Garibaldi street, and the Gate City Nursery in East Point.

Mrs. Hurt continues, "The people of Atlanta are familiar with many of the phases of our work but we are especially anxious to acquaint our friends and the contributors to the community chest with details of our dietary and clinic."

"A dietary compiled from the publication of the National Federation of Day Nurseries, and required of all registered institutions, has been successfully introduced into each one of our three nurseries. This dietary provides one pint of sweet milk daily for each child through six years, and specially prepared food for all children through 12 years—a maximum amount of nourishment at a minimum cost. All recipes accompany this dietary, and have been arranged to insure the proper number of calories per day. A working schedule to meet local conditions and reduce expenses through judicious buying of the best materials has been prepared for each of the nurseries. Morning and afternoon lunches are given all the children through six years, in addition to the midday meal, providing their mothers' plans do not take them away from the nursery before the appointed hour. The feeding of infants is directed by the mothers and physicians in individual cases, and hourly schedules are hung in the diet kitchens for the convenience of the nurses.

"Following a health survey of the nurseries, a large percentage of children were found with some minor physical defect, easily remedied, if taken in hand promptly, but the discovery scarcely ever led to its correction through a report to the parent, as these parents are financially unable to bear any expense in such matters. It became important to provide treatment in order that these boys and girls should not be handicapped in future life by defects which would prevent their development into the highest type of men and women and a clinic for this purpose was established in the Osgood Sanders nursery in 1924. A clinic is held every Monday afternoon, and the good already accomplished through it a period of only two years is indeed gratifying. A thorough physical examination and vaccination is required before admission to the nurseries, and the record of each child and its condition is kept on file. Mothers are given an opportunity to have diseased tonsils and adenoids removed without cost to themselves. A dental clinic has also been established and dental troubles are detected and corrected as early as possible.

"Well equipped with modern conveniences, separate sanitary supplies, individual ventilated lockers, kindergarten, playgrounds, and excellent dietary, clinic and competent attendants which include a trained visiting nurse, the Sheltering Arms nurseries offer to Atlanta one of its highest opportunities along health lines for the child of pre-school age, as well as the large number of school children under their care. Directed by a group of earnest women, whose desire it is to minister to the needs of little children in a constructive way, to help make less difficult the lives of mothers whose lives are hard—thus strengthening the home—no stronger factor exists in the social welfare field of Atlanta today. Justly a recognized part of the child saving agencies."

Mrs. Hurt concludes, "The spirit of our association is ably expressed in its guiding principle, 'The progress of a nation goes forward on the feet of little children, from thresholds both lowly and great.'"

Marshmallow Fudge.

Four cups granulated sugar, 4 table-spoons butter, 1 pound marshmallows, 2 cups milk or cream, 1-2 squares chocolate.

Put all ingredients except the marshmallows in a saucepan over a slow fire, stirring until sugar is dissolved. Quarter marshmallows and dip in water to soften. Melt one half of them in a double boiler. When fudge will roll into a soft ball when dropped in cold water, remove from fire. Place pan in cold water. Beat until stiff. Add both melted and unmelted marshmallows. Pour into a greased pan.

Caramels.

Two cups brown sugar, 1-2 cup milk, 1 tablespoon vanilla, 1 scant tablespoon butter, 1-2 cake chocolate. Boil sugar, milk, and chocolate for 20 minutes, stirring constantly. Add butter and vanilla. Cut in squares when cool.

Sophie Irene Loeb Says

THE WORKER WHO STANDS THE "GAFF"

The little tailor was fitting my suit. His mouth was full of pins. While he was on his knees adjusting the skirt, somebody called him: "Abram, come here. Where is Mrs. Jones' new belt?" "In the right-hand top drawer of Sam's sewing machine," Abram answered.

After he had finished adjusting the length of the skirt, he arose, stood back and critically observed the garment. He saw another place that needed to be fitted and proceeded in his task.

Again someone called. "Abram, Mrs. Smith wants some extra white collars made for her dress."

"Very well," he answered quietly, making a note of it in a little book which he drew from his pocket.

Not long after this the proprietor came by and said: "Abram, did you promise Mrs. Brown's dress for next Wednesday?"

"Yes," he answered, in the same quiet way. "It will be done." And so it went for almost an hour. One after another came to him for this, that, and the other thing. And I could see that he stood like a rock of reliance to the workers about him. For many years Abram has toiled in this tailoring establishment. It has now become a prominent concern and he is one of the pillars who have helped to make it solid—with discrimination and particular people. When I asked if it did not annoy him to have someone calling him all the time, he answered: "If you can't stand the 'gaff' you might as well quit. You must get used to it. You must be willing to take things as they come in order to overcome them."

In the words of this worker lies the secret of many a success—being able to stand the "gaff"—to take things—to go through. It is so in every walk of life where there are doers. When they "arrive" it is not from luck, but labor. The trouble with many is that they will when there is a worry, and accordingly succumb to weariness.

In a word, they don't stand up and take the batting. They are "touchy" and forever are wanting to be "considered," and yet they are usually the least considerate for the hardships that others must put up with in connection with their work.

So Abram now commands a good salary and the respect of his employers because he has grown with them—he has been able to stand the "gaff." He has a family—an interesting family.

When he spoke of his boy, just turning 14, there was love in his voice and pride in his eyes. He was planning better things for him. He wanted him to have a good education so that the way might be easier than that of his father.

I could not help reflect that we might paraphrase the biblical term that the good of the fathers is often visited on the children. And Abram's son will most likely reap what Abram has sown in patience and perseverance.

"And what is your greatest hope for him?" I asked.

"If I am able to give him the advantage of better things, but he, too, will be able to stand the strain and be a little better than his father, then I shall have done my part."

"No one can reach far who breaks under the blows," he added, significantly.

PLANTING SEASON IS ON IN JENKINS

Millen, Ga., March 29.—(Special.)—Jenkins county farmers have already planted some cotton and perhaps 50 acres of early sweet potatoes have been set out. The cool weather that hit here during the past two days and the heavy frosts Friday morning has the potato growers alarmed, but the full extent of the damage cannot be ascertained at this time.

Flue beds are being run night and day rushing plants so that Jenkins county can be among the first to ship early sweet potatoes to the markets. The experiment is being watched throughout the county.

FAIR DATES NAMED BY JENKINS BODY

Millen, Ga., March 29.—(Special.)—The Jenkins county fair association has elected the following officers: W. C. Perkins, president; C. M. Turner, vice president; Allen Edenfield, treasurer; Walter Harrison, secretary; G. G. Brinson, H. P. Anderson, E. G. Daniel, W. F. Watkins and Ben A. Neal as directors. These are the same officers who served during 1926.

A report of the fair association for 1926 shows that the association made money in 1926. A ten per cent stock dividend was declared and a neat surplus left in the treasury.

November 1-5 has been selected as dates for the 1927 fair. Midway attractions have also been booked.

Conducts Parents' Funeral.

Pilling, England.—The Rev. Father Turner conducted the Roman Catholic funeral services of his own father and mother after they died of influenza within a quarter of an hour of each other.

Wolf Bounties Expensive.

St. Paul, Minn.—Wolf bounties cost Minnesota $75,000 a year, the current budget shows. The number of wolves killed annually increase steadily.

LEGION CUP AWARDED TO CADET BATTALION

Millidgeville, Ga., March 29.—(Special.)—Colonel George Carpenter, past commander, and representing the Morris Little post of the American Legion, presented company B of the cadet battalion of the Georgia Military college with a handsome silver loving cup at the chapel exercises this morning. The cup was offered by the legion to the cadet company making the highest score on the rifle range during the past month. The cup is over two feet in height and is heavily plated, bearing a large legion emblem.

Company B won the cup by a small margin. Company A of the battalion pushing them a close second. The legion offered the cup after the cadet rifle team had won the fourth corps trophy in the rifle competition.

Judge Carpenter impressed the men in his deliverance speech. Captain with the importance of marksmanship. Robert Ivey received the cup.

Mrs. Eugene Harrington Proves Rare Directing Genius of Junior League's Special Edition

MRS. EUGENE HARRINGTON

BY LOYD A. WILHOIT.P-s-s-s-t!— How about a little trip behind the scenes of one of the biggest, if not the very biggest of week-day newspaper publications the south has ever known?It represents a tremendous amount of work, and when labor is coordinated in such a way as to produce as pleasing and successful a product as is this monster edition of The Constitution, there's bound to be brains behind it. (We regular Constitution writers feel that we can boast a bit about this edition in view of the fact that the Junior League edited it.)The special Junior League edition was directed by keen, alert intelligence; and it's fit and proper that just here it should be proclaimed that that intelligence was the intelligence of a woman—Mrs. Eugene Harrington, chairman of the Junior League's special edition committee.Assumes Direction.
When the matter of sponsoring this publication first was broached to the league, the organization received the idea with enthusiasm."But wait a minute," the league said. "We'll have to see Mrs. Harrington first."Here was work to be done; work that required real business acumen and quick, efficient action.Would Mrs. Harrington take charge?She would!
And that's the story of how this edition came into being. Not that other members of the Junior League, from the president to the newest recruit, didn't swing into columns of fours and advance solidly on advertiser and news source to garner funds by which the league might carry on its charity work. They did. They worked hard and long and enthusiastically. But somebody had to be the organizer and director, and there's where Mrs. Harrington came in.Organizes Workers.
Named chairman of the special edition committee, she formed committees and enlisted advertising solicitors. She helped with the news copy; she aided in assembling pictures. She went into conferences and into business houses to help others "sign 'em up." She supplied ideas to ad men trained in the game and she suggested news stories to reporters whose hair was gray.She's a busy woman; a business woman at all times; but she kept her own affairs at M. Rich & Bros. Co. in order while she directed the affairs of others. She toiled like a Trojan; was everywhere at once—and never quit smiling.So it is that this edition is in large measure a monument to the ingenious, the resourcefulness and the tireless energy of Mrs. Harrington.
It's her bit for the unfortunate who find it good to nestle under the protecting wing of the Junior League of Atlanta, and a great big "bit" it is indeed.It's not the first time by any manner of means that Mrs. Harrington has put a big thing over in a big way for the league. The past two performances of the "Follies" were products of the same amazing ability to do the work of half a dozen people she has displayed on the special edition.Made "Follies" Success.
Mrs. Harrington made the "Follies" financial successes beyond the most sanguine expectations. She directed them—though she did get Ned Wayburn, the famous theatrical producer, down from New York to attend to dance steps and costumes and things like that. She wasn't afraid to secure the services of a leader in the theatrical world to make the "Follies" real shows. If they weren't real shows, they didn't interest her.In a score of other ways Mrs.
Harrington has proved her splendid ability for leadership in work that requires strength of heart and body and mind. League projects all up and down the line have felt the reassuring touch of her hand, and have goneforward with new power as a result of it. It isn't necessary to attempt to chronicle all the things she has done for the league. Everybody who knows anything about the league knows about them.
And everybody in the league andall The Constitution men who have been associated with Mrs. Harrington in her latest accomplishment—this special edition—will tell you that by every right she ought to wake up this morning and read this mammoth paper—and then sleep for a week.Prune Rolls.One-half pound prunes sugar to

BROKER IS FINED FOR SPANKING DAUGHTER OF 20

New York, March 29.—For spanking his 20-year-old daughter, Ruth, after she had refused to continue in school, Abraham Lincoln Eglington, a bond broker having offices on Broadway, was fined $50 when he appeared for sentence in the court of special sessions in St. George, Staten Island. He had the alternative of

AVIATORS DODGE ONE TREE TO HIT REGULAR FOREST

Media, Pa., March 29.—(United News.)—J. K. Tennant and J. C. Steninhower flunked a test on landing at the Pitcairn Aviation school Monday and will have to take the course over with a new plane. Finding a tree unexpectedly rearing itself and about to burst into bud at the spot they had intended to set the plane down, Tennant, the pilot, zoomed, zoomed too well, stalled in mid-air and struck three other trees in quick succession. "Never saw such a forest in my life," remarked one of the aviators when they crawled out, practically unhurt.

COUPLE WEDDED IN CZAR'S PALACE DIVORCE IN U. S.

Philadelphia, March 29.—(United News.)—Wedded before the eyes of Czar Nicholas in the Russian imperial palace at St. Petersburg in 1911, Serge Nicholas de Beausset was granted a divorce from Anna Vladimir de Bausset in common pleas court here Monday.

He was an officer of the imperial Russian navy, she was a daughter of a Russian general. When the revolution swept away the old regime, she fled to Philadelphia with their two sons, the eldest now 16. De Bausset remained to fight but later followed his family here and got a job as draftsman in a Philadelphia shipyard.

But although the de Beaussets had been happy living in palaces, they failed to find love in a cottage. The divorce was granted on a charge of desertion.

Drive On.

(Editorial From The Junior League Bulletin.)

"Oh, when we reach the age of 35," we anticipated, "then will we be able to lay down the reins of government to younger members and sink comfortably into the back seat of the chariot of progress! Then can we adjust the mellow spectacles of antiquity and watch the younger generation take up these reins which we now are holding. Then can we turn our attention to other fields; that sculpture for which we have secretly yearned in a timeless way; those political honors which have drifted temptingly by us as we worked; the management of institutions, charitable and scholarly, which at present we cannot accept. With this background of Junior League training what heights may we not scale once the shackles of league responsibility have been shaken from our ankles."

So we thought. But now on the verge of tremendous opportunities we find the younger generation sitting comfortably in the back seat of the chariot and crying "Drive On." They protest that they dare not take the reins to guide these horses we have driven for so long. "Where will they take us," they cry, "and we so experienced?"

This is the refrain of many of our older members who are holding executive positions in leagues throughout the country. Profiting by the interests and experiences given to them in their Junior League careers, they have found some special channel they wish to pursue, some field of endeavor to which they wish to give their entire time and attention. Yet they do not feel justified in refusing to accept from their leagues, in which they still feel a keen interest, the responsibility and the drive which has been given them.

A sentiment strongly expressed at the Nashville conference was that whenever possible committee heads and even league presidents should be chosen from the younger groups of the leagues, the trouble lies in the fact that we think we feel more confidence in a member who has had experience and who we know is capable of managing the league successfully; but on the other hand let us not forget that the purpose of the Junior League is to develop the younger girl and to instill responsibility, to fit her for still more progressive enterprises in her community. Youth has an extraordinary way of rising to meet responsibility and the fear that the league work will suffer unless supervised by experienced members is apt to be unfounded.

The age limit is set at 40 more as a protection to our older group than for any other reason. As advisors they are invaluable and we cannot do without them; but we have no right to make them manage as well as advise. Of course they will not shrink responsibility as long as it is given to them, and it is up to us to elect young officers and young executives, not only because it is part of their training but because we must not make impossible the very result we aim to accomplish: To have our members become leaders in their various communities.

Engineer Seeks To Lift River Away

Chicago, March 29.—If plans of Major Rufus W. Putnam, special harbor engineer for the Commercial club, materialize, the Chicago river, which once flowed into Lake Michigan but now flows in the opposite direction, will be moved to the south of the city. Putnam's proposal was made in a speech before the Greater Chicago LaSalle club.

It proposes to move the river to the far south side, where the stream which now impedes the city's traffic, would be confluent with the Calumet river. Putnam declared that in any plan from the Chicago of 50 or 75 years, the elimination of the river which now chokes city traffic is a necessity. He referred to the river as an open sewer, and said the problem involved in the removal of the stream was no greater than the engineering feat which turned its current from Lake Michigan toward St. Louis nearly 30 years ago.

Engineers have estimated that traffic is delayed hundreds of hours yearly by the opening of bridges to let lake steamships through.

CROSS STRIPES BEST FOR SPRING SWEATERS

Paris, March 29.—(P)—Spring sweaters are one of the important manifestations of the mode. They form a large percentage of the blouses on two-piece sport dresses in Paris. So much so that Paris has come to call almost any straight garment, detached from the skirt, a sweater.

Stripes on the spring sweaters are invariably cross-ways. Even zig-zag and curved lines take a general cross line instead of up and down.

The Women behind the Fulton Check Book

IT WOULD be fascinating to tour those homes so well managed by women who are Friends of Fulton. For they have learned the art of check-book control, and are free to enter into the constructive work of such great organizations as the Junior League.

Check-book control is a pleasant affair when the check-book comes from Fulton National. We have always made it a special point to simplify banking for our women customers. Our executives are ready at all times to discuss problems of investments, to offer the full services of the Bank.

The important point is that every transaction takes on a friendly air—because that is the spirit of the Fulton National: When you enter our door you become a Friend of Fulton, to be welcomed as such, to be served as such.

And that is why so many Atlanta women control their personal finances with Fulton check-books.

League Gives Free Lunches To Ungraded School Classes

MRS. CLARK HOWELL, JR.

BY MRS. CLARK HOWELL, JR.,
Chairman of Free School Lunch Committee.

The Junior League of Atlanta stands as the foe of malnutrition.

For a long time Junior League girls have taken free lunches to the ungraded classes of the public schools, and at present the work is being done on a bigger scale than ever at the English Avenue, Luckie Street and Williams Street schools.

These ungraded classes are composed of children who for one reason or another have been unable to do the work of other children of the same age, and it is the purpose of the league to help correct the fault which causes this condition.

About twenty children in each of the ungraded classes are being supplied with wholesome, well-balanced lunches every day. To them are carried hot soups, hot chocolate, milk, bread, buns, crackers and nourishing foods of this type.

The children are weighed regularly and much improvement in their physical condition is noted in practically every case coming to the attention of and receiving the care of the league.

In addition to its work in the Enlish Avenue, Luckie Street and Williams Street schools, the Junior League supplies money for lunches at the Laura Hagood school on Howell Mill road.

While the league has many lines of endeavor, none is more vital or more productive of immediate and lasting good than is the activity of the free school lunch committee.

SIX Outstanding Hotels Even In a Land Noted for Its Hotelries

From the traditions of the old South glows the flame of fellowship and hospitality that takes worldly praise and an envious place in the hearts of all who visit this section.

The upbuilding of superlative hotel accommodations is a natural consequence, having taken its ideals from the famous wayside inn and comfortable hostelry of the Colonial days.
Year upon year has seen befitting progress and; today the magnificent hotels of the Southland stand well in the foreground of America's vast skyline of hotels.

Even in this field of Southern leadership the Dinkler Hotels mark six places of outstanding predominance. They are established with the aim of convenience to travelers and hence are located in the leading commercial, industrial and railway centers of the South. And in Atlanta, Birmingham, Nashville and Jacksonville can be found the outstanding features which experienced travelers recognize as being of distinctly Dinkler origination.
In these cities the Dinkler Hotels are prepared to offer their super degree of excellence in hotel accommodations.
Locations, rates, service and every phase of endeavor has brought them to the outstanding place they take, even in a land noted for its hotelries.

AUTHORESS TELLS OF MARRIED BLISS

BY OLGA HALL BROWN,
(The Noted Authoress.)

I am always a little skeptical of the tales of ill-treated wives. It is so difficult nowadays for a man to ill-treat his wife and get any fun out of it.

I wait and listen for the real reason for domestic friction, and sure enough out of her own mouth the woman condemns herself. In as many ways, of course, as there are kinds of women. But this is the most frequent. "I make it a rule that no shop is talked in the house."

Think of it! The poor fool! In her matriarchal frenzy, her surety of possession, she gives half her husband away to anyone who wants him, and calls on heaven to witness the despair of the deserted wife when the other half follows.

For when in her egotistic folly she makes it a rule that no shop is talked in the house, she gives away the half of her husband that matters.

Unfalsely Analyzed.

It would be interesting—if it were possible—to collect statistics of what first drew the husband away from all husbandless hearths. It would give the lie to the popular fallacy that even the tamest of husbands is liable to be swept off his feet by the designing hussy, the vamp or the home-breaker.

The truth would be found that the biggest collection of other women's husbands do not fall to the spectacular and the heartless, but to the good woman with the sympathetic ear whose strongest ally is the wife who won't talk shop. The vamp and the egotistic wife have too much in common to share the disillusioned man—they are self-centered.

The student of human nature cannot but deduce from divorce court and even international history, that, taken in the mass, women are really rather unfair. It does not strike them that there is something definitely unmoral in goading a man to work hard and firing him with ambition in his early married life, till it is cruelly borne upon him that the end in view is a goal of sticks and stones and new art.

Matrimonial Suicide Occurs.

Provide these surely, but do not display childish enthusiasm in the means of getting them—at least not by your own fire.

Such is the creed of the wife who won't allow shop to be talked in her home. I would like any such woman who is reading this article to contemplate this matrimonial suicide. It lies before her as surely and as inevitably as the day will dawn tomorrow.

Sooner or later she will lose her husband to the other man or the other woman, and of these the more dangerous rival is the other man—probably the odd friend who is denied official admittance to her social circle because he wears baggy trousers.

There is always a possibility of getting a husband back from another woman, but the husband who turns to his men friends—or worse still, to his man friend—share his innermost thoughts and his deepest enthusiasms, is spiritually lost forever.

I do not suggest that every hearth which never listens to matrimonial plots, plans, conspiracies, and confidences will be left desolate. But I do suggest that every woman whose husband looks at her with dumb resignation is as good as divorced.

I would like every woman who has occasion to wait that another woman is in the act of stealing her husband, to make sure that she is not just making a free gift of him to somebody else.

There are wives who think cosmetics and pretty hats are a sort of birdlime for husbands. It makes me laugh. If you are the sort of wife who cares what work makes of your husband rather than what it makes for him, you can put your hat on back to front and wild horses won't drag him away.

You may tell me that wives who seek for confidence are denied them, that those ardently interested in husband's shop don't hear it, and even those who plead for the inner history of everything that goes on in the office lost their husbands to other women. Yes, I know. But there is sincerity and sincerity. There is interest and there is curiosity.

There are women who listen intelligently with the ears of the heart, and there are women who like to babble of men and their affairs like a cageful of parrots. At least the woman who makes a rule of "no shop" is no hypocrite. She is only a fool.

She gets a certain satisfaction out of having a husk of a husband moving about the house. Possibly her self-satisfaction is such that the fact that the mind and the heart and the soul of her man are left somewhere outside when he comes in has not troubled itself upon her notice. Even the husk can wipe his feet dutifully, hang up his hat tidily, fill up the fireside chair, twiddle the knobs on the wireless, pet the cat out and lock up for the night.

But a shadow menaces these hearths of inhuman evenings, these firesides of no human communion. Soon there will be but empty air for the "no shop" wife to spill her wants, her self-praises and complaints upon.

Divorce is becoming decent and respectable, just as respectability is demanding more color, more satisfaction from life. Men who formerly shrank from publicity, from hurting a hard woman, from beginning anew, are seeing with clearer eyes. Marriage was not ordained as a mutual imprisonment, but as the loveliest, most intimate companionship in the world.

The woman who cheats has no right to condemn the woman who would cherish what she throws away. Only the other day a man said to me slowly and thoughtfully, "If I had known then what I know now, I would have married a different kind of woman."

Stage Censorship Hit by Director Of College Plays

Chapel Hill, N. C., March 29.—(AP)

Any censorship of the stage must come "through direction of tastes rather than by politicians who might have little conception of what is good taste," declared Professor Frederick H. Koch, director of the Carolina Playmakers, of the University of North Carolina, in an address here before the fourth annual dramatic institute.

The measure recently passed by the New York state senate giving state officials the power of censorship was characterized as "a most dangerous piece of legislation which is very likely to lead to inferior plays and playwrights."

Professor Koch said there was no conflict between "our best playwrights and religion and there is no reason why the church and theater should not work together harmoniously for spiritual ends."

The products of some of the present-day professional theaters, he said, "has made the aims of religion and drama seem almost contradictory."

MULES HE SAVED CAUSE HIS DEATH IN HIGH STREAM

Hattiesburg, Miss., March 29.—(AP)

Lonnie Shelburn, lumberjack, is dead after an attempt to save the lives of a pair of mules with which he worked daily in the woods.

A team, driven into a swollen stream, became entangled in the harness and Shelburn dived into the water with a knife to free them. He cut away the harness, but, as the mules swam ashore, one of the pair kicked Shelburn and, encumbered with his heavy clothing, he was unable to reach the bank.

AIRPLANE ENGINE STARTER INVENTED

Washington, March 29.—(AP)—An airplane engine starter which sets the propeller spinning at the touch of a button is being tested at the Anacostia naval air station here.

"has made the aims of religion and drama seem almost contradictory."

CONFESSES STEALING MONEY ORDER BLANKS

Detroit, March 29.—(AP)—Lee de la Houssaye, of New Orleans, was today ordered removed to Brooklyn for trial in federal court there on a charge of stealing postal money order blanks. De la Houssaye, who was arrested here recently, pleaded guilty when arraigned before a United States commissioner. He confessed cashing a number of the orders he said he and a companion stole, April 2, 1926, from a postoffice in Flushing, N. Y. De la Houssaye's companion is under arrest in the east.

QUITMAN PLANS MODERN HOTEL

Quitman, Ga., March 29.—(Special.)—The Community Hotel corporation, composed of more than 2,000 Quitman stockholders, will build a modern fireproof hotel on the site formerly occupied by the Hotel Marie, which was recently burned to the ground, on the corner of Screven and Washington streets. The site was selected Thursday afternoon and is in the heart of the city. It is understood that a garage for the hotel will be built on the back of the lot.

Committees have been appointed and the work of clearing off the lot has begun. The next move will be to decide upon the type and size of the building and plans are now being secured.

Since the fire which destroyed the Hotel Marie here two weeks ago Quitman has been without a commercial hotel and every effort will be made to hurry the new project to completion.

Woman Seeking Divorce Scorns Alimony Demand

(By Leased Wire to The Constitution and The Chicago Tribune.)

Xonkers, N. Y., March 29.—Alimony? No decent American girl with any pride in her independence would take a penny of it. That's the way Mrs. Cecelia Whitely Yost who is suing to divorce her husband, Frederick I. Yost, feels about it.

Mrs. Yost, who is 23 and is living with her parents at 502 West 151st street, New York, will appear before Referee Newberger in the supreme court tomorrow morning with witnesses to testify to her 44-year-old husband's alleged infidelity.

His wife will tell Referee Newberger that all she asks is a divorce and the right to resume her maiden name. She is perfectly capable of earning her own living, she will testify, and wouldn't take a dollar from Yost if he had a million.

"I don't believe in alimony when there are no children to be taken care of," said Mrs. Yost today. "When a woman breaks her matrimonial bonds she ought to go to work and support herself."

"It's a matter of principle and pride with me. I've been working since my husband and I separated nearly two years ago."

German passenger airplanes are now equipped with fire extinguishers that operate automatically the instant a carburetor fire starts.

Delightfully enchanting, graceful, fair—
And rising with the presence of a king,

That buried him from the interminable sky
And laughed at him.

Beer and Wine Possession Held Not Illegal

Madison, Wis., March 29.—Possession of beer and wine are not subject to arrest unless such possession is in a licensed soft drink parlor, J. E. Messerschmidt, assistant attorney general, held in an opinion.

The opinion was asked by George S. Geffs, district attorney of Rock county, who particularly inquired as to whether the possession of beer and wine in an automobile is illegal. Messerschmidt in his opinion, which was approved by Attorney General John Reynolds, based his opinion on supreme court decisions. The law provides that the possession of intoxicating liquor outside of the home is illegal, but Messerschmidt declares that "intoxicating" refers only to distilled liquor and that the possession of beer and wine in or out of the home, with the one exception of soft drink parlors, is entirely legal.

The fact that wine and beer can be openly possessed anywhere with one exception leaves few avenues for arrests in connection with these beverages. Arrests can be made for manufacturing these liquids or for their sale.

PROGRAM ANNOUNCED FOR BRIDGE OPENING

Brunswick, Ga., March 29.—(Special.)—The tentative program for the formal opening of the St. Mary's river bridge connecting Georgia and Florida next Friday has been announced. Due to the fact that all of those invited to participate have not yet been heard from the program is subject to change. According to information received here it is expected that an unusually large crowd from the two states will be present.

The program is as follows:
Master of ceremonies, J. O. Miller, Jacksonville, president of the Coastal Highway association.

Song, "America."
Invocation, Rev. C. A. Morrison, Jacksonville, president of the Coastal Highway association.

Response, B. F. Mann, president Brunswick Board of Trade.
Address, D. N. Ground, Fernandina, Fla.

Address, Harry Hoyt, president Jacksonville Chamber of Commerce.
Address, Judge W. Allison, Chattanooga, Tenn., president of the Dixie Highway association.

Address, F. A. Hathaway, chairman Florida highway department.
Address, John N. Holder, chairman Georgia highway department.

Address, Harvey Granger, Savannah, president coastal highway district.
Address, Governor Clifford Walker or Governor-elect Hardman.

The committee having the program in charge announces that while there are a number of speakers on the program all of the addresses will be short. The exercises will take place at Kingsland, three miles north of the new bridge, and the citizens of that little town will be assisted in the entertainment by people from all sections of Georgia.

An old-time barbecue will be the feature. The bridge is at the southern end of the Georgia stretch of the Coastal highway, the district from Savannah to Kingsland having voted bonds several years ago with which to improve this road. It is a link in the highway from Key West to Canada.

And then he got a story in the Post

HIS wife knew he could write, but somehow he had always lacked the confidence or initiative to try.

Two years ago she gave him a Corona for Christmas, and, little by little he began to write. His first attempts were rather crude and promptly came back from the publishers. But he persevered. Editors began to take an interest—to point out his faults. A story was accepted, then another.

And at last he had a thrill of seeing his name in the Saturday Evening Post. He had arrived.

Is there someone in your family who should be developing a talent for writing? Get him a Corona—the standard typewriter for writers—portable, sturdy, easy to use. ## ATKINSON FORMS BODY TO PROTECT TIMBER Waycross, Ga., March 29.—(Special.)—Atkinson county has formed its second timber protective association. This includes practically all of the Wallacehatch militia district or about 25,000 acres.

The officers of the association are: George F. McRae, Sr., president; Waldo Henderson, vice president, and E. R. Smith, secretary and treasurer.

Positions For Successful Students Increasing the Popularity of The Southern Business University

Many New Pupils Are Enrolling Every Day For Business Courses.

"I have secured a position and am well pleased with my place. I will advise any one to go to the Southern."

The above is an excerpt taken from a letter received yesterday by the Southern Business University from a recent pupil.

In the same mail a parent writes:—"My daughter has been offered a nice position and has accepted it."

Last week the newspapers carried an announcement of the Southern, in which fifty graduates were named as having just gone to splendid positions and most of the places were secured through the Southern's Employment Department and all were permanent (not temporary) jobs.

But, so well trained are the Southern's pupils, and the business men having learned the fret, for many of the students go to good positions through their own efforts, it being only necessary for them to make it known to the firms to whom they apply, that they have been trained at the Southern Business College.

The students that are continually going out to positions with the most important firms, are a great boost to the Southern, because others see that this old-established institution is doing a real service to the Business World—that it shows results by sending its graduates to good positions, hence the Registration Department is busy every day enrolling new pupils for Business Training, from this city and all parts of the country.

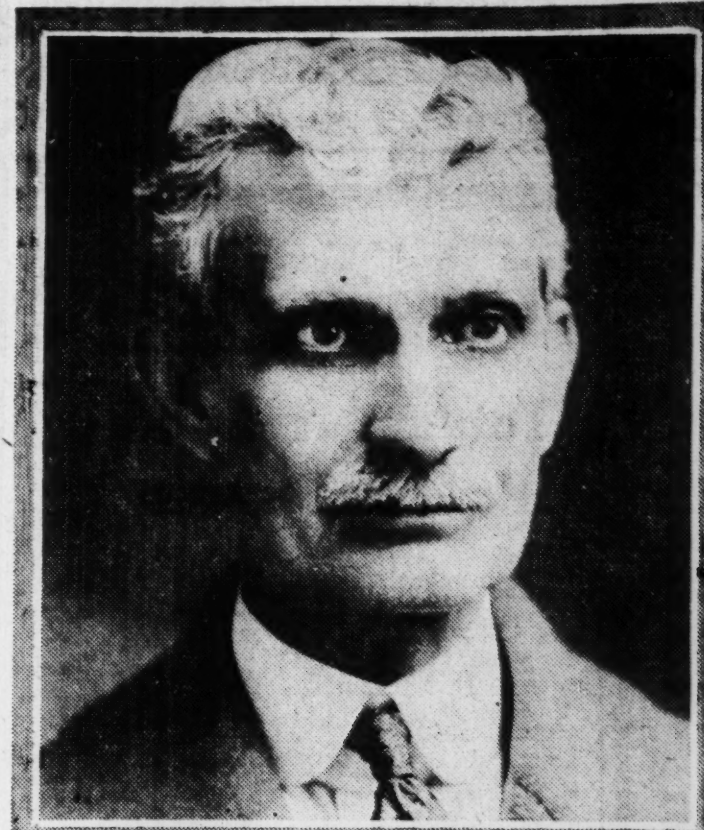

The Southern's courses of study have been carefully developed with a view to meeting the requirements of business life.

Its teachers have had long experience, and are thoroughly familiar with business in its different phases, and are therefore qualified to direct the student.

The Southern has the briefest, simplest and most comprehensive method in existence of teaching the World's finest system of shorthand.

By this wonderful method, the pupil is enabled to save from one to two months time in taking this course.

Again— The Top Deck Beckons

JUST as certainly as spring arrives comes that desire to climb to the top deck of one of Atlanta's double-deck coaches, lo! back lazily and comfortably, and roll along the beautiful tree-shaded avenues of the pretty residential sections through which the coach lines extend.

Effective every Sunday during the spring and summer months that weather permits, the big double deck coaches, each capable of seating 60 passengers comfortably, will take the place of the single deck coaches which have been in service during the winter on the Morningside and Highland-Virginia lines.

The top deck offers many attractions. First there is the lure of the beauties of nature in the springtime—the budding trees, the singing birds, the early-blooming plants and shrubs, the balmy breezes. Then there are the many points of interest located on the coach lines, among them being Ansley Park, Morningside, Boulevard Park, the Ansley Park Golf Club, and the Governor's Mansion.

The coaches also pass by or within easy walking distance of a number of churches, including the Baptist Tabernacle, First Baptist, Sacred Heart, First Methodist, All Saints, North Avenue Presbyterian, St. Marks and Christian Science.

Go to church by coach.

Revive your acquaintance with the joys that only spring and the upper deck can provide. Board a coach at any regular stop and ride to the end of the line and back.

You'll enjoy it!

League's Educational Fund Gives Training To Girls

BY MRS. GROVER MIDDLEBROOKS
Chairman Educational Fund Committee.

The educational fund of the Junior League of Atlanta is a new enterprise looking to civic improvement which the organization launched this year, and already the work of the committee has assumed proportions that cause it to rank in importance with the various others.

The committee has furnished a young and deserving girl with the sum of $300 with which to secure a course in physical culture in New York, and she will teach gymnasium work at the Atlanta Y. W. C. A. as soon as she completes her training. We also gave money to support another girl who was taking training at the State Agricultural college at Athens, and she also will give others in a wide field the benefit of her experience and training as soon as her work in the college is completed.

Extension of the activity of the educational fund committee is contemplated on a broad scale, and we feel that the committee, representing the Junior League, will do a great and worthy work for this city and section.

Crab Meat Fricassee.

1 tablespoon butter.
1 tablespoon flour.
1 cup milk.
1 teaspoon vinegar.
Pepper.
2 cups crab meat.
Salt.
Paprika and cayenne.
Make a cream sauce of the flour, butter and milk. Add crab meat and seasonings, and stir until the meat is thoroughly warmed. Serve on toast.

Shrimp Wiggle.

1 tablespoon butter.
1 tablespoon flour.
3/4 cup milk.
Pinch salt.
1 can shrimps.
A few grains pepper.
1 cup peas.
1 dozen olives (chopped).
Make a white sauce of the flour, butter and milk; cook for 5 minutes. When it thickens, add salt and pepper. Then stir in the shrimps, peas and olives. Serve on toast or browned crackers.

Chops, flour, onion, seasonings. Roll pork chops in seasoned flour, lay in a baking pan with a slice of onion or apple on each. Pour enough water in pan to prevent burning. Bake in a slow oven until tender.

—And Here's Where the Eats Begin

THE POET TO HIS LOVE
(From the Junior League Bulletin)
I would make you a poem, best beloved
A poem for your shining head.
That all future ages might remember
Your beauty and my love,
When we are dead.

A lyric for your slim, cool fingers,
A triquet about your dainty pose.
An ode—most impassioned—for your body:
These you would enjoy, I suppose.

But should I write a sonnet for your soul,
You would laugh at me and stare, nor wish to hear:
Which, after all, would not be surprising.
For I don't think you have any, my dear!

Lisa Stillman Mackey, San Francisco.

PETER.
(From the Junior League Bulletin)
Peter's feet go pitter-patter
Up the stair and down the stair
With happy tap and scratch—(no matter)
He don't care!
(Eyes are laughing wide and blue Hunting mischief he can do.)

Peter's suit is torn and tattered—
Hip and wash, and rip and rent—
tered.
No harm meant!
(Socks have slipped into his shoes, Knees are knocked with bump and bruise.)

Now he's at a bowl of batter
Scraping out what's left behind;
Tongue a-lick and Peter fatter—
He don't mind!
(Head a-tossle, tie undone, Fingers sticky—Oh what fun!)
Peter laugh and Peter chatter
Till the day—old sleepy head—
Creeps with Peter—pitter-patter, Off to bed.

The schoolboy complained of pains in the left side of the stomach and appendicitis was not suspected until after the operation began.

guages or dialects in China, but only

Just Among Us Girls

BY KATHRYN KENNEY

THE POWERS OF CONCENTRATION

Every woman is after some man, but the one who gets him wires on ahead! It's no disgrace to go after what you want, but there's a lot in not wanting what you go after. Some women want flattery, and like their square meals, they don't care who gives it to them!

You have to be clever to get anywhere, and you have to be superhuman to stay there. The reason that so few people get what they want is because they aren't certain of their desires. Give almost any woman a catalogue and she'll pick out a fur coat when she really started out to get a washing machine.

Of course it's a good rule to change your mind, if you can afford the overhead. But concentration is the thing that makes it possible to change a bouillon cube into a cup of soup.

Women fall in love with a profile and pursue a bankroll. It takes the first to love—and the second to live.
But having decided that money makes the world go round in a Rolls Royce, the woman wants the collar ad to wear her neckties. She thinks she wants money. Because she isn't absolutely certain she tries to get both—and gets shot!

There are a few women who know what they want and refuse to recede their choice. The shoulder on which they lay their heads may not be the last, but it's the most lasting!
They know that love fades and it takes a lot of money to buy good rouge. This is the type of woman who has looked around and decided that after all, it's the wealthy widows who have all the fun in the world.
An old man may not be long for this world—but he may belong to all the best clubs!

The girl who really can't live without love, and cares nothing for money —in fact, she throws it away—should marry the poor boy with the marcelle wave. Then she can run through his hair instead of his money!

But if you're really going out to marry for money, don't insult the intelligence of your friends by telling them that you love your boy friend, even if he's all bent over from picking up pennies. It's all right to be a good wife to him, but don't introduce him as Apollo!

A great many man hunters make so much do about wooing that they frighten their game. Give them an inch and you're a mile on your way to the minister without notice through the mails. They are always open for compromising positions, because when father calls downstairs it's the last call.

Chase a man—but do it cleverly, if you give him the glad eye, that's all you'll get in return. Unfortunately, the women have to do the pursuing, otherwise the stag party would last forever.

The men who chase women are rare, because if a man is any good at all and has one good side to his face the girls will fight over him. Man may run the world, but woman runs after him. And if he's already married—she passes him!

Time was, and it was not, at that,
so far off in the past—
The tamest sort of lady-vamp left all of us aghast.
The palest shades of purple pash sent rosy blushes high.
And we gazed "How can they do it? How does such a thing get by?"

But now we sit unmoved through 57 kinds of sin.
Serenely watch the maidens decked in nothing but the skin.
With smirk a painted smile at each unsavory pun,
And we murmur, "Yes, it's broad,
but oh—so wonderfully done!"

France Blames Birth Rate Drop
On Jazz Dances

BY RALPH HEINZEN.
Paris, March 29.—(United News.)—America and two of her exports—jazz and the Charleston—are blamed for France's falling birth rate.

Paris doctors, in conference on the vital subject of fewer births, declared that the Charleston is injurious to the woman who is to become a mother. The eccentric movements and the jerking and twisting of the body often bring about premature birth.

No dance in history has ever been more harmful to the health of women, the doctors declared, and although nothing has been done about it, more than one favored a law to forbid dancing the Charleston in France.

Jazz has completely revolutionized the life of many French families. Where, before the war, the average French woman was content to sit at home, getting much of her pleasure from family parties, she now entertains her friends at afternoon dances in the "tea palaces" where the jazz theme predominates.

Although for several years the birth rate appeared to be gaining over the death rate in France, statistics for the last 10 months show another decreasing birth rate. In Paris alone, during the last six months, there was an excess of 4,100 births over deaths, but in the provinces this surplus was wiped out.

Dr. Pinard, dean of the chamber of deputies, and the most ardent advocate of larger families in France, is campaigning for some form of financial reward for parents of newborn children. One of his suggestions is to relieve of income tax the parents during the year a child is born to them.

High living costs are blamed by many for the fewer births. Living costs are now nearly eight times the level of 1914, while salaries have increased less than four times, on an average, and in foreign exchange markets the franc has slumped to but one-fifth of its par value.

AGED MAN MAKES LIFE MISERABLE FOR POOR FIREMAN

(By Leased Wire to The Constitution and The Chicago Tribune.)
Milwaukee, Wis., March 29.—An aged man, traveling in a small car, is making life miserable for the fire department of this city. His activities have practically broken up the pinhole, checkers and bridge games, and the handball court and quito grounds are growing up in weeds.

Traveling rapidly, the old man speeds from one fire box to another, turning in alarms, usually timing them so the fresh alarm rings just about the time the department arrives at the previous false alarm. Yesterday he called the firemen out eight times in an hour and 10 minutes. Then, to end the day, he sent in a ninth alarm and started a bonfire.

Several days ago he turned in five alarms at widely separated points within 40 minutes during the evening traffic rush. The firemen believe he is a disgruntled taxpayer, who is opposed to their demand for a $30 monthly raise.

Divorce an Hour Is Reno Average
For Separations

Reno, Nev., March 29.—(Special.)—Reno is not on the gilded frontier, but it has a "rush" of its own to share in the attention now being given to Nevada.

In the last 48 hours 48 suits for divorce have been filed in the Reno courts. The rush has developed as the result of the new three months' residence law which was passed by the recent legislature. Even when Reno, under the advantages of the six months' residence law, was famous as a divorce center, the filing of separation suits never reached such numbers as now. Forty-eight suits in a month was a comparatively high record then.

TWIGGS COUNTY FREES INDUSTRIES OF TAXES

Jeffersonville, Ga., March 29.—(Special.)—At a special election held in Twigg county for the purpose of deciding whether Twigg will offer tax exemption for five years to new manufacturing industries, there were 174 votes polled with only 14 opposing, leaving a majority of 160, thereby placing Twigg in a position to offer inducements to manufacturers.

On the same date there was held in the city of Jeffersonville a similar election in which not one opposing vote was cast. Any manufacturer locating here, would be exempt from both city and county tax for the period of five years.

Health and Beauty Course

Body Conditioning, Weight Control, Beauty Culture

PRIMARILY Mr. Wayburn's method of Body Conditioning was originated to make dancers quickly and to give them the strength, endurance and grace of carriage necessary for the successful accomplishment of their work. It was found to be such a wonderful method for the correction of physical ills—it achieved such remarkable results in increasing the health, grace, personal appearance and physical well-being of the student, that soon a large percentage of Mr. Wayburn's classes were made up of those who were interested solely in building up their health and in acquiring a symmetrical body.

A Commonsense Method That Gets Results

Mr. Wayburn's method of Health and Beauty Culture is simple, easy to understand, easy to practice. It introduces no fads, no antiquated theories, no dangerous dieting. It is based on controlled exercise, sensible eating, intelligent care of the body and a commonsense method of enhancing the charms.

It has proven its efficacy in thousands of cases. Scores of women have been literally "remade" by Mr. Wayburn's methods—many have been transformed into glorious stage beauties, with whose names everyone is familiar.

GRACE, POISE, CHARM, HEALTH! This famous stage producer and dance mentor has reduced the making of beautiful bodies to a science. He has made it possible for practically everyone to have a symmetrical, graceful body and the matchless, radiant charm that is the result of perfect physical health.

Mr. Wayburn's 5-Day Trial Offer and Guarantee

Mr. Wayburn has so much confidence in his Health and Beauty Course that he offers to send it to you for 5 days' trial. If at the end of that time you are not entirely satisfied with it in every way—if it has not shown you, clearly and convincingly, that it can help you to better health, a more symmetrical body, greater vitality and charm, send it back for a full and prompt return of your money. Unless the course can actually help you—unless it can give you the results you are seeking—Mr. Wayburn wants you to return it.

The price at which the course is presented to you makes it one of the most sensational offerings in its field, only $2.98 postpaid.

Thirst and

How Taste Satisfies Thirst

Thirst is a natural call for moisture. It is first registered in your palate. The sense of taste which resides there was not created only to be appeased, satisfied and delighted, but to tempt you to take what's good for you when it is good for you.

Three-fourths of you is moisture. Every move you make is using up the supply.

Because otherwise you would not drink enough to keep the moisture up to the health-level, your palate is teased and tempted.

The palate, holding recollection of flavors, is one of the most delicate sensibilities we have, and it never forgets what has especially delighted it.

Of all the hundreds of beverages offered the public which the human palate remembers, Coca-Cola is the one which has most definitely registered its taste with the public.

Mantell's Repertoire Calls For Daily Change at Erlanger

The erudite Mr. Shakespeare will occupy a large place in the interest of playgoers Monday night, April 4, when Robert R. Mantell and Genevieve Hamper come with their brilliant organization to present an important series of the bard's most outstanding masterpieces at the Erlanger theater. Mr. Mantell is a familiar figure on the American classic stage, long since having endeared himself to drama lovers, both here and abroad. Miss Hamper's charm and finesse also have been received most favorably by the playgoers of this city during former visits.

W. Hile, Jack Forrest, John Schellhans, Olga Leeds, Mary Glover, Claire Bruce, Lillian Remer and a score of others.

The repertoire, arranged after consulting the leading schools and societies of Atlanta, will be as follows: "The Merchant of Venice," "Richard III," "As You Like It," "Julius Caesar," "King Lear," "Hamlet" in modern dress and "Macbeth" in the order named.

This will be the only touring Shakespearean organization to appear here. Early indications are that the Mantell-Hamper company will be greeted with a most distinguished audience on their opening night when Mr. Mantell will offer one of his finest characterizations, "The Merchant of Venice," with Miss Hamper cast to decided advantage as Portia. Mail orders are now being received. The box office seat sale will open Thursday morning.

GONZELLE WHITE STARS IN MIDNIGHT FROLIC

Of especial interest to all amusement lovers is the Friday night frolic at the 81 theater, popular colored entertainment house, when Gonzelle White will be seen in her "Big Jamboree" company. Featured in this company are some of the foremost colored stars in the country. Gonzelle White is well known on the colored stage in Atlanta and the mid-night frolic patrons remember her performance here at the beginning of the season.

Dancing, singing, sure-fire comedy, and all the other elements of the big-time musical comedy show are found in "Big Jamboree." A Creole chorus, famous for its talent and ability, and a big jazz band are other features that will make the Friday night frolic one of the best in the history of colored entertainment in Atlanta.

Doris Reubottom and Fred Charleston headline the dancing element of the show, which is one of the finest parts of the "Big Jamboree" frolic. Chief among the comedians with the show are Crackshot and Jackson, Rogers and Rogers, Dandy Brown and Kid Ruston. The last named being a sensation, even in colored amusement circles.

LOSS OF VOICE GAIN OF SCREEN IN DOT FARLEY

Loss of her voice resulted in one of the stage's most popular comedienne forsaking the footlights for the silent drama. Dot Farley, who plays an important role in "Nobody's Widow," starring Leatrice Joy at the Rialto this week, might still be appearing behind the footlights if a serious illness had not affected her vocal cords so that for months she was unable to speak above a whisper. It was while playing in Chicago several years ago that Miss Farley was stricken by the ailment which made it necessary for her to turn to motion pictures for a livelihood. A contract with the old Essanay company started her on her cinematic career. After a year with that organization she switched to the American Film company, where she was leading woman for J. Warren Kerrigan, one of the first of the romantic heroes of the silver screen.

The ninth episode of "The Colored Men," a comedy called "Flashing Oars," Pathé News and Frank Turner's music complete this week's program.

Alpha.

Dick Hutton, popular western star, is featured today only at the Alpha theater in one of his most thrilling pictures, "Sell 'Em, Cowboys." Hutton is known to all western fans as the foremost rider and shooter of the bunch, and in "Sell 'Em, Cowboys" he has a vehicle that gives him plenty of room to "strut his stuff."

In addition to the featured western, a thrilling and sensational serial reel, "Wild West," will be shown. This is the last episode of the series and it is said to be the best reel of the entire serial. Jack Mulhall and

ALL-GIRL PROGRAM COMING NEXT WEEK

HOWARD TO CELEBRATE PUBLIX ANNIVERSARY

This week The Atlanta Constitution is giving the young ladies of the Junior League an opportunity to show what they can do in a business way. Next week, at Keith's Georgia theater, thirty-five talented young women will take over the job of amusing the customers with various stunts and entertainments.

It is the first of the unit shows called "The All Girl Revue" in which the acts are made up of young ladies with talents ranging from athletics to vocalists, while the closing number will have ample opportunity to see them in action next week.

This week Keith's Georgia is offering as the big attraction, "London, Paris and New York," a musical and comedy revue with plenty of girls, lots of gowns and enough giggles to satisfy anyone. The offering is a close-up of the sidewalk cafes of Paris; the Piccadilly section of London and Fifth avenue, New York. The songs, dances and costumes of each city and country, while more or less exaggerated, lend a charm to the picture. One the screen Thomas Meighan is shown in "Blind Alleys," a Paramount picture in which Evelyn Brent and Greta Nissen are also featured.

eventful afternoon on which Ted enters his office to find it transformed into a bedlam of jazz by Kitty and her wild friends. After the first hour, Ted forgets his vows and again becomes one of the gang. Next morning he finds Kitty in his room and a wedding ring on her hand. They are now husband and wife!

That's the start of "Children of Divorce," Gary Cooper, Einar Hanson and Norman Trevor are featured. A brilliant and picturesque entertainment with a typical Roman background is promised by the Howard as its Publix anniversary stage revue. This production is titled, "Roaming Gypsies," and was produced by Frank Cambria, who will be remembered as the man who staged the great "Tall-Case" program.

Arthur Martel, master of the organ, will again be heard. Other subjects will include an overture, news reel, comedy and one surprise offering.

Tudor.

The picturization of one of Peter B. Kyne's most colorful, most entertainment stories, "Rustling for Cupid," is now being shown at the Tudor. George O'Brien, youthful star of "The Iron Horse," "Three Bad Men," and other pictures, carries away the honors in the picture as the son of a rancher, taking upon himself the dangerous duty of bringing to a climax the old man's feud of many years' standing. Anita Stewart plays opposite O'Brien in this picture.

Thrills Feature "Blind Alleys," Georgia Picture

"Blind Alleys," Paramount's latest release of a Thomas Meighan feature, is the biggest and best picture yet shown at Keith's Georgia theater. It portrays an exciting melodrama of two people who become separated on the first night of their honeymoon. All sorts of thrills are to be seen in this first of a series of film stories from the pen of Owen Davis who has written and produced more than fifty stage plays.

"Blind Alleys" is not "high brow stuff." It has plenty of the Meighan pictures of the past does not permit telling of the story in advance. In the film feature Greta Nissen is the Cuban bride of Evelyn Brent, the second woman in the triangle. The plot of the story hangs on the accidental separation of the hero and his bride. That is merely the start. What happens from then on keeps up the interest and the suspense until the principals land in a wild location out on Long Island. "Blind Alleys" will be shown all week in addition to the extra long vaudeville bill.

THRILLS ABOUND IN 'METROPOLITAN FILM

A variety of thrills, powerful drama and a love story of great charm and appeal, are the features of "Forever After," which is the attraction at the Metropolitan theater.

The story, adapted by Julian Josephson and Paul Gangelin from an Owen Davis stage play and directed by F. Harmon Weight, is one of pathos, comedy, suspense and thrilling action.

Mary Astor and Lloyd Hughes are starred. H. H. Cooley, David Torrence, Eulalie Jensen, Alec Francis and Lila Leslie support.

The tale begins in a small New England town, shifts to a fast moving sequence of college life and athletics, then to a contrasting setting of social luxury and poverty, and finally to the vivid background of the world war.

Page Mae Murray.

It was her first visit to a studio and she was making the most of it. The first actor she met was Charlie Murray.

"Oh, yes, Mr. Murray," she gurgled. "You're Mae Murray's father, aren't you?"

"No," replied that gallant dandy. "You see, I only went into theatricals in 1888."—Photoplay Magazine.

Does A Lawyer Believe His Own Assertions?

Whether he does or not may not be material, but at any rate here's a newspaper that does

SOME lawyers do believe their own assertions, and some do not. Perhaps it does not make a great deal of difference whether they do or not. However, this particular advertisement is an example of a practice that, to say the least, is unusual, for The Atlanta Constitution is buying and paying for a full page advertisement in its own columns. The purpose of the advertisement is twofold, chiefly to endorse and express sympathetic cooperation with the Junior League in issuing this special edition and, second, in order that this fine organization may earn that much additional commission.

The Constitution seldom issues a special edition of any kind or character. It avoids such issues as a general rule. However, when the Junior League determined that they would issue a special newspaper edition this year, in order to raise sufficient funds for the charities in which it is interested, and sought the cooperation of The Constitution, the appeal was irresistible. The League determined that it would literally earn the money for their charity fund, giving value received to each person solicited and at the same time earning for its charities a perfectly legitimate, business-like commission for its solicitation. The Constitution entered heartily into the spirit of the event.

The young women of the Junior League have done a splendid piece of work. They have sold more than 10,000 inches of bona fide advertising, on which their commissions will amount to a sizable sum, a part of which will be the commission on this particular page. The merchants and business men of Atlanta have cooperated in a fine way in making this possible. Everywhere the workers of the Junior League have been received cordially and sympathetically. The Constitution congratulates the business men upon their response to the wonderful appeal made by the League.

One of the large sources of revenue for the day lies in the sale of papers on the streets of Atlanta today. The Constitution has turned over to the League the proceeds of these sales. The Constitution will also reimburse its regular street sellers at their average earnings, so that these boys will lose nothing as a result. The young women expect to sell several thousand papers at prices ranging from the regular nickel on up to several hundred dollars apiece.

The Constitution bespeaks for them on the streets of Atlanta the same courteous, cooperative spirit with which they have been met in the stores and offices of Atlanta.

It has been a pleasure and a privilege to have had a share in helping the Junior League raise the amount of money they have undertaken, and The Constitution congratulates the League upon the fine piece of work they have done and upon the business-like manner in which they have gone about their task.

'Half a League! Half a League!'—and Then the Junior League

Here's a breath of the "good old days." Members of the Junior League and Atlanta's present beauty contestants caught and posed by their mothers when they were young. "Belles of the past," if you must paraphrase a hackneyed expression. The Constitution would give the photographers credit lines for the photos, but it wouldn't do them any good. They all died years ago. No. 1, Mrs. Eugene Black, Jr., now president of the Junior League, at the age of four when she was little Dolly Blalock. No. 2, Mrs. Lewis C. Gregg, the league's first vice president, as she appeared as Mamie Ansley, aged two. No. 3, Margaret Nelson, second vice president, as a coy maiden of two summers. No. 4, the cherub is Mrs. Lott Warren, Jr., at an age so tender that it didn't count. She was then Virginia Hoffman, and a prize baby. No. 5, Mrs. Eugene Harrington as she neared the sub-deb age. She was Miss Amelie Adams. No. 6, Miss Carolyn Nicholson at the age of four and a half in a mid-Victorian pose. No. 7, Mrs. Fay Wesley Ream, the former Mary Nelson, in her Sunday school dress and hair ribbon of long ago. No. 8, Mrs. Charles Freeman, Nell Walker before her marriage, in a pose that brings memories of the "gay nineties." No. 9, Mrs. Jack Simpson when she was Helen Rhorer at the age of two years and four months, and had charming yellow curls. No. 10, Mrs. William Huger, who was Sarah Orme before her marriage in her little blue bonnet of former years. No. 11, Mrs. Bolling Jones, Jr., formerly Dorothy Hodgson, of Athens, snapped by the photographer in a shrinking moment when she was three. No. 12, Mrs. William Perrin Nicolson, Jr., formerly Elizabeth Tuller, was a hot sketch and admitted it at the gentle age of two. No. 13, Mrs. Walter Wellborn, Julia Black before her marriage, registering independence at four. No. 14, just like grandmother was Louise Parker when she was a little thing and before she grew up and became Mrs. Turner Carson. No. 15, Mrs. Charles Pottinger, formerly Jessie Thompson, was a cute little thing when she was a mere shaver. No. 16, wide-awake and alert was Mrs. W. H. White, Jr., when she was a year and a half old and went barefoot. She was Maude Perkins. No. 17, Mrs. George Street specialized in puffed sleeves when she was two years old and Miss Willie Muse. No. 18, Miss Callie Orme had the prize curls on her street when she was a little girl. No. 19, "Look me over," tiny Louise King invited the photographer some few years ago. So he made this picture of the very young lady who was to be Mrs. Julian Thomas. No. 20, Her throat wasn't sore: It was fashionable to wear this sort of thing when Mrs. Henry B. Troutman was Maggie Foote. No. 21, when Mrs. Edward Pugh, formerly Mary Blalock, was two years old they wore long skirts. Things are different now. No. 22, Hair also was worn longer when Mrs. J. Rucker McCarty was growing up. The former Laura Ansley is shown at a tender age. No. 23, Pipe the cap. It was the property of Mrs. Carroll McGaughey when she was four and Effie Yeager. No. 24, Goo! Goo! When Mrs. Dugas McCleskey was a year old and Caroline Muse, that was all she had to say. No. 25, the heavenly twins—Mrs. Arthur Clarke and Mrs. Cecil Strobhar as Helen and Mary Hawkins in their inseparable days at the ages of five and four, respectively. No. 26, Catherine Erwin was a bearcat at "rockin' little brother Thomas" in the old days. Here you see her on the job. No. 27, This is Mrs. Robert Troutman in her best bib and tucker of yesteryear. She was formerly Nellie Hood Ridley.

Junior League Presents Girl Scout Hut To Council of Atlanta at Camp Civitania

"Junior League Hut" for Girl Scouts at Camp Civitania.

In the closing paragraphs of a pamphlet just issued by the Atlanta Girl Scouts the following words of appreciation were expressed:
"A noble feeling it must be indeed to know you are pioneers in aiding the development of the character, body and mind of the very soul of a nation."
The article further stated that the happy Girl Scouts were forever indebted to their many friends whose generous thoughts and deeds have made possible the fulfillment of an ideal so nearly approaching godliness.

In testimony of their cooperation of such a fine movement as Camp Civitania, the Atlanta Junior League presented the camp with one of the rustic huts that make the summer life so enjoyable for the Girl Scouts of the city. It is interesting to note that a number of the Junior League girls were Scouts and that several of the Junior Leaguers are at present active in Girl Scout work. Numbered among these are Mrs. Edwin Peoples, who was a charter member of the Atlanta Girl Scout council and its first secretary and treasurer.

Miss Katherine Erwin and Mrs. Latine Montague were formerly Girl Scout leaders. Mrs. Montague being present artist examiner for the court of awards. Mrs. William Perrin Nicolson, Jr., is chairman of the court of awards and responsible for its high standards.
On the third Saturday of each month Mrs. Nicolson presides over this court, which meets at the Girl Scout headquarters in the Chamber of Commerce building, and Mrs. Jack Thiesen, who has charge of the camp publicity, is secretary of the court of awards.

Neapolitan Mousse.

One quart cream, one-half package gelatine, one-half pound candied cherries, two-thirds cup water, one cup sugar, four tablespoons sherry wine. Whip cream, and stir into it sugar and wine. Soak gelatine in one-half cup of water, add one-third cup of boiling water, and when gelatine is dissolved, pour into the cream and stir until it begins to thicken. Pour a portion in the mold, then a layer of cherries, then cream, and cherries until mold is full. Pack mold in ice and salt for two or three hours.

Mint Velvet.

Three tablespoons finely cut mint leaves, two lemons, three oranges, two cups sugar, one cup water, one cup whipped cream, one egg white.

Soak chopped mint leaves and grate rind of lemon in orange and lemon juice for one-half hour. Boil sugar and water for 5 minutes. Pour at once over mint and juices. When thoroughly chilled, train into a freezer, and add stiffly-beaten white of egg and whipped cream. Freeze.

NASH

Leads the World in Motor Car Value

Steering is never tiring —when you drive a Nash

A cheerful willingness to answer your hand on the wheel is one of the very first things you notice, when you drive a Nash.

In many ways, Nash has provided for the ease and comfort of the arms that steer the car. In getting into or out of a tight place at the curb you will particularly notice the slight effort needed.

When you turn a corner, you'll welcome the shorter wind-up of the steering wheel.

In an emergency, this short turn of the wheel means quick responsiveness—and an accident averted. Nash steering is easier—faster—less tiring on the arms and wrists—and infinitely safer in dense traffic.

Nothing has been spared to build a more delightful car to drive. This steering mechanism is, beyond question, the most expensive type built today for cars in the Nash price field.

Like the steering, every detail in the car reflects the Nash determination to lead the world in motor car value.

Another instance of the outstanding excellence in Nash design is the 7-bearing motor—without a doubt the smoothest type in all the world.

Famous Member of the Atlanta Junior League

Mrs. Bobby Jones, wife of the American and British open golf champion, is one of the most widely-known and universally-popular members of the local branch of the Junior League. She formerly was Miss Mary Malone. She is shown here with her two children, Clara Malone Jones and Robert Tyre Jones, III.

Green Tomato Pickles.

One peck green tomatoes, six large onions, three quarts vinegar two quarts water, two tablespoons cloves, two ounces white mustard seed, two ounces celery seed, one teaspoon cayenne pepper, three pounds brown sugar, two tablespoons ginger. Slice tomatoes and onions, throw over a teaspoon of salt, and let stand 24 hours; drain well. In the morning take water and one quart of the vinegar and boil them together. Add the rest of the vinegar, sugar and spices. Boil the pickles in this syrup. Boil for 15 minutes a little at a time, as it burns easily. Put cinnamon and cloves in a bag.

Six pears, 1 cup sugar, 1 cup water, whipped cream, 1 dozen blanched almonds, chopped, 1-2 cup marmalade, 1 egg yolk.

Pare and cut pears in halves, removing the core. Simmer in sugar and water until tender. Mix chopped nuts and any good marmalade, and fill the pear cavity. Put two halves together and arrange as a border around a mound of cooked rice. Place marmalade in center of rice, garnish, and serve with whipped cream. The rice may be plain boiled, or cooked in milk with or without the addition of 2 tablespoons of sugar, 1 egg yolk and 1-4 cup of marmalade.

Peach Pickles.

Seven pounds peaches, 4 pounds sugar, 1 pint vinegar 1-2 ounce ginger root, 1 teaspoon cloves, 2 teaspoons allspice, 2 teaspoons cinnamon, 1-2 teaspoon mac.

Pare peaches, but do not remove stones. Boil vinegar and sugar, and add to them spices tied in bags. Add peaches, and bring all to the boiling point. Place in stone jars and let stand 24 hours. Drain and reboil the liquid; pour over the peaches again and let stand. Do this for nine consecutive days. The last day, boil down until only sufficient to cover fruit. Add fruit, bring all to boiling point, then put in jars and seal.

Chopped Tomato Pickle.

One peck green tomatoes, 6 large peppers, 2 red peppers, 6 onions, vinegar, 1 large head cabbage, cinnamon, cloves, white mustard seed, sugar to taste.

Slice tomatoes and put into a weak brine for 12 hours; drain and chop fine. Chop peppers, onions, and cabbage; scald the whole in vinegar and water; drain, and add spices. Cover with fresh vinegar.

Orange Marmalade.

Slice very thin, rind and all, 3 large, seedless oranges and 1 lemon. Add to the sliced fruit 11 tumblerfuls of water, and set away for 24 hours. Then boil slowly for 1 hour. After boiling, add 5 pounds of granulated sugar, and set away for 24 hours longer. Then boil 1 hour and 25 minutes. Pour into glasses and cover with paraffine.

Pineapple Bavarian Cream.

One can grated pineapple, one-half box gelatine, one pint whipped cream, one cup sugar, one-half cup cold water. Simmer pineapple and sugar 20 minutes. Soak gelatine in water, then add to pineapple, and strain immediately. Beat until it begins to thicken; add whipped cream. Beat well, then set in mold to harden. Serve with whipped cream.

One slice ham, 2 or 2 1-2 pounds, 2 teaspoons butter, 2 cups white sauce, 1 can mushrooms. Parboil the ham for 15 or 20 minutes, then cook in oven with butter for 30 minutes. Add canned mushrooms and melted butter from ham to the white sauce. Pour over the ham and serve at once.

Cheese Delights.

Small rounds of bread, yolks 2 eggs, 1-2 pound cheese, slices of bacon. Melt the cheese, add yolks, spread on bread rounds and place a slice of bacon on each piece. Place in broiler and cook until bacon is crisp.

Bread Pudding.

One cup fresh bread crumbs, 1 cup hot milk, 2 eggs, beaten, 1-1-1 cup sugar, pinch salt, nutmeg, vanilla. Soak bread crumbs into hot milk for 2 or 3 hours. Add other ingredients, and bake in well-greased cups for 1 hour. Set the cups in a pan of hot water in a moderate oven. Raisins may be added. Serve with hard sauce.

NEW PLANS LAID FOR FARMS BILL

BY FREDERIC WILLIAM WILE.

Washington, D. C., March 29.—

Definite plans for the new light to secure McNary-Haugen farm legislation are about to be formulated, George N. Peek, of Illinois, chairman of the committee of twenty-two, who was the spearhead of the successful drive for legislation in the late congress, has just left Washington for Chicago. There he will discuss the situation with other members of the North Central States Agricultural conference.

The conference is the powerful official farm body which is waging the battle for a "national program to establish agriculture on an economic parity with other industries." It represents farm organizations in Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, Montana, Nebraska, North Dakota, South Dakota and Ohio.

The ink of President Coolidge's veto signature, at the end of February, was hardly dry before midwest farm organizations cleared for action, designed to rebuild what the veto demolished. Activities have been particularly vigorous in Indiana. There throughout March daily meetings of protest have been held in respective counties under the militant chairmanship of William H. Settle, president of the Indiana Farm Bureau Federation. These meetings are to be kept up until every agricultural nook and cranny of the state has been incited to fresh determination along McNary-Haugen lines.

At St. Paul, on May 2, the first statewide farm convention, called to protest President Coolidge's veto, will be held. Minnesota is reported to be in unusually belligerent mood. Senator Henrik Shipstead, the farmer-labor party's sole representative in the upper house of congress, is expected to be on hand and address his embittered agricultural constituents.

Governor John Hammill, of Iowa, contemplates calling a meeting of governors of a dozen or 14 states throughout the corn and wheat belts. The exact time and character of this meeting probably will be determined after Chairman Peek of the committee of 22, has reported the lay of the land at Washington. Not only farm organizations in the west, but business bodies like Rotary clubs, chambers of commerce and bankers' associations are said to be ready to march shoulder to shoulder with the agricultural people to achieve at Washington next winter the results narrowly missed because of the president's veto.

While it is predicted that there will be more force behind a McNary-Haugen bill next time than ever before—unless weather this summer should kill surplus crops and raise prices to higher levels—it is foreshadowed that attack will be along the line of a general assault against the tariff. The speech delivered by Representative Dickinson, republican, of Iowa, in the house on March 2 clearly dis-closes this trend. There's also to be a good deal of crusading against "scrupulous paternalism" on behalf of banking, railroads and labor, with corresponding discrimination against agriculture. These tactics will involve bombardment of the federal reserve system, the interstate commerce commission, the immigration laws and the eight-hour statute. The fact that President Coolidge vetoed the farm bill and signed the McNary-Haugen bill, the same day is to be cited as typical of Washington's present "hostility" to farm relief. Mr. Coolidge's recent sanction of a higher tariff on pig iron, with resultant increase in price, has riled farm leaders and furnished them, they say, with new ammunition.

Almost immediately after the McNary-Haugen veto, prices of corn, wheat and other products shot upwards on the Chicago Board of Trade. Farm leaders are "suspicious" of the "forces" that brought this about. They say they remember how prices went up during the presidential campaign of 1924, reaching a peak just before election day, only to descend afterwards to figures which many considered as a normal supply-and-demand level.

Agricultural politicians at Washington note with lively interest the admissions of Charles D. Hilles, of New York, vice chairman of the republican national committee, who has just returned from a Coolidge scouting trip across the country. Mr. Hilles found that middle western and northwestern farmers were "disheartened" by the McNary-Haugen veto. "The action is still resented," Mr. Hilles declared on his arrival in New York this week, "and may lead to reprisals." There seems little question but that the G. O. P. leader accurately epitomizes the present and as correctly diagnoses the future.

Defective Children Aided To Health by Junior League

MRS. JOHN THIESON.

BY MRS. JOHN THIESON,
Chairman of the Junior League Memorial Clinic Committee.

A very important part of the Junior League work has been devoted to physically defective children, referred to the Wesley Memorial Clinic for treatment.

These children are met at school by members of the Junior League and taken in automobiles to Emory and after having medical care are returned to their school or home.

By far the majority of these patients are undernourished and anemic. In addition to this they naturally have many physical defects, poor vision, diseased adenoids and tonsils, faulty teeth, etc.

Two of our most interesting cases were a boy and a girl. The boy was bitten on the leg by an animal and, due to his bad blood, the wound was unable to heal, and for months this running sore gave great trouble. After many weekly treatments at Wesley his sore has completely healed and his general health greatly improved.

The girl, a bright child of 12 years, was having serious trouble with her sight. After being under observation in the hospital at Wesley for a week it was decided that had tonsils were causing infection of her right eye. After weeks of persuasion by Junior League girls, her mother consented to let her have the operation. By this time both eyes were infected and it was feared that she would become totally blind. However, the removal of her tonsils, her sight has improved wonderfully, and she has been fitted with glasses and is attending school regularly.

Several children have been discovered with pulmonary tuberculosis. One of these is at present under the supervision of the anti-tuberculosis association. The remaining children who are under observation of the Wesley clinic have been removed from school, isolated from their brothers and sisters, and are being taught to live an anti-tuberculous life.

The spirit of cooperation shown by all of the doctors in these benevolent cases and by these children's teachers, is that which encouraged the Junior League workers and promotes the welfare of a big community.

In fact, it is the true Atlanta spirit!

Government Pays Thinkers.

To obtain greater efficiency in its postal department the Australian government is extending its system of granting bonuses to employees for suggestions leading to economies of time and money. Heretofore, suggestions have been handled in each state by a committee that passed its recommendations for reward to the central office in Melbourne. Ideas now are being submitted direct to Melbourne, and already an average of 50 suggestions a week are being received. Awards are based on the amount of thinking done by the employee and in proportion to the savings effected. If a suggestion results from an officer's experience in his ordinary duties the reward is not so great as it is for a man who has had no similar opportunity of gaining inspiration, and this displays greater initiative.

Egypt is leaving student strikes.

Composite Congressman.

A pen picture of "the congressman you do not know," is given by H. G. Dwight, who writes about "Congressional Rocco," in the April Harper's Magazine.

"He is somebody because the declaration of independence made him somebody. And what is not least quaint about it is that of that declaration he has read no more than a few of the opening phrases—which he generally misquotes. E.g., 'all men are created free and equal.'"

"His stock in trade is a grand air, a confidential manner, a ready tongue, a fair game of poker and an inability to say no. You naturally do not expect him to care much for reading. He is too fond of talk and good company. The latest poet he has heard of is Kipling, the Kipling of 1895; but for purposes of quotation he leans toward Longfellow."

"In history he is less strong, having had no occasion to refresh his memory since his school days. But at a pinch the encyclopedia will tell him all he needs to know, or his clerk can run over to the library and work up the facts."

"Where he touches his heights of eloquence is on the theme of American institutions and ideals—though just what they are or just how they differ from French, Japanese, or Fiji ideals and institutions he would be hard put to expound. Whether he has read more of the constitution he is sworn to defend than of the declaration of independence you are too discreet to inquire. Certainly his tinkering with it do not look as if he had. When he descends from the clouds, however, he makes it clear enough that the great American ideal is prosperity and the great American

Sunday Censors Kept Busy.

Since the inauguration of censorship of Sunday events in Glasgow, the Glasgow magistrates are kept busy scanning applications for permits. On a recent Sunday 32 permits were granted, although, for the first time in several weeks applications for moving picture performances were not filed. Four requests for rights to hold concerts were opposed vigorously, but unsuccessfully, by Bailie Alex Brown. Nearly half of the permits were for non-religious meetings and the others were for church, Sunday school, evangelistic and like services.

Shape into little balls, place far apart, and bake a light brown.

Beethoven Film in Vienna.

A new Beethoven film which has just been shown in Vienna moving picture theaters has won both praise and censure. The great composer is said to be shown in a pathetic aspect from the beginning of the first reel. His untidy ways, his forgetfulness, temper, selfishness and his admiration, even love for women, all are artistically shown. Yet, critics say, it is not the Beethoven of biography, but a softened, gentlemanly figure that walks the screen. Fritz Kortner takes the part of Beethoven, and looks like him, but his portrayal is a disappointment to worshippers of the master musician. The scenes were taken in the Beethoven country, the forest scene being described as being especially beautiful.

Congo To Have Aviation.

Commercial aviation has just invaded the Belgian Congo and is giving transportation speedier than ever dreamed of by residents there. A company which has secured the exclusive franchise for operation of civil aviation lines has established regular aerial service between Boma and Elisabethville, covering the 1,289 miles in two days instead of in 50 by any other method. Flights are made every eight days to connect with mail steamers from Belgium. Hydroplane boats will provide transportation between the small towns and settlements along rivers.

Mix well and place in greased bread tins. Bake 45 minutes. This makes two loaves.

Good Samaritan Clinic Important League Work

Chairman of Good Samaritan Clinic Committee.

Work among little children has ever been a popular activity of the Junior League. Here in Atlanta, as in other cities, this activity has been carried on by providing much-needed milk funds, hot lunches and day nurseries. In their work with certain groups of children, Junior League members saw the opportunity of enlarging their usefulness by lending a helping hand to defective children. If they could be restored to normal health and wellbeing, what an accomplishment that would be! Then it was that the Good Samaritan clinic became their major activity.

A single incident showed the league members how increasingly helpful their work might become. One day a popular league member was sewing hot lunches in a certain school, when her eye fell on a little boy who needed, as she said, everything in the way of medical and material aid. She promptly took him to the Good Samaritan clinic and he became the clinic's first patient under Junior League sponsorship. The case of this little fellow, handicapped and trugling against great odds, determined the league to undertake the work of restoring other school children, similarly handicapped, to robust health. In September, 1924, the league began a definite program with special types of children in the city schools. Using their own cars for the work and pledging certain hours each week, members of the Junior League began their program of taking certain groups of children from the city schools to the Good Samaritan clinic. Last fall they improved their method of transportation by purchasing a bus, which has been running regularly this school term between the schools and the clinic, being operated by Junior League members.

"Personal service" is an underlying principle of the league, and the members have been called upon to serve in various ways. One committee has devoted itself to making bandages, gauze sponges and other accessories needed in the operating room. Another group of members has assisted the doctors by taking medical notes. History-taking has been the work of a third, while all the emergency needs have been given to a special emergency committee.

Figures are rather dull reading, but they are the best evidence when results are estimated. A little report summarized from the clinic records shows that: 450 children brought in by the Junior League have been examined at the clinic; 116 have been put on treatment; 42 children have been given glasses; 116 have received dental work; 8 have been furnished with milk; 4 have received car fare to and from school; 335 articles of clothing have been furnished to families; medicine to the amount of $400.00 has been furnished children whose parents were unable to get it for them; 835 visits have been made by the social service department of the clinic; 831 hours have been given this semester by Junior League members at the clinic; 449 hours have been given by doctors on the clinic medical staff during the same period of time; 74 operations have been performed at the clinic since June of last year, when the clinic was generously equipped with an operating room by Walter T. Candler, incumbent president of the clinic. To assist in carrying on the work at the clinic, the Junior League has also made substantial contributions for the past two years from their production of the "Follies."

In addition to the practical help, the Junior League has tried to render its young proteges at the clinic, their equally necessary, if less practical, wants have also been remembered. A number of children were entertained with a Christmas tree at the clinic one year, while last Christmas members of the league prepared 20 baskets of good things for their young friends.

Comfort

(From the Junior League Bulletin.)

I can not bring you comfort, ask me not
For smooth-pulled sheets and socks all neatly mended;
I can not bring you biscuits brown and hot,
If these you seek, why then our love is ended—
If love you call it—men do call it love,
And women too who know no other kind,
Who patiently put household tasks above
The trifling hungers of the flesh and mind.

But I can laugh with you at commonplaces,
And make a feast of moments men call cheap,
And I can go like snow and leave no traces
When night means nothing more to us than sleep—
Oh, is it not some comfort to believe?
My heart will not grow dingy on your sleeve?

They will tell you that Squibb's Milk of Magnesia is better

HERE are the reasons for the remarkable superiority of Squibb's Milk of Magnesia:

It is made according to highest standards of the medical profession.

It has no "earthy" taste, such as is frequently found in the ordinary product.

It is unsurpassed in effectiveness.

It is made by a special Squibb process which assures a remarkably pure and smooth product which is easy to take.

Always say the name "Squibb" when ordering. It is "The Standard of Quality."

Gentlemen:

Att: Mr. Theodore Ozer.

It is with great pleasure that I address this letter to you and congratulate you upon the most effective results obtained in our stores and in my home, in exterminating the rats by your method.

We have tried, from time to time, various methods to rid our stores of this great pestilence and met with only indifferent success until your firm took over the work. You have been most successful in even the most difficult cases in the elimination of any trouble in our stores.

I want to express my appreciation to you personally and as a company for these satisfactory results and assure you that at any time in the future you desire to refer to our firm for recommendation of this work, it will be most gladly given for I believe that anyone can profit in the use of your organization.

With best personal regards, I remain

Very truly yours,
Southern Grocery Stores, Inc.
J. H. Rogers
Vice President.

If you are annoyed and your property is being damaged by pests, READ THIS LETTER CAREFULLY. We can do for you exactly what we have done for these concerns.

YOU PAY NOTHING Until Pests
Are Gone

After we actually clear away the pests to your satisfaction, our very moderate charge includes a guarantee to keep pests away from your premises for an entire year.

We do all the work ourselves and guarantee to remove pests a safe and harmless way. Phone us today. Our representative will call when it is convenient for you to see him, and give you a complete explanation without cost or obligation.

Vouched for by his neighbors

No matter where you are—at home or over in a neighboring state—you take no chances when you stop at the familiar cream-colored Pan-Am pump. Before this pump is placed, we ask a man's neighbors about his business character—people who have known him for years. Only when they speak highly of him, can he secure the Pan-Am franchise. For our constant aim is to give southern motorists a dependable supply of better gasoline and motor oils. Thousands are turning to Pan-Am—not only because they appreciate this better service—but because they have found that Pan-Am gasoline starts quicker, goes farther and pulls stronger.

Pan American

The high quality of Pan-Am products never varies. They are produced and marketed by ONE organization, through reliable dealers.

Mint Jelly.

Snow apples, fresh mint leaves, equal weight sugar. Wine apples, pare and cut in quarters. Add cold water to barely cover, and add enough mint leaves, well washed, to give a decided mint flavor. Cover and cook slowly until apples are soft. Mash and drain in jelly bag. Boil 20 minutes. Add sugar, heated; add more mint leaves, if desired. Boil five minutes. Skim and turn into glasses. Let stand in sunny window 24 hours. Cover and remove to dry, cool place.

Junior League of Atlanta Enjoyed Steady Growth of Influence During Administration of Each of Its Eight Chief Executives

Past presidents of the Junior League, with the exception of Mrs. William J. McKenna, founder, and Mrs. Eugene R. Black, Jr., present president. Upper row, left to right, Mrs. Jack Disoway, Mrs. Edwin Peeples and Mrs. Glenn Ryman. Bottom row, Mrs. Lott Warren, Jr., Mrs. Henry Newman and Mrs. Edgar Upton.

Since its organization here in 1915, the Atlanta Junior League has had eight presidents, the first of whom was Mrs. William J. McKenna, the founder of the local league, and the last, Mrs. Eugene R. Black, Jr., who now is at the helm of the organization. The eight presidents in the order of their service are:

Mrs. McKenna, who served two years as chief executive.
Mrs. Edwin Peeples, who followed her.
Mrs. Glenn Ryman, who was Anne Patterson during her terms.
Mrs. Edgar Upton, who now lives in Florida.
Mrs. Jack Disoway.
Mrs. Lott Warren, Jr.
Mrs. Henry Newman.
Mrs. Black.

Growth Is Steady.
The administration of each of these presidents was marked by an extension of the league's influence and work and was featured by some innovation in activity which in practically every instance proved an instant success and has been continued since.
The administration of Mrs. McKenna, who now lives in Boston, is described at length in another article in this issue. She it was who founded the league here, and she is remembered as one of the organization's most energetic, enthusiastic, beautiful and gracious officials.

Mrs. Peeples, who was second president, established a model kitchen as an aid to the war-time campaign for food conservation, and labored wholeheartedly to help in this work. The first of the Junior League "Follies" was staged during her regime, and she was re-elected to serve a second term, at all times proving herself a resourceful president, ready to sacrifice her own personal affairs in the interest of fostering the growth of the organization.

Mrs. Glenn Ryman was the league's third president, and in many respects she proved one of its strongest and most popular leaders. She coordinated the membership into a single unit working for community and national improvement, and she has the distinction of having brought the Junior League "Follies" to the position of prominence it now enjoys. She also inaugurated the system of having Junior League members trained in parliamentary procedure by Miss Rosa Woodberry.

Mrs. Upton's Administration.
Mrs. Upton assumed charge of the league soon after the close of the war at a time when there was a pressing need for extension of charity work, and she toiled early and late to bring relief to the suffering and to keep Atlanta in the forefront of every national movement looking to alleviation of suffering among the poor and unfortunate. Mrs. Upton also enjoyed widespread popularity among the league members, being a woman of gracious appearance and representative bearing. She is spoken of as one of the most capable executives the league has ever had.

She was succeeded in office by Mrs. Jack Disoway, under whose administration the league departed from its custom of staging its annual "Follies" and sponsored an indoor circus at the auditorium, which proved a successful financial venture. Mrs. Disoway devoted her chief efforts to aiding and entertaining wounded war veterans under treatment in great number at Hospital 48, on Peachtree road, and the league membership swung solidly into line behind her and did noble work among the suffering soldiers. Mrs. Disoway also directed a widespread campaign of social service work, and her term of office was one of the most successful the league has ever known.

Good Samaritan Clinic.
Mrs. Lott Warren, the sixth president, may point to the Junior League's connection at the Good Samaritan clinic as the greatest accomplishment of her term of office. In addition Ned Wayburn, the famous producer, was brought to Atlanta to assume charge of the "Follies" while she was in office, and the show was booked for an entire week's performance for the first time. Mrs. Warren received the warmest cooperation from every member of the league, and was herself a leader in every activity it sponsored.

The greatest sum of money the "Follies" ever netted the league was realized during the administration of Mrs. Henry Newman, who also extended in marked degree the charity and social service work which the league carries on. While she was in office to cool standing in oven. Slice like cake, and serve cold with whipped cream.

Favorite Salad Recipes of Junior League Girls

Like salads?
Who doesn't?
Here's a list of recipes which are favorites of Junior League girls.
Look them over.

Chopped nuts, cream cheese, a little thick cream, pepper, salt, apples.
Mix cho. ped. nuts with half their quantity of cream cheese; add cream to blend the mixture. Season with pepper and salt, and make into tiny balls. Peel tart apples, core and slice on lettuce leaves, and put a cheese ball in the center of each. Serve with French dressing made with lemon juice.

Banana and Pineapple Salad.

Cut in small squares equal parts of banana and pineapple. Add 1-2 cup marshmallows cut into pieces.
Just before serving, whip cream until stiff and mix with the salad. Serve on lettuce leaves, with maraschino cherry on top.

Brunswick Salad.

One can shrimps, 1 pound cold cooked veal, 1 pint chopped celery, salt and pepper to taste.
Rinse shrimps well in cold water.
Cut in pieces and sprinkle with French dressing. Cut veal in small pieces and sprinkle with French dressing.
Set aside for two hours. Mix, and add celery and sufficient mayonnaise to moisten. Serve on lettuce leaves.
Garnish with olives.

Celery Salad.

Slightly moisten Roquefort cheese with vinegar and stir out lumps. Combine this with an equal amount of cream cheese. Fill stalks of celery with the mixture and sprinkle with paprika. Serve two stalks to each person, on lettuce hearts with French dressing.

Cheese Salad.

Arrange head lettuce in a flat salad bowl; mix 2 packages of cream cheese in 1 pint of cream and put through potato ricer. Pile onto the lettuce and surround with 2 glasses of jelly.

Cheese Salad II.

One-half cup cream, 2 tablespoons gelatin, 1-2 cup grated cheese, 1-4 cup pimentos, pinch of mustard (dry), 1-2 teaspoon salt, few drops tabasco.
Dissolve gelatin in half a cup of warm water and add to cream (whipped). Add other ingredients and mold into any shape, and serve with mayonnaise on lettuce leaves.

Cheese Salad III.

Roll cheese into small balls and cover some with finely chopped parsley, the others with paprika. Serve several balls of each on each plate with hearts of head lettuce. Serve with mayonnaise.

Colored Cheese Ball Salad.

One cream cheese, sweet cream, 1 spray parsley, small amount of chives,
1-2 pimentos, 1 yolk hard-boiled egg,
1-4 cup pecans.
Mix cream enough into cheese with a fork to make a stiff paste. Divide in four portions. To one add parsley and chives well chopped and mixed;

to another add red pepper or chopped beets; to third add yolk of hard-boiled egg; to fourth add pounded pecans nuts. Mold in tiny balls and put one or more of each in the nests made with lettuce leaves. Cover with French dressing.

Cherry Salad.

Remove the stones from a can of white cherries. Place a filbert in each and serve on crisp lettuce leaves with stiff mayonnaise.

Chicken Salad.

To 3 pounds of chicken cut into pieces add half the quantity of, veal, ery cut into small pieces. Mix with mayonnaise. This amount will serve eight people.

Combination Salad.

Six tomatoes, 2 medium-sized cucumbers, 8 young green onions, salt, Slice tomatoes in eighths, dice cucumbers, and onions very thin. Mix well with the salt. Pour over French dressing and let stand 1-2 hour before serving.

Green Pepper Salad.

Select a firm, medium-sized green pepper. Cut off stem and scrape out the seeds. Fill the pepper with cream cheese moistened with French dressing. Pack in tight, refit the stem, and chill over night. When ready to serve, slice pepper, using one or more slices on lettuce leaves for individual portion.

Kidney Bean Salad.

One can red kidney beans, 1 tablespoon flour, 1 tablespoon butter, 4 tablespoons vinegar, 1-4 teaspoon salt, 1-2 teaspoon paprika, 1 large onion chopped fine, 8 hard-boiled eggs, 2 or 3 tablespoons any sour relish, dash of cayenne.

Heat the beans. Melt butter and rub in the flour; cook well and bethoroughly. Add vinegar and juice of the beans; cook until thick and stir to avoid lumps; add seasonings and onion. Let cool and toss in the beans and chopped eggs.

Malaga Grape Salad.

Skin the grapes, remove seeds, and stuff with almonds or pecans. Serve on crisp lettuce leaves with French dressing mixed with finely chopped nuts.

Marshmallow Salad.

Two pounds grapes, 1 can pineapple, 1-2 pound shell pecans, 1 pound of marshmallows.
Peel and seed grapes. Cut marshmallows into triangular pieces. Cut up the pineapple. Chill and mix with the grapes and marshmallows. Serve with boiled dressing on lettuce leaves.

Orange Salad.

Arrange on a plate a few pieces of crisp lettuce. Peel an orange, cutting off all white skin with it. With a sharp knife cut out the sections of orange membranes. Arrange the sections so they look like a flower. In the center put a small bit of mayonnaise and sprinkle chopped walnuts over the whole.

Peach Salad.

Halve large, ripe peaches and fill with chopped blanched almonds mixed with mayonnaise. Arrange on crisp lettuce leaves and serve with a stiff mayonnaise.

Strawberry Jelly Salad.

One quart strawberries, or berries drained, 1 tablespoon gelatin, 1-1-2 cups hot water, 1-2 cup cold water.
Fill a mold with the hulled and washed strawberries. Soak gelatin in cold water, add hot water, and after dissolving it, place around the berries. Chill and serve with mayonnaise.

Stuffed Beet Salad.

Take a few large cooked beets for each person to be served. Cut out as much of the inside as possible and stuff with mayonnaise. Serve with hearts of head lettuce.

Sweetbread Salad.

Let sweetbreads stand in ice water four hours. Remove membrane and let boil 1-2 hour. When cold, cut in small pieces and mix well with mayonnaise. Serve on crisp lettuce.
One cup cold-chopped chicken may be added if desired, or 1 can of mushrooms.

Cream Salad Dressing.

One-fourth tablespoon salt, 1-2 tablespoon mustard, 1 tablespoon sugar,
2-1-2 tablespoons melted butter, 1 egg,
3-4 cup cream, 1-4 cup vinegar.
Mix dry ingredients together, add egg slightly beaten, then butter and cream, and the vinegar very slowly.
Cook in double boiler until it becomes thick. Serve cold.

French Dressing.

One-fourth teaspoon paprika, 2 tablespoons vinegar, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 5 tablespoons olive oil.
Lemon juice may be added or substituted for vinegar, and sugar added if desired. Mix thoroughly; serve very cold.

Puffed Crackers.

Soak crackers in water for 20 minutes. Scoop out and place on a dean dowel, let dry for one hour.
Place in a pan and cover each cracker with a generous amount of melted butter. Bake in a very low oven for 1 hour. They should be a light brown, and will keep for several days. Reheat before using as a salad accompaniment.

Roquefort Cheese Dressing I.

Four tablespoons olive oil, 1 tablespoon vinegar, salt and paprika, 2 tablespoons crumbled Roquefort cheese.
Beat oil, vinegar, and seasonings together well. Add gradually to the cheese, and beat with an egg-beater until smooth and thick. Serve on lettuce hearts.

Roquefort Cheese Salad Dressing II.

Roquefort cheese, olive oil, tomato catsup, vinegar, salt, black and red pepper to taste, 1 teaspoon sugar.
Cream the cheese, add enough oil to make a paste. Season with vinegar, salt, pepper and sugar. Add enough catsup to make it a pretty color.

Salad Dressing.

Three tablespoons catsup, 2 tablespoons olive oil, 1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce, salt, pepper, and pa-rika to taste.
Mix thoroughly, and serve very cold with any green salad. Especially good with cucumbers.

Tarragon Vinegar.

Pour 1 gallon elder vinegar over 3 ounces of elder blossoms, 4 ounces tarragon leaves, 2 ounces mint, 2 ounces small onions, 1 ounce garlic, 12 cloves.
Let stand four weeks; strain and bottle.

One tablespoon chili sauce, 1-1-2 tablespoon onion chopped fine, 1 large cup mayonnaise, 1-1-2 tablespoon green pepper chopped fine.
Mix well, and put 1 or 2 tablespoons on selected leaves or hearts of lettuce just before serving.

30 SCHOOLS TAKE PART IN DISTRICT DEBATES

Winder, Ga., March 29.—(Special.) The triangular debates for the high schools of the ninth congressional district were held at the different schools of the district last Friday night. The question debated was, "Resolved, That the appointment of judges in this state by the chief executive is preferable to that of election by the people."

At Winder the negative team of Cornelia, Jack Ellard and Miss Connie Ruth Irvin, debated the affirmative team of Winder, Misses Pauline Roberts and Artis Howell, the negative winning.

At Statham school, Statham's affirmative team defeated Winder's negative team by a two-to-one decision, and at Commerce school the negative team of that place defeated the affirmative team of Cornelia by a unanimous decision.

About 20 schools of the district, with an affirmative and negative team, participated in the debate, making 120 debaters in all.

The two or more schools in the district winning the highest number of points by the decisions of the judges will meet at a later date for another debate on the same question and the school then winning will send a team to the state meeting to be held at the University of Georgia at Athens in June.

The judges at Winder on Friday night were M. B. Pound, T. N. Campbell and F. W. Powell, all of Athens.

Too Many Mayors.

Mendota, Ill.—Just a day or so ago Mendota's 5,000 inhabitants were worried because no candidate offered for the office of mayor. Now they are equally worried because three citizens have come forward with platforms based upon progress, prosperity and the wellbeing of the working man.

Mendota has never had three mayoralty candidates at one time and the excitement is something to write home about.

WIDOW TO RETAIN GOVERNOR'S FIVE PRISON SERVANTS

Jackson, Miss., March 29.—(AP)—Governor Dennis Murphree announced that the five convicts who were house servants at the executive mansion during the term of Governor Whitfield will be pardoned. This was one of the last requests of the late governor when he became seriously ill.

"The pardons to these three men and two women are the first I shall issue, and probably the only ones for some time," the governor said. "I do not intend to grant any more pardons until things have had time to adjust themselves. I am too busy with other matters at present."

The convicts, who will continue to serve Mrs. Whitfield at the mansion for several weeks, will be released some time this spring or summer.

INTERNATIONAL HARVESTER TRUCKS

This International Special Delivery owned by Brower Candy Company has the power and speed to handle deliveries with real economy and dispatch.

HAT IS LOW-COST HAULING?

Dependable, low-cost hauling is based on other factors beside a cheap purchase price. It is determined more by the actual work your truck can do each day over a long period of years, and the Cost of Doing that work. On this basis the performance and economy of Internationals are beyond question.

When a man invests in motor truck equipment, he expects it to last a long time and render constant, efficient service. The integrity of the Harvester organization and the stability of its service policies are positive protection of your investment in International trucks.

International Trucks are made in all the popular sizes—the new "Special Delivery," 1½, 1½ and 2-ton Speed Trucks, and heavier Trucks up to 7-ton.

For long or short hauls in the moving business, Internationals are providing dependable and profitable transportation. This model 75 is owned by The Fireproof Storage Company.

HUNGRY COUPLE ARRESTED FOR ORANGE THEFT

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 29.—(P)—How Alex Kahara, 25-year-old Finn, and his girl wife, lived for weeks on a few wild grape fruit and some clams which the husband dug out of Tampa bay was told today by police following Kahara's arrest on a charge of pilfering.
Kahara is alleged to have stolen some oranges from a local grove. Apprehended in the act he told police: "I'm only taking a few oranges. We haven't had a bite to eat since Saturday. I thought it would be better to take oranges than rob a home. Isn't it?"
Police didn't answer. They charged him with pilfering and placed him in jail.
Detective W. P. McCleish took Alex out to supper and then furnished his wife with a supply of food.

HUNTER KILLED SEVERAL LIONS, BUT LOST WIFE

Baltimore, March 29.—(United News.)—Count de Janze preferred to kill rhinos and lions in British East Africa to preventing his wife from flirting with Raymond Vincent de Trafford, according to Congressman George Holden Tinkham, of Massachusetts.
Tinkham shot big game with the count, he said, and while in camp noticed the young Englishman's attention to the countess.
"I watched the trio with great interest when the count came to me and asked me to accompany him on a trip to the interior. I hinted as discreetly as possible," said Tinkham, "that it is not worth while gaining a lot of animals if you are going to lose your wife. But he seemed to have no suspicion, so we set out. When we returned to the colony a month later the countess had gone and so had de Trafford. The count had got a fine bag, but he had lost his wife."

Smartest Costume Needs Attractive Novelties To Match

Paris, March 29.—(P)—The importance of attaining chic attains new dimensions this Easter, when so many attractive novelties are on the boulevards of Paris and every woman knows that the smartest costume can lose its perfection by the choice of the wrong accessories or gain distinction with the correct ones.

The woman of taste will add to her costume for the races, motorcycling or touring, the new fitted under-arm sack being carried at Auteuil and on the streets of Paris. Made in various colors, the favorite seems to be soft, light brown leather with a matching umbrella of brown that has a tortoise-shell handle. One's mackintosh can be folded into the bag which measures only 20 inches. A race card, pencil and the usual vanity equipment is included.

Madame's boutonniere is still of supreme importance. A novelty which is catching favor is the glass flower or piece of fruit in a bed of leather leaves. One dressmaker uses them as the only trimming on simple evening dresses of chiffon, and Premier chose a rose of Sevres porcelain with kid leaves to trim a pale pink frock.

The wearing of the scarf must be considered. The newest way is to cross it once with a matching flower of the same material close against the neck. Before the costume is completed the gloves must be chosen. Pull-on gloves without cuffs are still preferred in Paris for sport or dress wear. The smartest shops carry washable gloves in gray and gray beige for evening; short white ones with metal threads and embroidered cuffs.

The final touch on the smart costume is the choice of bracelets and neck chains. Old gold has outshadowed the popular jade for informal jewelry, which is fashioned in imitations of the ornaments of ancient Rome.

WIDE BRACELETS OF DULL GOLD OR BEATEN SILVER ARE WORN EXTENSIVELY OUTSIDE THE TIGHT-FITTING SLEEVES OF DARK DRESSES.

MILLEN HIGH SCHOOL WINS TWO DEBATES

Millen, Ga., March 29.—(Special.)—Millen High school was victorious here Friday night in the annual triangle debate held in the first district. The subject for debate was, "Resolved, That the Appointment of Judges in this State by the Chief Executive is Preferable to Electing Them by Popular Vote."

Millen upheld the affirmative side of the question and was represented by Miss Christine Broxton and Rev. Warren. The negative side was represented by Miss Ruby Anne Deal and Kym Temple, of Statesboro High school.

Simultaneously with the debate in Millen the same subject was being debated in Statesboro, Millen being represented there by Miss Estelle Daniel and Park Brinson on the negative side who also gained the decision.

By winning both of these debates Millen High will debate the winner in the other triangle at the first district meet to be held at Sylvan in April.

UNIVERSITY BLUES FAVORED BY FRENCH

Paris, March 29.—(P)—The blues of Oxford and Cambridge are worn by many French girls this season. The light blue and dark combine effectively in the new two-tone sport dresses. Sometimes they are made up into striped ties or form the stripes of the new cross-stripe sweaters.

Not all the French girls, who wear the blues know what inspired them. But the combination is growing in favor every day.

Revival at Millen.

Millen, Ga., March 29.—(Special.)—The Millen Methodist church opened its annual revival last Sunday, with Rev. A. S. Trulock, the pastor, doing the preaching. Rev. A. W. Quilan, of Tennessee, will lead the music.

CANDLER TO INCREASE ACREAGE IN TOBACCO

Metter, Ga., March 29.—(Special.)—A bumper crop of tobacco in Candler county is in prospect as the farmers are setting out the young plants. Several hundred acres were set out last week and by the end of this week it is expected that more than 2,000 acres will have been set out.

According to the farmers and tobacco demonstrators, the tobacco plants this year are in a much more healthy condition than at any time since the industry was started in this county.

This points to an earlier harvest and a much heavier yield if the season continues favorable until curing time.

According to a survey there will be approximately 3,000 acres of tobacco planted in this county this year, compared with something like 1,500 in 1926. This increase in acreage is due to the excellent price received last year and the fact that cotton prices were exceedingly low. Another fact that has played a great part in the increased acreage this year is the marketing facilities for Metter this year. Instead of one warehouse this season there will be two operated.

League Relieves Tedium Of Men Wounded in War

MRS. FRANK ALLCORN, JR.

BY MRS. FRANK ALLCORN, JR., Chairman, Hospital No. 48 Committee. This committee of the Atlanta Junior League visits the United States government hospital on Peachtree road every Monday afternoon and distributes flowers, magazines, cigarettes and other things for the comfort of the wounded men there. Its members take the soldiers for automobile rides and play bridge with them in order to relieve the tedium of their long days of treatment. We decorated the Red Cross hut for its Halloween party and trimmed 40 trees at Christmas, four of which were large and 36 small, in order that bed patients might enjoy them. One member of the committee, Mrs. Carroll McGaughey, taught some of the men to make brooms. Another of the men makes hand-worked leather bags, and we have secured a number of orders for his products. We have shared with the Young Matrons' Service Star Legion is giving two heart-dice parties, the last of which was held on Valentine day. Prizes of cigarettes were given at each table, and bed patients were supplied with tobacco. The league annually appropriates the sum of $250 for the work of the hospital 48 committee, and we feel that we are doing a splendid work in making their surroundings as pleasant as possible for these men, who gave so much for their country during the world war.

Today's Ford Car!

*Before You Buy Any Make of Automobile, Let Us Show
You Today's Ford Car.*

You may consider that you know the Ford Car. You may have been a Ford owner for years and think you are familiar with the splendid satisfaction which the Ford gives, and yet unless you have made it a point to examine the Ford Car as it is built today—to drive it and note its improved engine performance—relax in it over rough roads, and experience the increased comfort which it affords, and to learn of the many recent improvements, you do not know the Ford Car as it is built today.

Many of the new Ford Car features are obvious—balloon tire equipment—wire wheels—Pyroxylin finish—a choice of colors—improved upholstery, etc., but the big satisfaction to you, as the owner of Today's Ford Car is to be found in the way in which it will fulfill your expectations of what a modern motor car should be. You will be amazed at the increased power resulting from the new Vaporizer, the smoother engine operation, riding qualities, and above all, in the way in which this car handles and performs in traffic and on the open road. In short, you must drive a new Ford Car to be a fair judge of present-day motor car values. We invite your inspection of Today's Ford Cars.

CAVALIER

A New Blue Ribbon Bed

Into the workshop of early American cabinet makers came the designs of the world's greatest artisans, English, Dutch, Flemish and French. Naturally these schools of designs influenced their work. But from this influence emerged the distinctive early American designs that are today the most favored of all furniture. It is to this prolific and charming period of designs that Blue Ribbon craftsmen have turned for inspiration in the creation of the "Cavalier," a new Blue Ribbon Bed of steel. The illustration of the "Cavalier" shown above scarcely portrays its beauty—no picture which lacks color can do it justice. The "Cavalier" is finished in burl walnut, and by the special Blue Ribbon process its finish recreates the exquisite walnut grainings with startling fidelity. The head and foot panels are embellished with hand-applied antiqued flowered designs. Its graceful Windsor bends are authoritative. Wrought in steel the "Cavalier" has all of the advantages of steel construction. Its strength and durability are as lasting as its loveliness. The exclusive "satin-smooth" Blue Ribbon finish is baked-on and hand-rubbed. It grows softer and more beautiful with use. A finish that is chip-proof, that will never grow dull. But the greatest advantage of the "Cavalier" is naturally its price. Being of steel, it is made entirely (except for the hand finish) on labor and cost saving machines. For the first time it brings the authoritative beauty of design and fine workmanship within the reach of the most modest purse. The "Cavalier" is only one of more than 50 models of Blue Ribbon steel beds. Other distinctive Colonial designs like the "Priscilla," the "Plymouth" and the colorful blends of the exclusive Duo-chrome finishes—Oriole, Moonstone, Antique-Walnut, Clouded Jade, all of these form an almost inexhaustible store from which you may choose. Ask any one of the dealers listed below to show you the new Blue Ribbon Beds.

Only when you use these three sleep units together—Blue Ribbon Beds, Mattresses, Springs—do you enjoy perfect sleep equipment

Each unit of Blue Ribbon sleep equipment, no matter whether it be bed, mattress or spring, has a definite superiority, in-built, exclusive features, designed by our sleep engineers, that will add comfort and restfulness to your sleep. But it is only when the three Blue Ribbon units are used together that the advantage of these features is best appreciated. These special features of Blue Ribbon sleep equipment are the outcome of more than 40 years experience in the mechanics of sleep. They are based on the one idea we have always had—that sound, pletely relaxed and slept soundly—and the periods of discomfort—that is when the sleeper stirred or dreamed, have proved that the secret of restful sleep is found in relaxation—comfort. Blue Ribbon Beds, Mattresses and Springs do just that—they lull the tired body to complete relaxation and sound restful sleep. Each unit of Blue Ribbon has a definite part to play in forming the perfect sleep equipment. For instance—Blue Ribbon Beds are made with a patented corner lock that holds the bed absolutely rigid. There is no annoyance, no periods of discomfort from creaking bed corners, no feeling of insecurity often found in wood beds.

BLUE RIBBON STEEL BEDS

The Blue Ribbon patented, exclusive steel corner lock, holds the bed rigid, prevents loose creaking corners. It is the greatest single advance in bed making in the past 10 years.

restful, healthful sleep is the product of complete relaxation, induced by the comfort of the sleep equipment used. Recently a series of tests in several large American Universities have substantiated the correctness of our belief. These tests which charted the periods of comfort—that is when the sleeper was com-

Note the resilient coil construction of Blue Ribbon Bed Springs. Blue Ribbon coils are re-tempered to the truest of watch spring steel. They never lose their restful buoyancy.

Blue Ribbon Springs are made of re-tempered steel coils, extra-tempered to the quality of watch spring steel. This extra tempering means extra resiliency, extra comfort. They pillow your body evenly, gently, your every position and contour is absorbed by their soft coils—and their resiliency is guaranteed for life. This extra tempering makes them retain their buoyancy for a generation.

To these two splendid sleep units add a Blue Ribbon Mattress, and your sleep equipment is complete. Blue Ribbon Mattresses contain nothing but new Southern cotton, felted into a downy fibre. Their shape is tailored into them by the imperial stitched edge. They won't flatten out and grow lumpy. That's why they are super-restful. Each one is packed in an individual carton, sealed dust-proof, untouched by hands from the time it leaves our factory until you place it on your bed.

Make this test—Buy a Blue Ribbon Bed, Mattress and Spring, use them together—see for yourself the difference it makes in your sleep, in your health, see how the periods of discomfort in your sleep disappear. You'll find each unit of Blue Ribbon sleep equipment surprisingly moderate in price. There are more than 50 models of Blue Ribbon Beds, many of them are sure to delight you—to just fit in with your bedroom furniture. There are six different styles and prices to select from in Blue Ribbon Springs, and three splendid Blue Ribbon Mattresses, qualities all good, for you to choose from. By the way, this year on account of the low price of cotton Blue Ribbon Mattresses are exceptionally low priced.

NOTE: To be sure that you secure genuine Blue Ribbon sleep equipment, each genuine unit is plainly identified. Blue Ribbon Beds have the Blue Ribbon trademark. The Blue Ribbon tag is on the Blue Ribbon Springs—and be sure it's there—because all blue springs are not Blue Ribbon. Blue Ribbon mattresses have the Blue Ribbon label sewn on, and the name Blue Ribbon is imprinted in the ticking. The dealers whose names appear below know the advantage of using Blue Ribbon Beds, Mattresses and Springs together. You will find a representative display of this perfect sleep equipment in their stores.

Test of Music's Charms To Soothe Humans Is Near

BY SAM LOVE.

New York, March 29.—(United News.)—Music's power to soothe civilized aches and pains gets its first tryout in a big way Friday night.

Houston Ray, a wavy-haired, dreamy-eyed young concert pianist, has promised to sit down and insert vim, vigor and vitality into an audience at Carnegie hall with a grand piano and high powered electrical equipment.

Ray hopes that his audience will arrive feeling like the very devil if every seat is filled with a tummyful of Welsh rarebit and ice cream he will be tickled to death.

"Sound wave therapy," he calls it. He himself is styled "the music healer."

"Of course, I'm utterly confident the experiment will be a success," he told the United News. "You will see strange things Friday night. This is the first great public demonstration with complete equipment, but we know what we are doing."

Carnegie hall is already undergoing an odd preparation for a concert recital. Electricians are stringing heavy-current cables through its ancient apertures and attaching them to contrivances that look like overgrown radio sets.

The audience is to get a dose, not only of amplified Brahms, Beethoven and Bach, but they are to be sprayed with penetrating light rays during the process.

"By amplifying the short wave lengths in the sound wave and passing them through the body with the aid of my new therapeutic light wave," Ray explained, "the light and music vibration are so modulated that they coincide, the sound wave riding on the light wave."

Savings vs. Expense

When playing a CONN Saxophone you play your earnings into a bank account. All makes of saxophones do not. Some are a constant expense.

Two Junior League Girls Fine Arts Club Leaders

MRS. EWELL GAY.

The Fine Arts club was organized in August, 1922, and closed its membership list in September with an active limited membership of 300 and a waiting list of 150. Organized with a view to bringing into closer relation music, the drama, art and literature, the club has been highly successful in presenting unique and artistic programs at its morning meetings held in the spacious homes of its members and also in the artist recitals presented during the season in the ball room of the Piedmont Driving Club.

Every large city in the United States counts among its most cultured and exclusive clubs just such an organization, and the Atlanta Fine Arts club was patterned after the two in New York and Washington, D. C. Officers of the club have all been identified with the best interest of their city and state and have all worked for the upbuilding of both in many various ways.

The first president, Mrs. Ewell Gay, and the treasurer, Mrs. Joel Hunt, Jr., are both Junior League girls.

Mrs. Gay is the possessor of one of the most beautiful homes in Atlanta, of which she shares the pleasure with her friends. Since childhood days she has been interested in all musical affairs and has been most keen that her fellow citizens should share this pleasure. She has held leading offices in the Atlanta Music club and has given her best to aid that organization.

Mrs. Joel Hunt, Jr., while still a little girl, began teaching the mountain children around Tallulah Falls, she and her cousin, Mrs. Gay, doing such good work that their grandmother, the late Mrs. M. A. Lipscomb, found there her inspiration to found the Tallulah Falls school.

FIELD DAY EVENTS PLANNED IN TROUP

LaGrange, Ga., March 29.—(Special.)—Arrangements have been completed for the field day for rural schools of Troup county which is to be held in LaGrange, April 8. It is announced by Secretary Mousier, of the chamber of commerce.

Prizes to be awarded for the literary and athletic events will be furnished by the chamber of commerce. A total of 60 medals have been ordered for the 20 events in the field day.

All the rural schools of Troup county will take part in the event, and a list of the contests has been announced by Professor T. G. Polhill, county school superintendent.

Besides this work, the lodge is also adopting the "buddy" plan and each member is to "buddy" with one of the club boys and encourage him and aid him in any way possible with his club work until November 1.

SPORT DRESSES INSIST ON BEING TWO-PIECE

Paris, March 29.—(P)—Paris offers four rules for successful sport costumes this spring.

Number one says that the two-piece dress is best in nine cases out of ten. Paris takes it for granted this season that sport dresses should be cut with separate blouse and skirt.

The blouse is usually made in jumper or sweater style, fitted snugly at the hips and worn fairly long with a good-looking belt suitable to the costume but not necessarily of the same material.

Rule three decrees light shades, preferably grays, green, beige, or pale pastel tints, in light weight kasha, jersey, wool crepe or crepe de chine. Wool blouses are often combined with crepe de chine skirts.

The rule of straight slender lines unbroken by pleats or gathers on the sides or in the back, is the fourth.

Tornadoes are more frequent in central and southeastern United States than in all the rest of the world.

Slogans Outdo Cannon in War, Chinese Finds

BY CHANG KAI-SHEK
(Generalissimo of the Nationalist Forces in an Interview With Miss Sue Sin Far, a Eurasian Journalist.)
Hankow (Undated—By Mail.)—Sue Sin Far: General, several phases of your campaign, as well as your own attitude towards China's problems, have caused conflicting interpretations. Therefore, I ask you to submit to a catechism. (The Chinese general smiles, and good-naturedly, indicating his willingness.) You marched from Canton, at first with a small force, against armies highly superior to yours, at times, both in numbers and equipment. What is the secret of your conquest? (The Chinese general is silent for a minute, then he speaks):

Chiang Kai-Shek: We conquer with the slogan, "China for the Chinese." "Get rid of the foreign yoke." "Save China from our own militarists who sell our riches to the foreigners." "No man is so bad as not to have enough rice, and no man is so good as to have too much to waste." We have repeatedly "melted away" our adversaries' whole army corps even before we approached within their sight. (The Chinese general is silent for a few minutes, and then continues): We who formulated these slogans, succeeded in convincing our people of all classes that we were sincere and honest. Our antagonists in the past convinced the outside world that we were a group of selfish men or deluded Utopians. But the people of China as a whole became convinced of our integrity and sincerity. When we seriously commenced our campaign our recruits came from the ranks of the people who flocked to our colors inspired by a principle, while our adversaries recruited the ignorant, the rabble, the criminal, or conscripted them against their wish. Our people learned that while we were fighting for the unity of our country, our various adversaries were armed and equipped by foreigners whose only motive was to perpetuate our Chinese disunity so that they could continue their plunder of our country's resources, or eventually appropriate our soil among themselves.

Dispatches Slogan. Instead of sending skirmishers ahead of our armies, we dispatched our "slogan companies," who, in homely words and in simple terms, explained to the armies of our adversaries that we were not their enemies, but their friends; we were trying to liberate them just as we were trying to liberate ourselves from foreign domination. The slogans were effective, because they found fertile soil. Instead of butchering our own brothers for the gratification of the foreigners, we succeeded in leading them to light. Instead of capturing them and disarming them, we succeeded in inducing them to join our ranks. Instead of segregating them in prison camps, we gave them food and clothes. That is our secret.

Sue Sin Far: The foreign language press (of China) has intimated recently that you personally are not in accord with the civil government at Hankow regarding China's political policy.

Judges Policies. Chiang Kai-Shek: As a commander-in-chief of the nationalist forces, I am a soldier. I am the judge of the technical policies of the fighting forces, but the provincial civil government is the supreme dictator of all policies. I do not consult the civil cabinet on how I should attain my military objectives. Yet I do not initiate objectives without the permission of the civil government. We have no political policy. That will be conceived after our adversaries have been completely crushed.

Your question, I think, was inspired by that foreign accusation that we are going to introduce communism. I have given perhaps twenty interviews on this subject to American, English, and other correspondents, reiterating my belief that no set policy or specific system of government can be prepared beforehand for a country such as ours. Let me say it more clearly and definately this time: Our illustrious foreign secretary (Eugene Chen) is in accord with me that we shall not introduce communism into China. Our Russian friends realize this themselves. They never advise us otherwise. Ours will be a republic after a democratic pattern. We may adopt English parliamentarism. It may appear that the American method of semi-independent states, united under a federal form, would be more fitting to our conditions. We will copy several of Russia's social laws. Of course, I mean those laws with which our Russian friends have experimented, and found to be workable.

Sue Sin Far: What will be the nationalist attitude towards the so-called unequal treaties and foreign concessions when you have completely crushed your northern adversaries? Chiang Kai-Shek: I personally have no attitude. I only wish to drive Chang Tso-Lin from the Chinese soil and behold him if I capture him. After the elimination of our adversaries I shall wait for orders from the civil government, and if the people have confidence in my political wisdom, I will join the civil government and humbly assist that body in negotiating with the foreigners a set of new treaties.

We need foreign capital: we especially need America's friendship. Eventually, when the warm passions have cooled, the Americans and the English will realize that it will be to their great advantage to enter into intercourse with us as equals.

On the other hand our own people will realize that the peaceful and amiable attitude towards them of the world's two greatest nations—England and America—is precious, and without their cooperation it will be very difficult to build up our country to the status of a modern nation.

FREIGHT TRAFFIC FOR JANUARY BROKE RECORDS

Washington, March 29.—(AP)—Class one railroads during January handled the greatest freight of any January on record, the bureau of railway economics maintained here by the carriers report tonight.

Freight traffic for the month amounted to 32,228,400,000 net ton miles, which exceeded the best previous January record of 1923 by 1,516,722,000 net ton miles, or a 4 per cent increase.

In the eastern division, the bureau reported, there was an increase of 6.9 per cent in freight traffic in January compared with the same month of the year before. In the southern district there was a decrease of 3.1 per cent; in the western district, a new per cent increase.

PERMITS REQUIRED TO KILL BOBOLINKS IN GEORGIA FIELDS

Washington, March 29.—(Special.) By order of the secretary of agriculture it is no longer permitted to kill redbirds, or ricebirds, known in the north as bobolinks. In 1919, owing to the serious depredations of bobolinks on the rice crops of North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia and Florida, permission was granted by the secretary, under authority of the migratory bird treaty act, administered by the biological survey of the United States department of agriculture to kill these birds in Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland, the District of Columbia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia and Florida for the protection of rice growers. This permission is now revoked.

Under the new order, a person or members of his immediate family or bona-fide employees, owing or leasing lands in North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia or Florida on which rice is being grown, may shoot bobolinks, or ricebirds, only when authorized by a special permit issued by the secretary of agriculture and countersigned by the chief official in charge of the enforcement of the fish and game laws of the state in which the permit is effective, and only during the period from August 16 to November 15, inclusive, on rice fields where such birds are seriously injuring the crops. The birds so killed may be consumed as food, but may not be sold.

FOUR CARS OF HOGS SOLD AT THOMASVILLE

Thomasville, Ga., March 29.—(Special.)—At the cooperative hog sale held here last week out of 318 hogs offered, 265 were classed as No. 1.

The sale price was 9.75. There were four carloads sold and the H. H. Commission company of Moultrie bought the lot. W. W. Webb, of the state bureau of markets, was in charge of the sale.

The next sale will be held on April 6 at the stock pens on the Atlantic Coast Line railroad.

$200,000 To Be Spent High Tension Power Line in South Georgia

Statesboro, Ga., March 29.—(Special.)—The officials of the Georgia Power company announce the contemplated construction of a 44,000-high tension electric line between Statesboro and Swainsboro, by way of Metter, at a cost of $200,000.

This line will enable Statesboro to furnish an abundance of power for any purpose.

The company recently remodeled the local power plant at a cost of $200,000, but when the new line is completed this plant will not be used only in cases of emergency.

Courted With Coffins. Skibbereen, Ireland.—Forty coffins were among the gifts to a young woman here in a seven years' courtship. A coffin on her birthday, a coffin for Christmas, and so forth whenever a joyous occasion offered. Finally she broke off the engagement and the man wanted his coffins back, so he brought a suit for breach of promise.

It turned out that the girl's father had sold the coffins, which were valued at 66 pounds. The suit told the judge he made the coffins himself and thought the girl would appreciate them.

WOMAN RECOVERS PLUG HAT INSTEAD OF DRESSING CASE

London, March 29.—(AP)—A plug hat that turned up unexpectedly after the looting of foreigners in Nanking introduced a note of grim humor into the traffic events there.

A Shanghai dispatch from Sir Percival Phillips to the Daily Mail relates how one English woman who wanted to recover a valuable stolen as an advertisement for a movie the-dressing case from the looters sent her Chinese house boy to buy it back from the soldiers who were auctioning their loot in the streets. He returned with the box, for which he had paid five shillings, and when it was opened it was found to contain a stove pipe hat belonging to the British Consul General Giles who had been robbed.

Life-Termer, Free 15 Years, Is 'Turned Up' by Daughter

Jacksonville, Fla., March 29.—(AP) Ed Brooks, alias R. F. King, was being held by Jacksonville police for Georgia authorities as being an escaped life-term convict.

Brooks was arrested at his store here which he had been operating for four years. Since escaping from the state penitentiary at Milledgeville, Ga., in 1912, he had used the name R. F. King, authorities said.

Police said that they were informed as to his identity through his daughter, Mrs. Elizabeth Edwards, who was arrested on March 16 on a warrant sworn out by the man charging grand larceny. At the time of her arrest, police said, Mrs. Edwards said she "held something over the head" of her father. However, she did not reveal the nature of the secret until yesterday. Brooks' arrest followed and he was said to have confessed to the police.

Brooks was serving the sentence for the slaying of William S. Streatman, at Cumming, Ga., January 9, 1909, police announced.

Xmas Basket Committee Brings Comfort To Poor

MRS. HENRY TROUTMAN.

BY MRS. HENRY TROUTMAN
Chairman Christmas Basket Committee.

While others may feel that they are doing more to benefit their fellow men who are in misfortune by building along permanent lines of rehabilitation, the Atlanta Junior League's committee which has charge of the work of distributing Christmas baskets knows that there is something strangely heart-warming in their task.

To see faces brightened with hope to see starved and tired eyes light up at the sight of good, wholesome food, and to know that thin and often disease-racked bodies are being given warm clothing is the peculiarly enjoyable privilege of the league's workers who carry cheer at yuletide into homes that normally know little of mental peace.

The fascination of our work is shown by the fact that volunteers from the league's membership are numerous and eager to go about their work.

Names of deserving poor families selected to be recipients of Christmas baskets out of the bounty of the Junior League are secured from the Good Samaritan clinic and other charitable organizations, and more than fifty baskets have been delivered at a single Christmas.

The baskets are lovely and generous. They contain a big bag of groceries and a hen-bag or little, one or two—depending upon the size of the family. Flour, Irish potatoes, sweet potatoes, oatmeal, grits, mince-meat, sugar and coffee go into the grocery bag, and there is fruit for every member of the family. Stockings for every child up to 15.

years of age are supplied, and each youngster is presented with a toy. Local business firms have cooperated whole-heartedly with the committee in its work, often giving articles, and in practically every case selling them at cost.

TROUP FARMERS PLAN 50 ACRES IN PEPPER

LeGrange, Ga., March 29.—(Special.)—County Agent Dan Upshaw and a group of Troup county farmers have visited the pimento-canning factory at Woodbury and investigated the growth of pimento peppers. The trip to Woodbury was made by farmers interested in growing peppers this year and desiring to investigate its growth in that section. The manager of the factory has offered to buy the product on 50 acres of pimento peppers from Troup county farmers this year.

CANCER VICTIMS SHOW INCREASE

(By Leased Wire to The Constitution and The Chicago Tribune.)

Chicago, March 29.—Cancer, as a cause of death, has advanced from sixth to fourth place in the United States and the death rate among cancer victims has increased 50 per cent in the last 25 years.

This information is given by Dr. George A. Soper, of New York, managing director of the American society for the control of cancer, which is engaged in a campaign for funds to carry on its work.

"The public is becoming aroused rapidly to the menace of cancer," said Dr. Soper. "The work of our society no longer lies chiefly in arousing the people from a state of indifference, but in directing their energies in sane and safe directions."

"In the last ten years a million lives have been sacrificed to this plague. At the present moment more than 300,000 people in this country are suffering from cancer."

"Today, as a cause of death, cancer is preceded only by heart disease, pneumonia, and cerebral hemorrhage and softening of the brain. The reason is not simply that cancer has become more prevalent, but is due partly to the conquest of other diseases. And the great tragedy is that so many of these cancer deaths are preventable. The public must learn about the disease and know how to protect itself. This highly important work of education is now being completed on a national scale."

FLAPPER BANDIT WHO SHOT VICTIM SOUGHT BY POLICE

Chicago, March 29.—(AP)—A young and pretty flapper-bandit who shot and seriously wounded a taxi driver while her male companion looked on was sought by the police. The couple hailed the cab, climbed in and the girl drew a pistol, ordering the cab driver, Maurice Malitz, into an alley where she told her companion to search him. Malitz turned to run but the girl fired, the bullet entering his head. They fled while the cab driver found aid and was taken to the hospital.

year at $40 per ton for No. 1 peppers. Many of the farmers in the party agreed to grow a certain acreage to pepper and were given seed to plant.

Upshaw states that the pepper industry in Troup county has a bright future and the success of this year's crop will be watched with interest. Of the 50 acres contracted for, 24 have already been taken by eight farmers.

REHOBOTH BAPTISTS TO HOLD INSTITUTE

Macon, Ga., March 29.—(Special.)

The Mission Study Institute, sponsored each year by the Rehoboth association, Georgia Baptist Women's Missionary Union, will be held this year at the Vineville Baptist church in this city. It will open on April 5 for a three-day session.

Mrs. R. W. Stewart, the new mission study chairman who succeeds Mrs. J. Alden Wyche, resigned, announces that many innovations will make the program this year unusually interesting.

Mrs. Paul White, state mission leader, will be on the faculty for the foremost mission book of the day—"Today's Supreme Challenge to America," by Dr. J. F. Love. Mrs. White will also conduct a demonstration period.

A young people's book has been included in the course, this year, "Just Around the Corner Tales," by Una Roberts Lawrence, and will be taught each afternoon from 3:15 to 4:15 by Mrs. J. W. Jent.

On the night of Tuesday, April 5, a mass meeting at the Vineville Baptist church will be addressed by Rev. J. Fred Eden on the subject, "The Cost of a New World."

On Wednesday night, April 6, Rev. F. J. Fowler, a returned missionary from South America who is now studying at Mercer, will speak on "Phases of Mission Work in South America."

Leaders hope that every missionary organization in the Rehoboth association will be represented. Sessions will start at 10 a. m. and continue to 1:30, the lunch hour. At 2:15 o'clock the afternoon session will begin, ending at 4:45 each day.

Paris Designing Easter Fashions For U.S. Parades

By HAZEL REAVIS.

Paris, March 29.—(AP)—Other cities have fashion parades on Easter Sunday. Paris has one all the year 'round. Ca c'est Paris!

The city which makes the styles that the American towns wear on Easter morning takes little or no notice of Easter as a dress-parade event. An Easter hat is not a disbursement to be reckoned with in the budget of the French family. If Easter Sunday is fine, the usual well dressed promenaders are on view in the Bois and the Avenue du Bois de Boulogne or the Avenue des Champs Elysees. But Paris leaves the Easter promenade to the provinces.

A popular creation, however, is a satin and felt hat in checkered effect, which reflects many of the Paris ideas for spring without exaggerating any of them. Thin small brim, high black and square crown are typical.

There is no church parade such as New York sees on Fifth avenue between 11 and 2 o'clock, and which has its counterpart in most cities of the United States. Easter does not mark the sartorial equinox in France. The chic French woman puts on her spring clothes when the weather moves her.

If January is balmy and a precocious spring is indicated, the straw hats and spring colors come out early. This year women wore spring clothes to the opening races at Auteuil in February. But there were fur coats above them and hats were shower-proof fells. As late as April 1 straw hats were more or less subjects of comment in Paris. Further south, of course, spring clothes are seen everywhere. The French woman's first criterion of chic is suitability.

SLEEVELESS DRESSES SHOULD BE TAFFETA

Paris, March 29.—Except in taffeta one seldom sees sleeveless dresses for afternoon wear in Paris. The models without sleeves are mostly relegated to active sports of informal summer time outing frocks.

Marital and demand sponsors the rogue of taffeta for afternoon dresses. This house has several youthful models made up without sleeves, which are adapted to the slender, girlish figure. Often there is exaggerated fullness at the side or in the front of these dresses, inserted by means of a big rosette, a pouffe of silk or stiff short ruffles.

Amusement the mid-winter scramble of American buyers for spring models for the Easter millinery trade in the United States. Special early creations are always available for this clientele for their patronage is an important item on the Paris milliner's balance sheet. But the designers long ago gave up trying to understand why American women had to have spring hats by Easter or be socially ostracized.

SPRING HATS MATCH PLAID LINED COATS

Paris, March 29.—Hats of plaid to match plaid taffeta linings and scarfs are widely shown in Paris. The style is popular for wear with spring coats of navy blue with silk facings and linings. The most seen are of blue and white, blue and beige, navy and cambridge blue plaids.

For late summer wear the same

New Members of League Must Pass Strict Tests

MRS. WALTER DUPREE.

BY MRS. WALTER DUPREE,
Chairman of Provisional Members Committee.

"Who gives himself with his arms feeds through himself, his hungering neighbor and me."

That beautiful formula for charity was long ago adopted by the Junior League with very satisfying results. To serve, and through definite personal service, to develop its members to the highest degree of usefulness is the ideal of the organization.

Realizing that an understanding of the general problems back of the specific work to be done is essential for the most efficient service, the Atlanta Junior League has instituted a course of training for its new members—in reality a brief survey of some of the big needs of the city and the organizations trying to fill them. The successful completion of this course is requisite to membership in the league.

The 22 debutantes and young matrons of this year's class have worked faithfully and cheerfully. Since the league's biggest work has been with child health at the Good Samaritan clinic, it was decided that a study of some child problems would be very fitting.

The following phases of normal child life were discussed: "The Family as the Child's Background," Miss Woolfolk; "The Child at Play," Miss Frank; "Holland: 'The Child at School,'" Mr. Sutton; "Problems of the Diseased Child," by Dr. Ellis; "The Delinquent Child," by Judge Watkins; and "The Dependent Child," by Miss Rhoda Kaufman, and were interestingly presented. Mrs. Alonzo Richardson explained very clearly the much needed children's code. Upon the completion of the series of lectures each girl was required to do supervised social work at the clinic. Atlanta stands with the other more progressive leagues in the country in requiring such a course. We believe it well worth the time and effort spent. It sets a definite standard for the admission of new members. It enables them to do the work of the league with more intelligence, efficiency and sympathy. It gives them some ideas of the social problems of their community and state, and of the agencies dealing with them. And in the end, we feel that it helps them to develop into more thoughtful and more useful citizens.

ALERTOX

PHYSICAL FITNESS MENTAL EFFICIENCY

[ 25c and 60c Sizes

Does not interfere with household or business habits —

Pleasant to take and guaranteed not to sicken or nauseate —

The discovery of Alertox, by a distinguished chemist, is said to be the greatest medical find of the age. Scientific research discloses the fact that poison bile in the system is merely a contributory cause to constipation and biliousness, either of which, if not corrected, lead to so many serious diseases, such as dyspepsia, indigestion, jaundice, gall stones, rheumatism, acidosis and other auto-intoxications, all of which are now known to be caused by a drying out of the accumulated bile and intestinal contents, the result of insufficient secretions of the liver and intestinal glands. Alertox increases fluidity and the flow of bile and stimulates intestinal secretions, thus flushing the alimentary tract and re-establishing a physical (or natural) healthy action of the liver and bowels, at the same time neutralizing the acidity of the system and fortifying it against future attacks. Everyone should avoid the use of strong purgatives that merely goad the liver and cause a "chemical" evacuation, leaving the system weak and run down. You will get much quicker and more pleasant and lasting relief by flushing the liver and bowels with Alertox, which is pleasant to take, non-irritating, non-absorbent and will not sicken or nauseate. Alertox is far more effective and much nicer to use than calomel, oils or other nauseating cathartics and it is perfectly safe and harmless. If your druggist cannot supply Alertox, it will be sent direct, postpaid, upon receipt of price.

From the River-Bank

(From the Junior League Bulletin)
Here and there a water-lily floats on the river.
Fog rises thinly from the wet,
mouldy ledge.
And the slim, sharp dagger of the new moon's shadow
Is broken into splinters at the water's edge.
The fence is a murderer, lurking in the half-light.
The stones are the victims of his indolent wrath.
And now the mists and vapours, that cling to the hollows Are torn apart and twisted in the light wind's path.
Who is it walking through the thick padded silence, Treading on the river, and breaking up the moon?
Who is it dancing through the fog-shrouded meadow,
Swaying low and stepping to an old phantom tune?
Now everything is still, the mists gather closer.
Now there are two moons, ice-white and clear.
And only a lily-pad, floating on the water
To tell which moon is there, and which moon here.

METER LIGHT PLANT
SOLD TO POWER FIRM

Metter, Ga., March 29.—(Special.)
The mayor and council has sold the Metter light plant to the Georgia Power company for $40,000 cash, effective April 1, it is announced.
The city officials have had this matter under consideration for several months.
The city of Metter will retain all real estate, the sale including only the light plant machinery. The waterworks will be operated by the city, the power company to furnish power to pump water for the city.
The power company will erect a sub-station in the city limits at a cost from $8,000 to $10,000, the work to begin in the next few days.
The power company lines, which will come to Metter from Swainsboro and Claxton, will be completed within 60 days, according to the officials.

London Acclaims Six American Actresses

London, March 29.—American actresses are conspicuously successful on the London stage.
In fact they have been so successful in the last three or four years that British critics are endeavoring to discover the qualities in American women which appeal so strongly to British theatergoers and are emphasizing the fact that New York employs countless men from the British stage, but seldom employs English actresses.

Miss Dorothy Dickson of Kansas City, and Miss Tullulah Bankhead, of Alabama, have played constantly in London now for several years and have virtually adopted this as their home. When Miss Dickson was selected to play Peter Pan in the latest revival of Barrie's famous play she was recognized as "homefolds."
Miss Edith Day also is regarded almost as one of England's own. Her conspicuous success in "Rose Marie" at the Drury Lane theater resulted in her engagement for the new production in that theater, "The Desert Song."
Miss Bankhead established herself firmly by her performances in "The Creaking Chair," "They Knew What They Wanted," and "The Green Hat."
She also is so popular in Avery Hop-wood's "The Gold Diggers," which is now running successfully in London with her and Miss Jobyna Howland, also an American, in the roles of the two chief gold-diggers, that her future on the British stage seems very rosy.

Miss Edna Thomas, of New Orleans, is another American artist who won the affections of the British public much as Miss Kitty Cheatham did many years ago. Miss Thomas' singing of negro spirituals and southern melodies has won her a large following.

Miss Pauline Frederick, whom the British public learned to know through her film work, is the latest American actress to appear in London, and her performance in "Madame X" promises to be as successful as Miss Jane Cowl was when she came to London last year in Noel Coward's "Easy Vi-tue."

Poem

(From the Junior League Bulletin)
I am finished, they say,
In their satisfied way,
And I've left all my schooling behind me,
But they seem to forget
I know nothing as yet.
As my coming out served to remind me.

I can Charleston like mad,
And bridge is my fad,
But I never could be a breadwinner.

What good is a knowledge Acquired at college
When I can't order tea, lunch or dinner.

I know French verbs galore
And I've learnt not to bore
But I couldn't make coffee to save me.
I'm quite widely read
But I can't make a bed.
It's a fine education they gave me!
—D. M., N. Y.

Two Songs

(From the Junior League Bulletin)
I know a golden ballad,
Of sun and wind a song,
Of heart that travels fierce and free
The living journey long.
For dawn is flame and fever,
The moon is thunder-blue,
And dusk is hard persuaded
To cool the heat of you.

I know a song of silver,
Of hemlocks and the moon,
The shadowed silence of the night
That finds the dawn too soon,
A song of stars and mountains
In evening's minor key,
And morning goes a begging
By all the likes of me.

And the wayward Pan's sharp hoof.
Better when from frozen lakes
Comes the clink of silver skates
From below the rugged hills.
You will not go forth so soon

Such a lot to cook,—
She can never settle down

Moved Half Building.

Pittsburgh, Pa.—Lee C. Beatty, attorney, knows nothing of engineering but his "thinking cap" saved a contractor $15,000.
When a downtown street was widened contractors were called in to get rid of 20 feet from the end of a massive stone building. They decided to tear down the end of the building and rebuild it 20 feet back. Beatty suggested tearing down the middle and moving the end back intact.

Don't Ask "When Do We Eat?"---Visit the Junior League Tea Room

Decorated in the quaint and charming French peasant style, the Junior League tea room in the Medical Arts building on Peachtree street is proving immensely popular with the public. Here's a view of the dining room, with the specially-constructed French chimney in the background.

Scalloped Lobster.

Two cans lobster, 1 1/2 cups white sauce, 2 teaspoons lemon juice, 1/2 teaspoon salt, a few grains cayenne.
Flake the fish, or if fresh is used, remove the lobster meat from shell and cut in cubes. Heat in the white sauce and add seasonings. Refill lobster shells or put in ramekins, cover with buttered crumbs and bake until crumbs are brown. To prevent shells from curling over lobster while baking, insert small wooden skewers of sufficient length to keep shell in its original shape. To assist in preserving color of shell, brush over with olive oil before putting into oven.

Sea Foam.

One cup coconut, 2 cups brown sugar, 1-8 teaspoon soda, 2 egg whites, 1 cup water.Stir sugar and water over fire until dissolved, then add soda. Put coconut through food chopper. Beat whites of eggs until dry. Adding syrup slowly, keep beating until stiff, then add soda and coconut. Drop from a teaspoon on a buttered platter. Sprinkle with coconut and cool.

Stuffed Figs.

Steam dried figs and then remove the inside pulp with a sharp knife.

Moisten chopped nuts with a syrup of sugar and pineapple juice, or the juice from preserved ginger. Refill the fig skins with this mixture and roll in powdered sugar.

Sugared Nuts.

One-half cup sugar, 1 egg white, 1-4 pound shelled English walnuts.Beat white slightly with a fork.
Turn nuts into white and thoroughly coat them with it. Add sugar and stir until nuts are covered. Then brown in oven.

Candied Orange Peel.

4 oranges.
1 cup sugar.Remove the peel in quarters from 4 thin-skinned oranges. Cover with cold water, bring to boiling point, and cook slowly until soft. Drain. Remove white portion, using a spoon, and cut yellow portion in strips with scissors.
Boil water and sugar until syrup threads when dropped from tip of spoon. Cook strips in syrup 5 minutes. Coat with fine granulated sugar.
Spread on oiled paper to dry.

Cheese Wafers.

One-half glass currant jelly, 1 package cream cheese, 1-4 pound salted pecans, saltine wafers.
Spread the saltines with the jelly;press cheese through a sieve or ricer, top each with a pecan. Serve with and place a mound on each cracker, afternoon tea.BAGS—HOSIERY

For Every Occasion There's Bountiful Sentiment in A Gift of Flowers

THIS TIME of the year more than any other suggests the colorful, radiant and most expressive gift of all—Flowers. Within their joyous bloom is the sentiment of love, friendship and adoration. And whatever the occasion, flowers symbolize your thoughts in the glorious manner which brings fullest appreciation. Certainly the significance of Easter which is just two weeks hence, will be suggestive of the many beautiful flowers, fresh and ready for prompt delivery by the Atlanta florists listed below.

Wuxtry Poiper!

Circulations in Atlanta would take a tremendous boom if "newsies" like these yelled their wares on street corners regularly instead of just today, when members of the Atlanta Junior League give the newsboys a vacation and sell their special edition of The Constitution downtown. These fair paper vendors are Misses Sarah Hurt and Ida Sadler.

JUNIOR LEAGUE "FOLLIES"—For several past years the league has raised funds by staging theatrical performances with its own members composing the cast. This year the special edition of The Constitution provided funds for the work. In this group, made at last year's "Follies" rehearsals, are, front row, left to right: Miss Louise Stubbs, Mrs. Grady Black, Misses Alice Stearns, Nell Sims and Aileen Lonsdale, Mrs. Clairburn Glover, Miss Maria Brown and Mrs. Eugene Black, Jr.; back row, the former Miss Almeda Van Dyke, Miss Rebecca Ashcraft and Mrs. Preston Arkwright, Jr.

FEEDING YOUNG ATLANTA—Many children in the public city schools are served a free lunch each school day by a committee from the Junior League.

The Entire Resources of This Great Store—Completely at Your Command

Wherever you may be, a wire, a letter or a telephone call to Penelope Penn at Rich's enables you to secure at once any information, help or suggestion concerning the purchase of gifts or remembrances for all occasions. The vast stock of merchandise which we have here for you is available thru Miss Penn. And that item large or small will be selected with the same discriminating care and the same interested intelligence which you yourself would exercise. Busy business men find this service particularly convenient on the occasions of birthdays, anniversaries, or any other time when gifts are desired.

Other services consist of rail reservations, tourists information, library service, theater tickets and general information of every character. Take advantage of this bureau of free service at your disposal.

A LEAGUER IN LEAGUE WITH NORRIS—Miss Ida Sadler, pretty young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gillespie Sadler in Thirteenth street, is sweet proof of the aphorism "She Prefers NORRIS"

OLD AN League league.

MEMBERSHIP OF THE JUNIOR LEAGUE—This photograph was taken at a recent meeting of the league at the Piedmont Driving club. A few of the leaguers were unable to attend and do not appear in the picture.

Work of Junior League Told In Pictures

No more influential charitable organization exists in Atlanta today than the Junior League, the membership of which is composed of daughters of the city's most prominent families. Debutantes, business women and young matrons—all work together to alleviate the condition of unfortunates. This year the league secured its charity funds by sponsoring this special edition of The Constitution. League members sold advertising, edited the special sections and attended to all details of the mammoth publication.

OLD NEW—Despite the fact that this cozy old fireplace with its homey pot is a charming feature of the Junior League tea room, the food is the best that modern equipment can turn out. Mrs. Eugene Black, Jr., president of the league, and Miss Jeanette Bailey pose in this quaint reminder of days of old.

Genuine Orange Blossom Wedding Rings

"With this ring I do thee wed."

Orange blossoms . . . the bride-flower of tradition . . . beautifully chased in hard iridio-platinum or special 18-k white gold . . . some jeweled with fine diamonds. Such exquisitely beautiful wedding rings as these are worthy of placing on the fairest bride's finger with the eternal vow of "With this ring I do thee wed."

Genuine Orange Blossom Engagement Rings

Engagement rings of unusual beauty of design, set with finest quality diamonds, in a variety of sizes are here in a number of the newest styles. You may choose a ring of distinctive beauty set with the carat diamond you wish to purchase.

Mrs. Green Warren, a Junior League Bride, noted for her Southern beauty and charm. Her keen sense of artistic beauty was shown in choosing Genuine Orange Blossom Engagement and Wedding Rings to match.

EQUIPPED BY THE LEAGUE—The Junior League "mothers" the Good Samaritan clinic as one of its charities. Children are brought to this dental clinic for treatment and correction work. Mrs. Lott Warren, Jr., and Mrs. Waldo Mallory are shown inspecting it.

CHEERING WAR-WOUNDED is another work which the Junior League carries on. A committee visits every week the United States hospital on Peachtree road, provides radio entertainment, auto rides, cigarettes and delicacies for the men there.

INTO THE MOUTHS OF BABES goes milk, good rich milk that builds healthy bodies of good citizens. Mrs. Eugene Black, Jr., president, here is shown in the work of distributing milk. The milk committee distributes more than 400 pints of milk each month to homes greatly in need of it.
